Teenage Chat

By Faye Rudd

Here it is school time again. Come Friday all school children and teens of the county will be going to school and getting in the "old grind" again. There seem to be different answers to the question "Are you ready for school to start?" Some teens say, "No"; others say, "Yes, I can't wait for Friday because there just isn't anything to do." I believe the most frequent and surprising reply is "Yes." After a few weeks, they will probably be wishing it was summer vacation time again. So teens, clean out those "cobwebs" on the brain, and let's get down to business.

Speaking of school starting, football games will be starting again this Friday too. The Louisburg Bulldogs will be playing Millbrook at Millbrook. All who can go, please go to Millbrook and support your team. It really means a lot to the boys on the team to know that there is someone on the sidelines pulling for them.

What is this about horseback riding? From what I hear, quite a few of the teenagers around the county are beginning to take up this sport. There is a Saddle Club in Franklinton that some of the Louisburg teens want to join I have heard. Sheila L. was riding a horse Monday and had a little trouble. What was the matter Sheila, wouldn't the horse go where you wanted it to? Please let me hear from the rest of you in the county who enjoy this sport. It seems very interesting.

I hear that Jimmy Chesson is a new uncle. His brother and his wife, Buddy and Barbara, have a new son. Buddy is a former teenager of Louisburg. Congratulations on the new arrival! Jean Zealand, Phyllis Jeffreys, Paulette Mullan and Trudy Gupton went out Tuesday night for supper and ate pizza. Afterwards they played bridge for a while. I know they had a great time. Why didn't you bring us some pizza, girls? Martha W. Harris, Betty S. and Gwynna Wrenn's sister, is home from Alabama with her little son, Tommy. I'm sure the family is glad to see her and the little boy. I bet there is a lot of "gooning" going on with Martha's boy and her little sister together.

Pud Lavender who has spent his summer in Minnesota said to tell everyone "Hello" for him. He will be going to the University of Minnesota this year.

I want to thank Beth B. for taking over for me with the cheerleaders when Mother was in the hospital in Raleigh last week, and I was visiting my brother and his wife there. I certainly do appreciate it, Beth. Please send me your news. I will appreciate it so much.

Miss Carolyn Mae Holloway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oris Edwin Holloway of 1101 Chelsea Road, was married to Ralph W. Jacobs of Raleigh and Floyd Whitehead Jacobs of 608 East Front Street, in a double-ring ceremony solemnized Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in First Baptist Church with Rev. Fred Mauney, pastor, officiating.

The church altar was arranged with baskets of white gladioli, white cathedral candles in sevenbranched candelabra and palms.

Nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Robert Bowers, organist, and Mrs. Richard Moore, Jr., of Lenor, vocalist, who sang "I Love Thee," "Wedding Prayer" and "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original gown of white French silk organza reembodyered in silk and pearl roses, fashioned with fitted bodice with scooped neckline and short sleeves. The full skirt with bow bustle extended into a chapel train. Her veil of bridal illusion was attached to a Porganza cap. She carried a nosegay of white knight roses and English ivy, the roses being from her father's rose garden. Her only ornament was an heirloom string of pearls.

Miss Joyce Ellen Stainback was the bride's maid of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Lee Whorton of Mesc and Mrs. Rodger Caudill of Goldsboro. They wore dresses of crystal blue satin designed with fitted bodices, round necklines and elbow-length sleeves. They wore matching pillbox hats with circular veils and short white gloves. They carried nosegays of pink nobility and tiffany roses, grown by the brides father, and English ivy outlined in white lace.

Tom Jacobs of Oklahoma City, Okla., was his brother's best man and ushers were Oris Edwin Holloway, Jr., Thomas Karem, K. W. Ballentyne of Erwin and Edward Karem of High Point.

The bride's mother wore a street-length sheath dress of carnation pink peau-de-sole with matching accessories and a corsage of white roses, grown by her husband. The bridegroom's mother wore a street-length sheath dress of light blue Alecon lace with matching accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Immediately following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception in the Fellowship hall of the Church Education Building, which was arranged with white summer flowers and greenery. The bride's table was covered with a handmade floor-length white silk organza cloth and centered with a silver bowl of white roses, asters, gladioli, gypsophila, snapdragons and English ivy, flanked by silver candelabra holding lighted white tapers and epergnettes of white roses. At one end of the table was a four-tiered wedding cake topped with wedding bells. Mrs. J. Wesley Morton greeted the guests and presented her to the receiving line composed of the brides parents, the bridegroom's mother, the bride couple and the bride's attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. James Owens of Jacksonville presided over the bride's book, which was placed on a table covered with a tutwork linen cloth and arranged with an oil painting of the bride.

Refreshments of wedding cake, punch, salted nuts, bridal mints, and petits-fours were served. Mrs. A. J. Grady, Mrs. Frank Wade and Mrs. Ralph Warrington served the cake and Mrs. Clarence Ellis of Goldsboro and Mrs. R. A. Stainback served punch. Good-byes were said to Mr. and Mrs. Herman Mattocks.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs left for a honeymoon trip to unannounced points, the bride wearing an original model beige silk shantung dress with matching belgium linen coat and pill box hat. Her corsage was lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Jacobs graduated from New Bern High School and received a Bachelor of Science degree in Nursing from the University of North Carolina School of Nursing in Chapel Hill and will become a member of the nursing staff at UNC Medical center later this month. Mr. Jacobs graduated from New Bern High School and received a Bachelor of Arts degree in History from UNC in June. He will enter the School of Law of UNC later this month. They will make their home on Mount Bolus Road, Chapel Hill.
