Taylor, Mayor Pro-Tem New Officials Take Office Wednesday

New Officials took over the reins of government in Louisburg Wednesday morning shortly after 10 o'clock as V. A. (Tommie) Peoples was sworn in as the new Mayor by Justice of the Peace Jack Cooper.

The swearing in of the new council, consisting of four new members and two returning members, followed the Mayor's ceremonies.

Mrs. Breattie C. O'Neal local drug store operator, became the first woman member of the council in several years as one of the newcomers, with auto dealer H. D. (Tommie) Jeffreys, Louis Wheless, Jr., son of the retiring mayor, and local home gas dealer and former town employee, S. C. (Buster) Foster making up the other new members.

Jonah Taylor and E. F. Thomas were sworn in for their second term on the Board. Thomas replaced A. F. Johnson, Jr., on the Board in January 1964, and this is his first full term.

Retiring Mayor Louis Wheless called the Wednesday meeting to order for the business of canvassing the vote. He expressed his appreciation to the old Board for their cooperation saying, "It's been a real privilege on my part to have served with you."

Following the certification of the election results, the retiring Board adjourned. The new officials were sworn and took over in a short business meeting to elect Jonah Taylor as Mayor Pro-tem and to set their meeting dates. Councilman S. C. Foster moved to delay the purchase of a new car by the Town until the new Council could consider the matter. Mayor Peoples asked that this be continued to Friday night's regular scheduled meeting. The car, it was reported, has already been purchased and is ordered.

Mayor Wheless, who did not seek reelection, has held the post for two terms. Mayor Peoples has served as a Councilman for the past two years. He defeated fellow Councilman Robert Hicks by twelve votes in Tuesday's balloting.
