Phone Company Pushes Fight Against Robbers

The Carolina Telephone Company is stepping up its fight to wipe out a thievery that is costing thousands of dollars each year.

In announcing the new "get tough" policy, telephone company officials said this week that 149 coin telephones had been burglarized during the first four months of 1963.

This compares with 220 pay telephones damaged and robbed during the entire 12 months of last year. In nearly every case, damage to telephone equipment far exceeds the value of coins stolen.

The company sustains a loss of about $200 in property damage each time a coin telephone is looted. Thus, in 1962 Carolina Telephone lost about $44,000 in property damage to robbers; and at the present pace, this amount will be exceeded this year.

A five-point program has been adopted by Carolina Telephone to reduce these losses.

1. A $100 reward will be paid by the company for information resulting in the arrest and conviction of persons stealing from or removing coin telephones.

2. Company personnel will make more frequent collections from coin telephones to keep coin losses at a minimum.

3. Carolina Telephone will maintain closer liaison with law enforcement officers to protect the coin telephones.

4. Certain coin telephones have been equipped with burglar alarms.

5. Company personnel will increase their own surveillance of the coin telephones.

A person convicted of willful damage to or destruction of a coin telephone, or the larceny of money therefrom, may be sentenced to as much as two years.

Embarrassing

"Do you keep a scrap book?"

"No," answered Senator Sorghum. "I started one, but it contained so much that was impolite I couldn't take it home without having it exaggerated."

An unsuccessful organizer is one unable to get other people to do the work.

Bunn Charter Bill Before N C Assembly

Legislation to revise and consolidate the charter of the Town of Bunn was filed in the General Assembly Thursday by Franklin Sen. Wilbur F. Jolly.

The bill defines the corporate limits of Bunn and sets up machinery for formation of a town government, including election of a mayor and four commissioners.

Provisions are also made for the town commissioners, when officially organized, to appoint a police chief, treasurer, clerk and other municipal officers and employees.

The Jolly bill appoints a slate of municipal officers to serve until an election to be conducted July 29. The mayor's post would be filled by J. M. Edwards, with P. B. Wilson, G. T. White, Lewis A. Debnam and J. L. Adams serving as commissioners.

The winning candidates for mayor and commissioners in the July 29 election would serve for two years, until the next election in May 1965.

Biennial elections would then be held on the second Saturday in May of odd-numbered years.

A second Franklin County bill was filed in the Senate Thursday by Jolly. It would permit members of the Louisburg police department to live outside the corporate limits of the town.

Louisburg officers would be required, however, to live within one mile of the town limits. This restriction would not apply to policemen assigned to Louisburg College.

Employees Get Profit Statements

Manager R. W. Smithwick, of the local Rose's Store announced that the Employees' Profit Sharing Trust now exceeds $6,000,000.00, as reported by Central Carolina Bank & Trust Company as Trustees.

More than 1,400 individuals employed by Rose's Stores, operating in seven southern states, share in the profit sharing trust at no expense to them. All employees with two or more years of service are eligible to participate, and Manager Smithwick gave statements to ten local participants showing how they shared in the 1962 profits of Rose's and what balances they had accumulated.

Rose's 1962 contribution of $506,000.00 was the 19th consecutive contribution made since the plan started and raised the total contribution by the Company to almost five and one-half million dollars. Some one and one-half million dollars has been distributed to retired employees and to families of deceased employees.

We wonder what the workers of 1863 would think of a thirty-five hour week.

There is no perfect preparation for war, regardless of expenditures.

If you want to get rich, learn how not to spend.

Savings On Rise In County

New York, May 13 - Savings are building up at a rapid rate in Franklin County.

According to a new survey, released by the Federal Reserve system, savings bank accounts in the local area are larger than they have been in some time.

Increases have been noted, also, in other forms of savings -- Government bonds, savings and loan shares and the like.

The savings trend appears to be national in scope. In varying degrees, it is in progress in most parts of the country, the reports from the Federal Reserve and from other sources show.

The effect is that the American people have been salting away some $26 billion a year for the last two years and are now sitting pretty with a record $314 billion in liquid assets in their hands.

In Franklin County, as in other communities, the amount that people are able to save depends on their income. Those with very small earnings can put aside little or nothing.

On the average, it is found, families with after-tax incomes of $5,500 save 5.4 percent of it, those with $7,000 nearly 8.0 percent, those with $10,500 about 16 percent and so on.

How much have Franklin County families been saving? On the basis of their average disposable income of $3,674 per household, as reported in the last buying power survey, at the rate of 3.2 percent.

It amounted to savings of approximately $118 per family in the year. Assumed is that the local pattern of saving, for each income group, conforms with the national.

For the community as a whole, the grand total for the year is estimated at $24,000.

For banks throughout Franklin County, the Federal Reserve reports that time deposits, made up mostly of personal savings, rose from $3,781,000 to $4,459,999 in the two years ending, June 1962.

Various explanations are advanced to account for all this thrift. One is the fact that incomes, in most instances, have gone up and, therefore, more money can be put aside.

Another is that thrift institutions are paying higher interest rates. As a result, they have been siphoning off funds that were once in the stock market.
