Husband Of Local Gets Top Post

The appointment to two top administrative post at Davidson County Community College has been announced by Dr. Grady E. Love, President of the College.

Dr. William Elliott Inabinett has been named Dean of Instruction at the college filling the vacancy created recently by the death of William Taylor Sinclair. Inabinett had served as Associate Dean of Academic Programs at the college.

Dr. Roy K. Patteson has been named Associate Dean of Academic Programs. He has been head of the social studies department since coming here from Peace College, Raleigh last August.

Inabinett, a native of Marion, South Carolina, received his B.S. and M.A. degrees from East Carolina University and the EdD from Duke University where he was a member of Kappa Delta Pi. He has taught mathematics and coached in Virginia and North Carolina public schools. He has also had experience in construction and heavy equipment operations.

He is married to the former Joyce Mustian of Louisburg, who teaches English at Ledford High School near Thomasville. They live on Raeford Avenue in Lexington and are members of First Methodist Church. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Inabinett of Halifax.

Inabinett is President of the Central District, Community College Division of the North Carolina Education Association.

Dr. Patteson, who headed the social studies division at Peace College, Raleigh, before coming here, is a native of Richmond, Virginia. He received his education at the University of Richmond, Virginia and the BD degree at Union Theological Seminary of Richmond. He earned his Master's and PhD at Duke University in biblical language and literature.

In 1964 he studied historical geography and archaeology at St. George's College in Jerusalem, Jordan.

This past summer Dr. Patteson had a research fellowship at Duke University with the Institute of Medieval and Renaissance Studies, sponsored by the Ford Foundation. He investigated the relation of Martin Luther's German bible translation to the then available Greek, Latin and Hebrew text.

He has served as pastor at Pittsboro where he was member of the Orange Presbytery, Synod of North Carolina. Dr. Patteson is a member of the Society of Biblical Literature, the North Carolina Teachers
