Dedication Tonight

First Federal To Dedicate New Building Here Tonight

The First Federal Savings and Loan Association's new building on the corner of Franklin and Main Streets is to be dedicated in appropriate ceremonies here tonight. The building, one of the most modern in this area of the state, was completed a short time ago at a cost of over $50,000 and features a number of innovations.

The Open House celebration starts at 7 p.m. tonight and

To Discuss Election

William F. Wagner, faculty sponsor for the Young Republican Club on the Lousburg College Campus, and Demetrios Nixon, faculty sponsor for the Young Democrat Club, will discuss the coming Presidential election on the College radio program this Sunday afternoon at 1:30 over WYRN. The discussion will highlight political activities of the clubs, campaign issues, and possible effects of recent developments. The philosophies of government held by both political parties will be explored.

Leaves, Please

Roy Holmes of the Lousburg Street Department has issued a plea to homeowners to place their fallen leaves on the street near the curbs. He explains that it is much easier for the crews to haul the leaves away. Much of the town's personnel are now busy assisting in the water line construction to the new plant, and the cooperation of the public in removal of fallen leaves at this time is needed, according to Holmes.

Masonic Notice

There will be an emergent communication of Lousburg Lodge 413 Friday night, October 30, at 7:30. Work will be in the Fellowcraft Degree. All Fellowcraft and Master Masons are cordially invited.

Parents Day

Some of the expected 400 parents are shown above Wednesday as Lousburg College observed Parents Day. The one day affair brought parents from as far away as New Jersey to visit the college and their student children. -Times Staff Photo.

Times Election Returns

The Franklin Times will again act as Election Return Headquarters next Tuesday night. All Registrars are requested to phone in the results of their precincts as soon as possible. Call GY 6-3283, collect, if necessary. The Times will relay the results to all major wire services and television-radio networks.

The public is requested not to call The Times unless absolutely necessary, so that the line may be open for incoming election results. Returns will be posted as rapidly as they are received at The Times office.

Farm Bureau To Hold Annual Meet

The annual Farm Bureau county meeting will be held Monday, November 2, in the Court House in Lousburg at 7:30 p.m., according to an announcement today by Melvin A. Nelms, President of the organization.

In a letter to Bureau members, Nelms states that "Tobacco, and its future, is the most important problem facing Bureau members in Franklin County." He urged attendance at the meeting to help establish policies to be carried to the State Convention and "to Congress, if necessary."

tellers in the local office. Mrs. Davis is formerly of Nash County and Mrs. Pearce is a Youngville native. Graham Kennedy, a Franklin County native, is vice president and Loan Officer of the firm. Kennedy, who was the prime mover in obtaining an office for Lousburg, will be on hand during the dedication to greet his many friends. He is married to the former Alice Leigh Dennis, daughter of former Lousburg Mayor and Mrs. Dennis.

The three-man Advisory Board of the local office are: J. P. Timberlake, Jr., T. M. Harris, and Ronald Tharrington, all county businessmen.

Chief Issues Halloween Warning

Lousburg Police Chief William Dement has issued a warning and a reminder of the new town ordinance relating to "Trick or Treat visitations" in light of the upcoming Halloween festivities.

Dement said he would have 22 men on duty Saturday night, to see that the new ordinance is enforced. He added, "We hope that no arrests will be necessary, but it is the law and it will be enforced. We seek the cooperation of all the parents in observing this new ordinance."

Dement also pointed out that under the rule, parents would be held liable for actions of their minor children. The law makes it unlawful for anyone over the age of 13 to wear a mask for the purpose of concealing their identity. It also makes it unlawful for persons other than children 12 years old or under, to go on private premises for the purpose of "trick or treat."

Specifically, the law says that children 12 and under in age, may make visitations on Halloween night between the hours of 6 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. for the purpose of "trick or treat." Persons above this age are prohibited from doing so, and persons over 13 years of age may not appear in public wearing masks except in special instances mentioned in the ordinance. The law also provides that parents knowingly allowing their children to violate this ordinance will be held liable. A town spokesman said the ordinance was passed in an effort to preserve the safety of the children and the general public, particularly on Halloween night.

Democracy's Brightest Hour:

Presidential Elections

By Clint Fuller

Part VIII
This is the final article in the series on the Presidential Elections. The seven preceding articles have dealt with past presidents, their lives and families; the present candidates and the various aspects of the offices they seek.

Next Tuesday is Elections Day and should be observed by every American, exercising his or her right, privilege and duty, by voting. Many foreign countries that we think of as backward will vote in the neighborhood of 90% of their registered or eligible voters. The United States generally will vote around 50%.

In this year, when much has been said about "going fishing" or not casting a vote at all, it is important that every eligible adult be urged to cast his vote. Regardless of the man or party one favors, one of the most important aspects of this election is that Americans show the entire world that they are interested in the future of their country.

In 1960, 118,550 votes out of 68,335,642 cast, represented the difference in Kennedy winning over Nixon. The candidate receiving the majority vote in each state wins that state's electoral vote. North Carolina has 13 electoral votes. The generally accepted important states are the ones with the largest electoral votes, such as California, 40; New York, 43; Pennsylvania, 29; Ohio, 26; and Illinois, 26. (See ELECTIONS page 8)

Record Local Turnout Is Predicted For Tuesday's General Election

A record turnout of Franklin County voters is predicted for next Tuesday's General Elections, laying to rest an earlier belief that many would "go fishing" on Elections day. The vote is expected to top the 6,189 cast in the 1960 elections.

Adding interest to an already fiery Presidential decision, is one local bond issue and one statewide bond issue. Locally, citizens of Franklin County will decide on a $325,000 Bond Issuance for improvements at the Franklin Memorial Hospital. On the state level, voters will decide on a $100 million school bond issue. Franklin's share of the money from this, should it pass, is nearly $700,000.

County candidates are unopposed by the Republicans, and in predominantly Democratic Franklin County, the fate of local candidates was decided in the earlier primaries. However, an interesting race looms for the county, in the gubernatorial picture and in the national presidential vote. It has been predicted that there will be more Republican votes cast in the county next Tuesday than at any time since 1928. Former President Eisenhower polled 792 votes in Franklin County in 1956.

In 1960 John F. Kennedy defeated Richard Nixon in this county 5,081 to 1,108. Gold-water supporters have been busier in Franklin County during this campaign than any Republican organization in past years, while Johnson supporters have waged no campaign at all locally.

In the gubernatorial race, Dan Moore has the edge in this county, but some support is evident for Republican Robert Gavin. Gavin polled 1,039 votes here in losing the county to Terry Sanford in 1960. Moore has been better received by local voters during the present campaign than was Sanford in 1960.

Voters will receive five ballots, and in some cases, six when they report to the poll holders on Tuesday. The Presidential ballot will have only the names of the two parties' presidential and vice presidential candidates printed on it. The County Ballot will have the listing of all county Democratic candidates on the left side of the ballot and the Republican side will be bare except for the name of John Adcox, Republican candidate for the 13th District Senate seat in opposition to Democrat Fred Royster. Both men are from Henderson and the winner replaces Lousburg's Wilbur Jolly in the State Senate.

The State Ballot will look very much like the County Ballot. On each of these, to vote a straight ticket, the voter should mark an "X" in the circle at the top, below the party for which he is voting. To vote a split ticket, that is to vote for each individual separately, mark an "X" in the box to the left of the name of the candidate.

On both the Ballot Issue Ballots, the vote will be "For" or "Against." If you favor the issue, mark an "X" beside the word "For," and if you oppose the issue mark the block beside the word "Against." Township Ballots, where constables are being voted on, will carry only the name of the Democratic candidate, there being no Republican opposition in any of these races.

The Franklin Times will again act as Election Returns Headquarters, and is joining the News Media Pool, for faster nationwide coverage this year. From the office of The Times, returns are reported to all the major news wire services, television networks and radio stations across the country. Direct lines with a national television-radio network have already been installed. Registrars are requested to call in their results to The Times office, GY 6-3283, as soon as they are available.

Wake Forest Man Is Ninth Road Fatality

A 26-year-old Wake Forest man became Franklin County's ninth highway fatality when he was struck by two trucks late Monday night on U. S. 1 six miles south of Franklinton. David Lee Faulkner, 118 E. Vernon St., Wake Forest, father of three, died in a Raleigh hospital shortly after being struck first by what the highway patrol described as a small truck, and moments later, by a 20 wheel tractor-trailer.

Witnesses said that Faulkner was standing a few feet across the center line in the southbound lane of U. S. 1 around 11:35 p.m. Monday night. A small truck driven by Harry A. Lytle of Limk, Ohio, struck Faulkner, apparently on the tractor-trailer driven by Oren W. Baucom of Dover, Delaware. Faulkner was taken to Raleigh where he died a short time later.

Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas Baker of Henderson and their two daughters were witnesses to the accident, having passed Faulkner just before he was struck by the first truck. The accident was investigated by State Highway Patrolman D. C. Day of Lousburg.

Funeral services for Faulkner were held Wednesday afternoon at 4 p.m. from the New Hope Christian Church with Rev. Mr. Allico and Rev. Eugene Tally conducting. Burial followed in the church cemetery.

He was a native of Franklin County and was an employe of Wake Finishing Plant. He was a member of New Hope Christian Church. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Judy Faulkner; one son, Stephen Wayne Faulkner, two daughters, Palma Jean and Angia Marie Faulkner, all of the home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Faulkner of Roanoke; one sister, Mrs. Ben Gardner of Lousburg.

Correction

The Amount Paid to Date by the Lousburg Tobacco Market was erroneously reported in Tuesday's issue. The correct amount should have read $5,824,549.80. The poundage Sold to Date was correct as 10,121,410 pounds. The Times regrets this error.

Commissioners Hold Special Meet Wednesday

The Franklin County Board of County Commissioners held a special meeting Monday for the purpose of conferring with representatives of Carroll and Phelps Company of Winston-Salem, the firm that is conducting the revaluation and appraisal work in the county. The Board looked over records and plans of the work which was begun a short time ago here in Lousburg. All property in the county is to be revalued in the project which is expected to take a little over a year to complete.

In other action, the Board designated certain portions of Franklin County as being in the "Kittrell Fire District."
