Marion Deal, a demonstration farmer of Macon County, partly overcame dry weather by turning a creek into his garden to irrigate his vegetables, says T. H. Fagg, assistant farm agent of the State College Extension Service.

Mr. J. Y. Beasley, Louisville, R. 3, planted 5 acres to Coker's Redhart, St. 5, wheat. Mr. Beasley reported that this wheat was combined and weighed and at 60 pounds to bushel produced 177 bushels. Mr. Beasley is cooperating in a program of improved small grain seed production in Franklin County and has planted improved wheat, barley and oats for seed.

Mr. Geo. W. Eaves, Henderson, R. 1, reported a yield of 180 bushels on 6 acres or 30 bushels per acre. Mr. Eaves' wheat was fertilized with 450 pounds of 2-10-6 fertilizer to the acre at time of seeding and 110 pounds of nitrate of soda broadcast in two applications. Mr. Eaves advised that his entire crop was not weighed but representative bags were weighed and production figured from average weights.

Several reports of poor yields of small grain have been received and I think productions of this type demonstrate the value of fertilizer both under and on small grain.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Dr. R. F. Yarborough, County Health Officer

There have been two cases of typhoid fever reported in Franklin County this year. One in Sandy Creek and one in Harris Township. Both of these cases are colored and neither has ever been vaccinated. Now is the time to be if you have not been in the past year or two.

Typhoid vaccination has reduced the occurrence of this disease to a minimum in Franklin County. If you have not been vaccinated in the past year or so be vaccinated against typhoid fever at once and protect yourself against this disease.

Typhoid fever is a very dangerous disease and the mildest case entails a considerable loss of useful occupation and if the patient and attendants are not most careful subjects attendant, family and neighbors to the danger of contracting it.

Be sure your water supply is pure, that you have a sanitary toilet and that your home is thoroughly screened. Typhoid fever is the result of swallowing the germ from the bowel discharges of some person having typhoid fever or who is a typhoid fever carrier. The typhoid germs are frequently carried by contamination of milk and other food. Flies are a fertile source for disseminating typhoid germs. Flies crawl on discharges from a typhoid fever patient or carrier and then crawling over unprotected food leave the typhoid germs. Pure water, a sanitary toilet and well screened home are, to a great extent, insurance against this dread disease.

Under present rationing, food supplies in most countries of continental Europe are expected to be sufficient to prevent serious distress at least until the arrival of the new crop.

Four-H Club boys of Rutherford County are taking more interest in purebred dairy calves than in any previous years, reports J. J. Hamlin, Jr., assistant farm agent.

An Old Art Flourishes at Greenfield

DEARBORN, Mich.—In the days when the tintype was the last word in photography, the gentleman was always seated and his lady stood when they faced the camera. That's still the procedure at the Tintype Studio in Greenfield Village, Dearborn, Michigan, where thousands of visitors have called since the Village was founded a dozen years ago by Henry Ford. The 75-year-old tintypist, Charles Tremear, learned his trade over a half century ago.

Coccidiosis has been reported among baby chicks in Beaufort County this year, but in most instances the disease has been brought under control with but little loss.

Corn and hogs continue as the most popular projects conducted by 4-H Club members of Jones County, reports Jack Kelley, assistant farm agent of the N. C. State College Extension Service.

A definite trend toward beef cattle production is becoming increasingly apparent in Wake County, reports J. D. Thompson, assistant farm agent of the N. C. State College Extension Service.

Whether correct or not, first impressions are usually lasting.

North Carolina farmers this year expect to harvest the largest wheat acreage since 1938, says W. T. Wesson, junior statistician of the State Department of Agriculture.

Fonzer Young, a unit demonstration farmer of the Cane Creek community, is the first in Mitchell County this year to dig a trench silo, says Assistant Farm Agent W. C. Maness.

Where he applied phosphate on his land, M. L. Griffith, a grower of the Peppers community in Mitchell County, estimates his cover to be five times better than on his untreated land.

Fourteen 4-H Club Boys and Girls from Franklin County attend Camp Millstone

During the week of June 16-21 fourteen boys and girls attended the 4-H Club Camp at Camp Millstone near Ellerbe, N. C. They were in camp with similar groups from Person, Granville and Wake counties. During the day the campers received instruction in basketry weaving, good grooming, courtesies, and electrical appliances for the home. The afternoon and night programs consisted of recreational programs. The campers from Franklin County were: Wynonia Bunn, Jean Dickerson, Evelyn Spencer, Margaret Person, Barbara Jane Perry, Genora Jane Harris, Rebecca Wilson, Louis Pippin, Jerry Ball, Delano Ray, Nelson Pearce, Thomas Ayscue, W. C. Coppedge and Edsel Privette. Mrs. Eva Person accompanied the group as a counselor and Mrs. Elmo Dean was camp nurse.

Margaret Person won a certificate for doing the best basket weaving of any girl in camp and another certificate for being one of the best eight-campers selected by the boys and girls. W. C. Coppedge was a second choice for the best boy in his group and was recognized in the candlelighting service on Friday night.

Any women who are interested in attending Farm and Home Week at State College, Aug. 4-8, may send their $1.00 registration fee to Mrs. Nelle Meacham, State College, Raleigh, N. C. Rooms are to be assigned in order requests are received. If registration fee is sent before hand cards will be mailed out so that it will not be necessary to register on arriving at the college and the women may go directly to the dormitory assigned.
