Training Tempo Picks Up

Three local Army basic trainees are pictured during their second week of training at Fort Jackson, S.C. Top photo shows Pvt. Norman G. Dean, Grover D. Jeffreys, and James T. Johnson trying their hand at the horizontal ladder during a physical fitness test. Center photo shows

In Basic With The Army

(Editor's Note: This is the second in an eight-part feature series on the Army's eight week "Basic Training" program.)

Hand to hand combat, basics of firing the M-1 rifle, preparation for "trainfire" and physical training were the highlights of the second week of Army basic training for three local soldiers - Privates Norman G. Dean, III, Grover D. Jeffreys and James T. Johnson.

In hand to hand combat training the recruits learn the techniques of defending against and closing with prospective adversaries. Backed by the Army's rigorous physical training program, the trainees are taught the arts of defense and offense against both armed and unarmed adversaries. They learn to think fast and move fast under all conditions and situations.

One period of hand to hand combat training is devoted to self defense while on Sentry Duty. This training is especially important in that the trainees will have the responsibility of Sentry Duty a number of times during their basic training.

Training is accomplished in two phases, the first phase is class instruction and demonstration and the second phase is supervised practice of what is taught in class. For the practice phase the trainees are divided into small groups where they practice what they have learned and receive individual instruction. Next Week: "Trainfire."

Mrs. Holmes Is Named Director Of Instruction

The County Board of Education Monday picked Mrs. Margaret W. Holmes to become the county's first Director of Instruction, a post created by the 1963 General Assembly for school systems with 5500 or more enrolled.

Mrs. Holmes has been connected with the County School system for a number of years in various capacities, first as a teacher at Harris Elementary School and, since 1953, Supervisor of Schools. Her most recent assignment has been Acting Superintendent of County Schools, filling the unexpired term of the late Superintendent Wiley F. Mitchell.

Mrs. Holmes received both her B. A. and M. A. degrees from East Carolina College and has also studied at UNC and Duke University. She was one of the first teachers in Franklin County selected to study at a Summer Science Institute and was recently one of twenty teachers and administrators selected to attend a Geography Seminar to be held at East Carolina College in August.

Funeral services will be conducted from the White Funeral Home Chapel Thursday at 3:30 P.M. by the Rev. Aubrey S. Tomlinson. Burial will be in Oakwood Cemetery here.

Surviving are his wife, the former Linnie B. Mullen; one daughter, Mrs. Darwin Waters of Greenville; four sons, Harold and Eugene both of Louisburg, Jerry of Raleigh and Elmo of Columbus, Ga.; three sisters, Mrs. Lucy Perry and Mrs. Bonnie Baste both of Raleigh and Mrs. Sally Champton of Fayetteville; and 15 grandchildren.

Huge Tree Shattered By Lightning

Lightning took destructive aim at a huge wild cherry tree on the O. T. Fisher farm at Cedar Rock during a heavy thunderstorm Tuesday afternoon, blasting the tree over a several hundred foot area.

The tree was split into kindling wood and scattered all over the area.

Neighbors and passerby picked up a number of the larger portions of the tree and set them up on end where they were left by the blast, to show the distance they were blown.

NEWS BRIEFS

GOP On Test Ban

Washington - President Kennedy's announcement of a Moscow conference on a nuclear test ban has stirred new friction with Republicans.

Senate Republican Leader Dirksen (Ill.) expressed indignation that the President had made the announcement of stopping atmospheric tests without any advance consultation with the Republicans on the undertaking.

Space Budget Cut

Washington - The House Space Committee plans to slash about $400,000,000 from the President's $5,700,000,000 space budget request of the coming year.

The largest cut will come off the manned space flight program which has the goal of placing a man on the moon in this decade and bringing him back to earth.

Rights Program

Washington - In a recent television speech, President Kennedy warned the nation that discrimination against Negroes has lighted "fires of frustration and discord" that threatened lives and the public safety.

The President outlined a broad legislative program he will propose to Congress. It will be based on the proposition "That race has no place in American life or law," according to Mr. Kennedy.

Postman's Pal

Fremont, Calif. - A dog can be a mailman's pal or enemy depending whose side the dog is on.

Serving a postal route where he walks 17 miles, Ken Lincome had been attacked and bit by dogs six times and he thought that was enough.

Now he is protected by a big German shepherd dog that walks 17 miles by his side. The collies and beagles aren't so aggressive any more.

The Horrid Thing

Mrs. Junebride --How do you like this cake I made? - It's pound cake.

Her Husband --Hm! You're wrong with your weights! I thought it was at least ten-pound cake.

Elmore Named Dean At Wake Forest

Winston Salem - Dr. Thomas M. Elmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Elmore of Franklin, has been appointed dean of students at Wake Forest College. His duties include counseling students concerning academic and personal matters and involve a number of student personnel services. He also will
