TOBACCO OUTLOOK FOR 1940

(By W. C. Boyce, County Agent)
"The Agricultural Situation" for November, 1939 which is published by the United States Department of Agriculture has an article on 1940 tobacco outlook by C. E. Gage which I am sure is of much interest to tobacco farmers in Franklin County.

The following are important statements as taken from this article:
"The tobacco situation, present and prospective, contains more complexities than usual—improving domestic demand for the major tobacco products, oversupply of many types of leaf tobacco, exports impaired by war conditions, expedients to ameliorate the effects of halted British buying, heightened foreign duties on tobacco, referenda on marketing regulation, increasing foreign production, and so on. Out of this conglomeration of factors it is possible to discern some hopeful signs as an offset to some that are not so hopeful.

The export outlook for flue-cured tobacco may be summed up as follows: Exports to the Far East are likely to be somewhat smaller next year. England has temporarily stopped the importation of tobacco insofar as the use of dollar exchange is concerned.

The cessation of British buying means that manufacturers will cut deeper and deeper into their present 2-year supply of American leaf and probably increase their usage of Empire tobacco. In effect, while British stocks of flue-cured tobacco are being depleted abroad a reservoir of similar tobacco is being built up over here by which to make up the deficiency if and when the restrictions are removed and English concerns elect to exercise their options.

"However, there is more to this situation than a mere delay in the timing of British imports of American flue-cured tobacco. Twice this year the English duty has been upped—by 2 shillings per pound each time. This fact alone would impair the position of our flue-cured tobacco in competition with that from Empire sources. Taken in conjunction with the stoppage of imports above referred to, there is bound to follow a considerable shift from American to Empire tobacco, and this shift may be of great importance in the future.

"Unquestionably there is an oversupply of flue-cured tobacco at this time—the largest crop and the second largest July stocks in history. July stocks next year cannot fall of setting an all-time high, so that if no improvement occurs in the export situation and if there is not an heroic cut in production, the marketing situation in 1940-41 will be bad indeed. Under these circumstances the action of growers in voting into effect a drastic control program for 1940 was most opportune. This, combined with the steadily improving domestic situation, may spell the difference between a fairly-satisfactory market and disaster a year hence."

Results recently summarized by

L. T. Weeks, Extension Tobacco Specialist from State College, for variety test conducted by J. W. Hudson, Youngsville, N. C. R. 1, showed Mammoth Gold to return the highest cash income per acre. Mr. Hudson planted this tobacco on Appling fine sandy loam soil and used 1000 pounds of 3-10-6 fertilizer to the acre and planted in rows four feet apart with 26 inches on drill. The production, average price per 100 pounds and value of crop less cost of fertilizer is as follows by varieties:

Variety	Total Yield Per Acre	Aver. price per 100 lbs.	Value of crop less cost of fertilizer
Mammoth Gold	1520	$17.90	$249.74
Yellow Mammoth	1465	17.19	240.27
Bonanza	1495	17.30	226.40
Virginia Brigt Leaf	1485	16.78	223.87
Four Hundred	1390	16.75	221.25
White Stem Orinoco	1380	16.58	217.20
Gold Dollar	1330	16.68	210.37
Cash	1110	15.11	156.13

Timely Farm Questions
Answered at State College

QUESTION: What is the best green feed for poultry in winter?
ANSWER: Cured alfalfa hay, lespedeza, or clover hay make good greens for winter use provided the green color is retained. Alfalfa leaf meal, if green in color, also makes a satisfactory feed, but should not constitute more than ten per cent of the mash. This feed is much preferred to alfalfa meal which has a high fiber content, but neither is as satisfactory as green alfalfa hay. All the hays should be fed in racks as the birds will eat only the leaves and the stems can then be thrown in the litter.

QUESTION: Should shade trees be pruned in winter the same as fruit trees or shrubs?
ANSWER: No! Many beautiful groves are ruined each year by quack tree surgeons or by superstitious persons. Shade trees should be allowed to form their natural shape and, if there are too many trees, thin them out rather than cut them back. For scale control, the trees should be sprayed with lime-sulphur or miscible oil. The same treatment should be applied to fruit trees and shrubs. Be sure that the air is still and not too cold when the spray is applied.

QUESTION: How can stomach worms be controlled in a herd of young cattle?
ANSWER: Preventive measures are very important in controlling this parasite. The pasture should be well drained and the cattle frequently changed to fresh pasture. Drinking water should be supplied from a well or from flowing streams preferably in troughs above the level of the ground. The medical treatment consists of drenching the animals with a solution of copper sulphate made by dissolving one-fourth pound of clear blue crystals of copper sulphate in one pint of boiling water and adding enough cold water to make three gallons of the solution. For yearling cattle the dose is six fluid ounces and a second treatment should be given in ten to fourteen days.

It has been estimated that more than 12,000 acres have been seeded to winter cover crops in Northampton County this fall, says Assistant Farm Agent H. G. Snipes.

So many farmers are seeding eye in Granville County this fall that practically all supplies of seed have been exhausted, reports Assistant Farm Agent W. B. Jones.

Skipper "Anchors" Himself in Bay; Party He Set Adrift Saves Him

Right, Skipper Holloway who nearly drowned in middle of Chesapeake and, above, East, showing Holloway's position when he was snatched aboard.

DRAGGED under water by a heavy anchor rope that had snarled around his legs and pulled him overboard on a night fishing trip, Vaden Holloway, of Messick, Virginia, was saved from drowning when his companions located him with a flashlight and guided their launch to him.

Holloway, the boat's skipper, had gone forward to weigh anchor and move to another position. But he had untied the anchor rope, and when his feet became entangled in the coils on deck, he was dragged overboard, carrying the rope with him. The launch, freed from its anchor, drifted rapidly away on an outgoing Chesapeake Bay tide.

"The anchor hook was still holding on the bottom," Holloway said, "with the tide running so strong that I was pulled well under. The harder I struggled to free my legs, the more the rope dragged me down. I was anchored there, ten miles from shore, in pitch darkness. No one had heard me go overboard, and the boat was fast drifting out to sea.

"Working to keep my head above water, I shouted to them as loud as I could. I didn't think they'd ever hear me, but finally some one did. The boat carried only one small oil lantern and its beam wasn't strong enough to do any good. "Then somebody found the one flashlight on board. We had used it a good deal but the batteries were fresh when we put them in, and so they still worked okay. Although the boat was picking up speed on the outgoing tide, they located me with this light.

"While one tried to keep the beam focused on me, the others worked to get the motor started. Despite their efforts, it wouldn't turn over. It resisted everything they could do as they drifted farther and farther away. I was pretty weak, but I managed to shout directions to them."

Finally the boys got the engine going and brought the boat around. When they reached Holloway the drag of the anchor was so strong that it took two men to hold him up while a third freed him from the anchor rope.
