BIG DIXIE CLIPPER OPENS TRANSOCEAN AIR SERVICE

Port Washington, N. Y., June 28.—The first paying passengers ever to be flown by airplane across the Atlantic stepped rather casually aboard the big gray Dixie Clipper today and a minute later were off for Europe—scheduled to arrive at Horta, the Azores, by breakfast tomorrow. While 5,000 spectators waved, and harbor craft saluted with whistles, the $750,000 flying boat of Pan American Airways taxied smoothly over Manhasset Bay—then upward and out, opening a new era in aviation. With the ship's departure at 2:12 p. m. (E. S. T.) on a 4,650-mile flight, aviation's long-cherished dream of regular transatlantic passenger service by plane became a reality. Twenty-two passengers, some of whom applied for passage as long as eight years ago, and a crew of 11 were aboard the 1-ton flying boat that started the schedule of twice-weekly clipper flights to Europe. Twenty-five minutes after the Dixie Clipper's departure, another flight ended on the other side of the Atlantic, when the Yankee Clipper, inaugurating regular mail service between the United States and England via Newfoundland, arrived at Southampton. Band music and cannon salutes from four yacht clubs sounded as the Dixie soared away on her journey to Horta, Lisbon and Marseille. The village was flag-draped for the departure. The flying boat whose wing spread is 62 feet greater than the over-all length of Christopher Columbus' flagship, the Santa Maria, has sleeping quarters for 40 and flight decks comparable to a ship's bridge. Six of the 22 passengers are women. Mrs. Clara Adams, of Masspeh, N. Y., a veteran of history-making flights, planned to keep on going after she reached Europe, and circle the world on regular passenger planes. She expected to arrive home in 161 days. Another passenger, Julius Rappaport, Allentown, Pa., attorney, also planned a globe-circling journey. All the passengers have had flying experience, and most are veterans of the airways. Several heads of corporations were in the group that paid $375 for one way fare or $675 round trip. The schedule called for a one-hour refueling stop at Horta, and an overnight stop at Lisbon, the clipper continuing to Marseille the next day, in a total elapsed time of 48 hours out of New York. The return trip is to start Sunday. One passenger, W. J. Eck, said he applied for space on the first transatlantic flight with passengers as far back as 1931, "and I've been calling up every few months since then—just to hurry them up."

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them! Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood streams free of wastes toxic impurities. The act of living—the daily—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging headaches, persistent headaches, attacks of dizziness, gaiting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body wastes. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed by the country over. Inside Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.
