WORK is a habit, and to those who acquire it it becomes fun, relaxation coming through the kind of work done. In analyzing the lives of successful men and women, we usually find that they got the work habit early in life and never lost it.

TURKEY FESTIVAL

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 12.—The Casting of 150 roles to be played in the pageant "Turkeyrama" on both nights of the Rockingham Turkey Festival September 4-5, is nearing completion and the pageant master will arrive August 16 to begin rehearsal.

"Turkeyrama" consists of 12 episodes and some 20 scenes, depicting the history of Rockingham county and the importance of turkey-raising in its growth. Many of the scenes attain spectacular in scope of pictorial effect and will prove a test of the best efforts and equipment in staging and lighting.

Some of the most colorful scenes will involve the long struggle between the Indian and white pioneer for mastery of the lush woodland which was the habitat of the turkey before breeders in this section of the country realized the possibilities of large scale raising. Many of the 150 characterizations will require expert acting and this entire neighborhood is being combed to find suitable players to take the dialogue parts.

An innovation hereabouts will be two episodes depicting the role of the turkey in the Revolutionary War and the War Between the States.

Many of the stage properties will be either so old or so new that they will be unique to people in this neighborhood. Some of them will be brought here from a distance to add authenticity to the World's first Turkey pageant.

With less than a month remaining, committees are beginning to operate at high speed in order to present a festival free of flaws and one whose program will move with clockwork precision.
