

Students Appear On T.V.

(FRK. R.W.) Mrs. Julia Carr rewarded the top twelve students in her Eighth Grade T.V. Math Class by taking them to the Greensboro Television Station on Wednesday April 3.

Students, who made the trip and appeared on Television, were: Cindy Ball, Al Conyers, Gail Hudson, Debbie Dixon, Richie Whitfield, Ronnie Demant, Veronica Hagwood, Janice Whitaker, Jan Wilder, Dawn Moore, Vicki Patterson and Cheryl House.

Cindy Ball and Richie Whitfield displayed geometrical designs which they created. Mr. Lloyd Jackson and Mrs. Carr accompanied the students to Greensboro.

Teenage Chat Youngsville

Monday morning brings with it the Monday morning blues. The only thing is that yesterday brought on the Monday morning BLUES as well. Wonder why everyone falls asleep during sixth period?

I think all would agree with me that they had a real nice time at the Jr. Sr. Saturday night. I'm sure the Juniors can breathe a bit easier now. Do we all have "a song in our hearts?"

Word has it that Curt's beauty sleep was interrupted early in the morning over the week-end!

Oh yes, thank you Rhonda for the pleasant surprise Monday evening. Thought you were kidding me there for a minute!

The count down continues to slowly tick away. Seniors, approximately FORTY DAYS LEFT! How about that? We have class night, invitations, caps, gowns, and graduation to look forward to. But most of all, Daryne, we have our diplomas to wait for. Hang on!

Youngsville Woman's Club Wins Honors

Youngsville -- The Youngsville Woman's Club had three second place winners and one Honorable Mention in the NCFWC Fine Arts Festival held in Greensboro, N.C. on Saturday. Competition included district winners from all over the state.

Mrs. N.A. Brown, modeling an ensemble which she fashioned for herself, won second place in the sewing contest for clubwomen.

Kelly Corpening wearing the slack suit made by her grandmother, Mrs. B.H. Patterson, won second place in the statewide sewing contest for children.

"Build With Youth For a Better World" was the title of an essay entry by Mrs. W.C. Timberlake which won second place in a writing category.

In the handcraft division of the Festival, Mrs. J.W. Weathers, Sr. received honorable mention for a knit sweater.

Easter Lily Sale

In Louisburg Saturday, the Phi Beta Lambda members, assisted by their sponsor, Miss Adelaide Johnson, were selling Easter lilies in the business section. This group is the business club of Louisburg College and reports that people generally were generous in their donations.

Junior girls in the Youngsville community who participated in a successful Easter Lily Sale on Saturday April sixth, on behalf of Crippled Children were: Tonia Walden, Carmen Scarborough, Elizabeth Kreitzer, Diane Privette, Libby Brown, Claire Ann Stallings, Martha Lynn Bell, Janet Wall, Shelby Watson, Ellen Robbins, Jan Roberts and Deborah Edwards.

These volunteers, all members of the local Junior Girl Scout Troop, met at the home of Troop Leader Mrs. W.M. Roberts to receive instructions prior to the lily sale.

Three girls of the Cadette Troop cooperating with the younger girls in the campaign were Connie Woodlief, Nancy Lindsey and Katie Ann Lindsey. They met at the home of leader Mrs. L.A. Woodlief in preparation for the event.

On Saturday morning, members of the Junior High MYF of the Franklin Methodist Church participated in the Lily Parade in Franklinton.

The following young people sold lilies: Debbie Dixon, Debbie Harris, Janice Whitaker, Sandy Dixon, Sarah Goughly, Cindy Secor, Richie Whitfield, Rommie House and Chuck Julian.

The money received from the sale of Easter Lilies and Easter Seals helps the crippled children and crippled adults in Franklin County.

In Fashion

Shoes in beautiful colors seem to be a feature of the spring styles. With matching hose, they are smart. They are also used to accent neutral shade costumes. Orange colored pumps and bag light up a beige dress or suit.

College Players Win Awards

Playing before a capacity audience at the Playmakers' Theatre in Chapel Hill Saturday night, the Louisburg Players again won top ratings for play production and for acting in the State Drama Festival sponsored by the Carolina Dramatic Association.

The event was a tour de force for Louisburg College sophomore Walter H. Williamson, of Richmond, Va. Playing the aria role of the Actor in Anton Chekhov's one-act play, SWAN SONG, Williamson, student director of the production, was the only college actor at the Festival to win an award in acting -- a feat he also accomplished in last year's State Festival.

Other members of the award-winning Festival competition team were: Robert Rosenstein, of Durham, N.C., playing the role of The Prompter; Jim Davis, of Portsmouth, Va., as stage manager; Greg Williams, of Virginia Beach, Va., as electrician; and Sandi Versteeg, Louisburg, as make-up technician.

The State Drama Festival was the fifth drama festival in which the Players have appeared; the two awards bring to twelve the number of awards won by the local group.
