

YOUNGSVILLE SCHOOL NEWS

By M. K. Carswell, Prin.

The Youngsville High School held its Junior-Senior banquet at the Community house Friday evening, April 7. The teachers and the school committee also participated, and all seemed to have a pleasant time.

The Agriculture Shop is sending out a notice as follows:

The Agriculture Shop of the Youngsville School will be open each Tuesday and Thursday night during April. The purpose of keeping the shop open is to give the farmers of the Community an opportunity to repair or build any of their farm equipment.

The shop will be open for the first time on Thursday night, April 6th, at 7:30. The shop will be open from 7:30 - 10:30. The shop has over $2,000 worth of equipment. We are prepared to build anything usually needed on the average farm.

You bring your own work, furnish the material, and we will lend you the tools. THERE WILL BE NO COST CONNECTED WITH THE REPAIR OR CONSTRUCTION OF YOUR EQUIPMENT.

NOW IS THE TIME FOR YOU TO REPAIR THE EQUIPMENT THAT YOU WILL NEED DURING THE BUSY SEASON.

For further details or information come to the Youngsville Agriculture Shop . . . THURSDAY . . . APRIL 6th . . . 7:30.

DO YOU NEED THE FOLLOWING . . .

Window Screens, Screen Doors, Tobacco Slides, Wagon Body, Chicken Feeders, Repair Plows, Build Tables, Build Furniture, Sharpen Axes, Self Feeder for hogs, Sharpen Mower Blades, Outdoor Furniture, Put handles in tools, Build ladders, Scalding vats.

And most any other problem or repair job?

If Thomas Jefferson were living today, we would insist that all useful knowledge and scientific practices be applied to farming in wartime food production. He was a champion of rural democracy.

The latest Gallup Poll on Victory Gardens shows that the number to be planted is about 19 1/2 million. This is 2 1/2 million short of the goal. Join the Victory Garden Army and fight for your country.

THE LOW DOWN

HICKORY GROVE

You know, this old Sooner, Mr. Ed Moore, is no ordinary hombre.

You don't too often find outspoken fellows like him, bustin' into the U. S. A. Senate. He is down there representing Oklahoma.

He don't give a hoot about getting appointed to a Postmaster's job or something in case his people don't send him back to the Senate. He votes as he sees fit—nobody prompts him.

This Mr. Moore is an independent oil producer and farmer—he knows the oil business backwards and forwards. He 'rose up there in the Senate the other day and told them an ear full. He told 'em that this "oil shortage" which is now being forced upon us is artificial and an out-and-out plan concocted to "put the Govt. right smack, and up to the hilt, in the oil business, all the way from producing to marketing. And no foolin', he says, it is the planned plan.

Once the Govt. takes over our service stations and starts running them like the SEC and the OPA and the other outfits that boss us around, it is going to be too late to do any good by getting mad. Now is the time to get hot under the collar and talk turkey to congress. Tell 'em, and make it robust.

Yours with the low down, JO SERRA.

Rest Awaits Marines After 23 Days of Fighting

Tired and weary after 23 consecutive days and nights of fighting in the front lines of Cape Gloucester, New Britain, these Marines, being transferred for a well-earned rest, are awaiting other members of their outfit to join them.

CORN PRICE

Raleigh, April 12.—No increase in the price of corn for the 1944 crop year is being considered by the Office of Price Administration, Theodore S. Johnson, District director at Raleigh announced.

"The decision to hold corn prices at their 1943 levels was made because corn is the basic feed for livestock and poultry," he explained. "The great majority of farm families would suffer rather than benefit from an increase in the price of corn.

"An increase in the price of corn would not bring any substantial increase in corn production, but would raise the price of beef, veal, lamb, mutton, pork, butter, eggs, poultry and other livestock products without increasing their output," he pointed out.

The tomato is regarded as one of the most rewarding crops for the Victory garden. A small space yields from half a peck to a peck per plant without difficulty. It grows well almost any place in North Carolina and affords high nutritional values whether used fresh or canned.

IRISH POTATOES

Raleigh, April 10.—While Eastern North Carolina producers of Irish potatoes are attempting "between showers" to plant this year's crop, producers in the western counties of the State are making efforts to remove last year's surplus of an estimated 50 to 60 carloads, the Markets Division of the State Department of Agriculture said recently.

The War Food Administration, the report stated, has purchased 15 carloads in Watauga and Ashe counties, and two Department specialists are in that area assisting growers with packing, loading, and grading.

Meantime, other counties of the section have appealed to WFA to remove from 30 to 40 more carloads.

The volume of eggs has exceeded expectations, and collecting routes as well as storages are taxed to capacity.

Longfellow's Famed "Wayside Inn" Adjoins School Of "Mary's Lamb"

"We meet at the Red Horse Tavern" ran the whispered word among the Minute Men at the Battle of Lexington, hard pressed for a safe gathering place at the end of their fight against heavy odds. The tavern served them well.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow bestowed and immortalized the tavern's famous later name with "Tales of a Wayside Inn." He wrote of it:

"As ancient is this hostelry, As any in the land may be Built in the old Colonial day When men lived in a grander way With ampler hospitality."

The ancient inn was built by Samuel Howe in South Sudbury, Mass., in 1686, and belonged to his direct descendants for over two hundred years. Henry Ford bought it in 1923, and has maintained it as an inn as well as a historical place of interest ever since. The taproom, where Colonial neighbors and travelers sipped their ale in friendly comfort, has been restored to its original atmosphere, including an open fireplace where a pair of miniature Hessians serve as andirons.

On the estate today is the Redstone School House, which inspired Sara Hale to write "Mary Had a Little Lamb." The school was brought from its original grounds at Sterling, Mass., and is still in session with an attendance of sixteen pupils.
