

College Play Opens Tonight

Franklin County audiences will sample the work of one of the world's outstanding playwrights as the Louisburg Players offer Jean Anouilh's ANTIGONE on the college auditorium stage this week end, January 30, 31, and February 1.

Another of Anouilh's plays, THE REHEARSAL, has been on Broadway this year; a film version of his play BECKETT has just been completed.

A skilled dramatist, Anouilh often concentrates on the discrepancy between what life is and what life should be—a theme that usually lends itself to comic treatment. He starts from the same theme in ANTIGONE, but then goes on to make his claim that no earthly power is free to do as it wishes with men. He restricts his comedy to the characters of the Guards.

As a leading light of a philosophy of life called "existentialism," Anouilh believes that when people reach rock bottom without false hopes they then become free to be themselves.

Anouilh's ANTIGONE attracted the talents of Cedric Hardwicke and Katherine Cornell for its Broadway production. Miss Cornell had seen the play in Paris and arranged to bring it to American audiences.

John Mason Brown, "Saturday Review" drama critic, has said of the play: "It is the kind of production Broadway all too rarely undertakes. Its dimensions are noble, its intentions uncompromising. From most of the midway exhibits of our showshops, it stands out like an edifice of marble in shantytown. Because it is built of marble, however, do not think that it houses no fires within, or that its great bronze doors are shut. . . Its characters. . . are so ageless as the Fates, as universal as man's dreams of freedom, as everlasting as is the abuse of power." When the curtain closes, Brown says, spectators are "delighted to have had the theatre function at such a pitch and with such distinction."

It is work such as this that has gained Anouilh recognition as one of today's leading dramatists. Curtain time for the Louisburg Players' production is 8:00 p.m.

Today's Church's Mission Discussed

Disturbing facts about our contemporary world and the relationship of the church to that world will be the basis of discussion on February 2 and 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the Louisburg Methodist Church. Leading the discussion on "Our Mission Today" will be the Reverend Kelly J. Wilson, pastor.

Written by Dr. Tracey K. Jones, Jr., the text being used is an adventure in rethinking the nature and validity of the missionary enterprise of all churches. The church is indeed in "the beginning of a new age" and Christian churches must awaken to this fact. According to Dr. Jones, the Christian is the conscience of society, and he goes on to point out what Pasteur said—"The future will belong not to the conquerors, but to the saviors of mankind."

The discussion will center around great areas of concern for our society and how Christians, as servants, must cope with these problems. Also included in the discussion will be Dr. Jones' five principles of hope.

On February 16 and 23 the Reverend David Daniel, Louisburg College professor of religion and sociology, will discuss the works of three writers—Fenelon, Wesley and Underhill—on Christian perfection.

Sponsored by the Commission on Missions of the Louisburg

Methodist Church, the discussions are open to all who would like to participate.

Scouts

Youngsville—The Youngsville Cub Scout Pack 588 met at the community house on Monday night for the monthly pack meeting, with the three Dens in attendance. Mr. W. R. Evans, Cub Master, presided over the opening ceremony and made several announcements which are: February 9, Scout Sunday at the Baptist Church; Feb. 13, meet with the Parent-Teachers Association, which sponsors the cubs, for the flag ceremony; and Feb. 24, the Blue and Gold Banquet, to be held at the school cafeteria at seven o'clock.

Den Mother, Mrs. Mattie Woodlief, led the group in singing, after which awards were presented by Mr. Evans to the following: Robert Davis, Bear Badge; Mike Hart and Steve Kearney, Lion Badge. These badges allow the boys to graduate into Boy Scouting. Attendance banner went to Den I.

Den I presented a skit of the "Telstar Satellite with Our Chief Wade Holden." Also participating were Johnny Congers, Robert Davis, Ricky Deament and Kenny Woodlief. They were directed by Den Mothers, Mrs. Mack Dement and Mrs. Woodlief.

The lone candle ceremony was used in closing the meeting.

AAUW College Program Date Is Extended

Mature college women interested in awards that will help them to prepare for college faculty careers have until February 15 to apply, Miss Adelaide Johnson, chairman of the College Faculty Program of the Louisburg Branch, announced today.

The deadline was extended by the AAUW College Faculty Program Office which is making the awards for 1964-65 available. The grants, said Miss Johnson, provide full tuition and personal stipends for graduate study to women 35 years of age or older who have a bachelor's or higher degree. The objective of the Program is to locate women interested in a college career in teaching, research, or administration but who need graduate work to qualify for such careers.

Local women interested in this program may call Miss Johnson at GY 6-4124 for information, or they may write for application papers to the AAUW College Faculty Program, 2401 Virginia Avenue, N.W., Washington 27, D. C.

Bedding Purchase HD Club Study

The Home Demonstration Clubs of the county are looking ahead in the planning of their work. The Housing and House Furnishings Leaders from the clubs met in the basement of the Agricultural Building January 28, 1964 to study and discuss better purchases in bedding. Mrs. Frances Fuller, Home Economics Extension Agent, gave a very interesting demonstration and discussion on this topic. In February these ladies will give this information to club members throughout the county. A kit of illustrative material has been provided to help with this.

All women in the county are urged to attend because bedding is such an important item in the budget and much valuable information will be given. Come and bring your neighbor.

Thanks

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to each member of the several Fire Departments who helped fight the fire on South Main Street on Tuesday night, and the many other volunteers who worked so hard in the freezing cold to keep the fire from spreading. It was through their efforts that our store was saved from destruction.

The trouble with most adults is that they think their school days have ended.
