A TRIBUTE

In the passing of Mrs. Betty Poythress loved ones and a host of friends will miss the smile and quiet gentle ways of a motherly woman. Beautiful gray wavy hair adorned her brow.

She was called Mam-my by all who knew her best. Proverbs thirty-one read at her funeral was appropriate of a life so worthily lived. Her children rise up and call her blessed and thank the Heavenly Father for the untiring love and voiceless prayers of their mother.

After the death of her husband Mam-my lived with her children and was always a welcomed guest in their home, and was given all the tenderness and unselfish thoughtfulness they could render their eighty-five years old mother to make her declining years the happiest. Remarkable for her age her mind was clear and she never lost interest in the affairs of the day.

Her eye-sight grew dim but the light grew brighter on the other side as was evidenced in her last hours by calling the names of loved ones who had preceded her to the glory world.

Alas! too well we know our loss, nor hope again our joy to touch, until the stream of death we cross.

Our beloved seems so far, while we yearn to feel her near.

Dear Lord, how shall we know that they, still walk unseen with us and Thee?

Jesus says: Abide in me. We will think of her still as the same and say, She is not dead. She is just away.

Mrs. Poythress joined the church when ten years old.

To her children Mrs. Mattie Southall, Mrs. Eva Sheffield, Mrs. Annie Pruitt, Mrs. Lillian Smith and her sons, John, Rufus, Ernest, George and the granddaughter, Mrs. Gladys Beasley, I extend sympathy.

MRS. J. F. MITCHNER.

PRaises "THE LOST COLONY"

Manteo, N. C.—Time Magazine features a full-length review of Paul Green's "The Lost Colony" in the July 10th issue which was released this week. The review in the provocative newsmagazine was written by Louis Kronenberger, dramatic critic, who came from New York to attend the opening performance of the third summer season at the Waterside Theatre here July 1.

To quote the last paragraph of the Kronenberger review: "Paul Green wrote no glib anniversary pageant. His scenes range from the humorous to the heroic. With great sincerity he infused into the dreams of his lost colonists his own dream of democracy. And by using lovely and moving old Elizabethan ballads and hymns he gave 'The Lost Colony' a lyric quality that words could not have achieved."—Time Magazine, July 10th.

The farm population of the United States on January 1 was close to the largest on record, the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics accounting for 32,659,000 living on the farm.
