Demolished Auto

The hunk of wreckage above is the result of an accident at the south of Louisburg Saturday night in which a Raleigh man and his 2 year-old son were injured.

Raleigh Man, Son Injured

A 27 year-old Raleigh man and his 2 year-old son were injured when their car careened some several hundred feet out of control and overturned at the checker-board intersection just south of Louisburg Saturday about 11 P.M.

John W. Carter and his young son, Jimmy, were given first aid by a passing member of the Louisburg Rescue Service and taken to Franklin Memorial Hospital via Louisburg Police cruiser. Neither were believed seriously injured.

State Trooper D. M. Hinton said that Carter and the youth were both thrown out of the vehicle, which was totally demolished. The car tore down road signs and came to a stop upside down across the road, completely blocking the U. S. 401 bypass of the intersection. Both were transferred to Wake Memorial Hospital in Raleigh after receiving emergency room treatment at the hospital here.

Holiday Warning

District 2, Troop C Highway Patrol Commander (Sgt.) T. E. Cook of Henderson issued a plea for motorists in the four-county district to drive carefully and observe the law over the extended July 4th holiday. The holiday traffic count begins at 6 P.M. Wednesday and continues until 12 midnight Sunday.

Sgt. Cook said that the Patrol has cancelled all leaves and days off and that the troopers would be out in force during the entire period using radar, speed clocks and other means at their disposal to apprehend violators.

Locally, Franklin Sheriff Joe W. Champion, Louisburg Chief of Police William T. Demient and Louisburg Rescue Service Chief V. A. Peoples had words of caution for the public, not only regarding highway safety, but water and other safety precautions. A moments relaxation when it comes to safety rules can and often results in tragedy that years cannot erase. So, this July 4th, don't take a chance - play it safe.

Money Slashed

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara protested the $2-billion slash in the defense money bill as voted by the House Appropriations Committee.

McNamara issued a statement saying this would force cutting back armed services strength by about 60,000 men and would deny necessary tactical air support "for our combat-ready divisions." The committee stated that more than half of the cut is in the bookkeeping area and none of the money denied is needed for essential activity.

For County Ranger

Speed Withdraws, Smith Gets Nod

Franklin County Representative James D. Speed Monday withdrew his name from consideration for County Forest Ranger and Veteran "Smoke Chaser" Joseph Earl Smith was appointed to the post.

Speed's announcement was made in the form of a paid radio and newspaper advertisement.

Smith had been considered a shoo-in for the post, left vacant by the death of Ranger Joe A. Pearce, until Representative Speed made application for the job. Speed's withdrawal apparently cleared the way for Smith's appointment.

Speed's announcement, which also appears elsewhere in this issue in the form of a paid advertisement, is as follows: "About a week after the Franklin County Forest Warden's job was left vacant by the death of Mr. J. A. Pearce, I decided to make application for the position, and later did so.

"Forestry has been very interesting to me all my adult life, and the forestry practices that I have applied on my nearly 400 acres of woodland have given me good experience. At the time I made application it appeared that I could be of service to Franklin County in that respect and that it would not conflict with any other commitment.

"Since then, however, it has developed that a special session of the Legislature will be called. To fulfill my obligation to the people of Franklin County who elected me as their representative, I must be there throughout the special session. "I have notified Mr. N. E. Faulkner, Chairman of the Franklin County Board of Commissioners, and Mr. Fred Claiborne, Chief Forester, North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development, that I cannot accept the post of Franklin County Forest Warden.

Whichever of the other fine gentlemen recommended by the Board of Commissioners for the job is selected to fill the vacancy, I shall give him my full cooperation in continuing a good forestry program in Franklin County."

Franklinton Girl Joins AF

Miss Linda Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Conyers of Route 2, Franklinton, enlisted in the United States Air Force during a brief but impressive ceremony in Raleigh last Friday.

Prior to her enlistment Linda graduated from Franklinton High School where she was an active member of the 4-H Club and the Future Homemakers of America. She is a member of the Ebenezer Methodist Church. Miss Bailey, also now called Airman Bailey, enlisted in the Women in the Air Force (called WAF) through the USAF Recruiting Office in Raleigh. Her recruiter was Staff Sergeant William O. Waters.

Sgt. Waters in making the announcement of Airman Bailey's enlistment in the WAF stated that she passed the aptitude and intelligence tests with high scores and that she enlisted to fill a vacancy in the administrative field.

Immediately after being sworn into the Air Force Friday Airman Bailey flew commercial airlines to Lackland AFB, Texas, where she is now receiving basic military training. After basic training she will attend a technical school in the administrative career field.

NEWS BRIEFS

Neutrality

A possible breakdown of the efforts to preserve the neutrality of Laos under the pressure of mounting Communist attacks is feared by State Department officials.

This breakdown would not only end the fourteen-nation accords worked out at Geneva one year ago but would unleash fighting again in the Southeast Asia area.

Dixie Bloc

Southern resentment against President Kennedy's sweeping civil rights program may make it impossible to enact a tax cut until next year, if then.

The civil rights fight, including an almost inevitable filibuster, could break out in the Senate while the finance committee still has the tax measure under consideration.

President's Trip

President Kennedy was given a thunderous welcome when he arrived in Bonn, Germany. It was the largest public welcome ever accorded a foreign leader in the history of West Germany.

Jolly Is Featured

State Senator W. M. Jolly of Louisburg was featured in a front page story in the Greensboro Daily News last Sunday week.

The feature, by the News' James Ross, described the Franklin County senator as "an arm-twisting politician who plays for keeps."

The story dealt mostly with Jolly's trapping, Guilford County's Republican Senator Charles W. Strong, a minister, into signing a bill that would abolish ABC stores in Greensboro and Jamestown, which was killed in the House after passing the Senate and which gave a number of Guilford County officials a nightmare while still alive.

Both Jolly and Senator Strong, it was understood, received a letter from an unnamed person who purported to have considerable following, assuring both men that they would not be elected to the General Assembly.

Rescue Alarms

The Louisburg Rescue Service was called out twice over the week end, once late Friday afternoon and again early Sunday night.

The call Friday sent the Rescuers just south of the City Limits off South Main Street to a residence where Morris Clements, negro, had reportedly taken rat poison. Clements was rushed to the hospital.

The call Sunday night was to the T. M. Harris farm east of Louisburg, where a tenant had suffered an apparent stroke. The man, whose name was not learned, was taken to the hospital here.
