Did you go to the Azalea Festival? If not, you really missed something. Many people from this area made the journey to Wilmington and thoroughly enjoyed it. The parade and the weather were both perfectly beautiful. Congratulations to the Louisburg High School Band for such a fine performance. Among those attending the festivities in the Wilmington area were Cliff Edwards, Jimmy Edwards, Al Bland, Kate Huggins, Roger Kornegay, Butch Strickland, Boyd Matthews, Steve Hight, Charles Stone, Allen Peoples, Al Wilson, and Jay Taylor.

Deaths

CHARLES C. JOHNSON

Charles Cooke Johnson, 85, died Saturday at Franklin Memorial Hospital, following a long illness. Funeral services were conducted Monday at 3 p.m. at White Funeral Home by Rev. Allen Lawrence, the Rev. Steve Perrou and the Rev. Aubry Thomas. Burial was in Oakwood Cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Cornelia Dean Johnson; three daughters, Mrs. Lloyd B. Elsenhart of Rockingham, Mrs. Linwood D. Champlon of Louisburg, and Mrs. Charles P. Horton of South Bend, Ind.; and nine grandchildren.

JOSEPH M. BUNN

Mt. Vernon, Ohio--Joseph M. (Pete) Bunn, 75, died Saturday morning at his home. He formerly was a native of Franklin County but had resided in Ohio for the past 30 years. He was one of the first North Carolinians to be wounded during WWI. Mr. Bunn, recently retired, was employed by the telephone company in Mt. Vernon after 30 years' service. Funeral services were held Monday at 2:00 p.m. in the Mt. Vernon Cemetery.

Survivors include his wife, Alice; two daughters; one son; and several grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Jenney White of Bunn, N. C., Mrs. Mary DeVoy of Prescott, Arizona; three brothers, Mr. A. Lee Bunn of Louisburg, Mr. P. G. Bunn of Clinton, and W. R. Bunn of Wilson.

JAMES R. WHITE

James R. White, 84, of Bunn, died Friday. Funeral services were conducted at Bunn Baptist Church Sunday at 2 p.m. by Rev. Howard Silver. Burial was in Bunn Cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Victoria Gay White; two sons, Milton and Jasper White, both of Bunn; two daughters, Mrs. S. W. Sykes of Bunn, and Mrs. Clyde Moody, Jr., of Old Bridge, N. J.; one brother, W. H. White of Louisburg; and 12 grandchildren.

BALDY L. MURPHY

Funeral services for Baldy Lee Murphy, 59, of Rt. 1, Castalia, who died Sunday, were conducted today at 2 p.m. at Red Bud Baptist Church by the Rev. Everett Lee Parsons and the Rev. Paul Childers. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Daphne Leonard Murphy; three sons, Bobby, Rex and Jerry Murphy, all of the home; two daughters, Carolyn and Patty Murphy, both of the home; three sisters, Mrs. Lessie Collins, Mrs. Rix Boone and Mrs. C. L. Gupton, all of Castalia, N. J.

Epsom Lions Hear Dr. Abrams

The Epsom Lions Club met Thursday night in the cafeteria of E. M. Rollins School at Henderson with the Henderson club as host for a Lions zone social, which featured a talk by Dr. Amos Abrams of Raleigh, editor of North Carolina Education Magazine.

Lion Willis Joyner, Epsom president, gave the invocation as the dinner program opened. It was also a ladies night program, and they were welcomed by E. M. Powell.

Dr. Abrams was presented by Sam Alford of Henderson, an International Lions counselor. The guest speaker, in addition to his activities in the field of education, is also an International counselor, and has long been active in all phases of Lion's Club work in Raleigh and the state.

Dr. Abrams pointed out that "education doesn't cost a dime--it pays." He asserted that the higher the level of education is in a community, the greater is the potential for better standards of living. Money spent for education, therefore, pays off well, he observed.

Obligations of communities to teachers and for providing buildings and other facilities for schools, all for the benefit of children, was also stressed. "We must pay higher salaries for teachers to lure them away from other types of jobs," said Dr. Abrams, "but remember, teachers are paid for what they can do for boys and girls."

On the topic of Lionism the speaker asked, "Are you an active member of your Lion's Club or do you just belong?" He urged them to renew their interest and dedication to Lionism.

J. Bryant Kirkland of Raleigh, governor of Lions District 31-G, spoke briefly during the session. Also present was John Mackie, the deputy district governor, of Oxford.

During the evening a program of musical entertainment was presented by Onnie Overton and his group. (HA)
