Cindy Debnam told the club about the State Bird -The Cardinal - By popular choice the cardinal was selected for adoption as our State Bird, March 4, 1943. Perhaps the particular reason the car dinal was choosen is because it is a permanent resident and

The adult is about 8 inches long and little smaller than a robin. It has a high crest and thick red bill. The throat and area around the base of the bill are black. The female and young have gray-brown backs, and dull red wings, tail, and crest. The cardinal builds its nest in low bushes. It is made of twigs, roots, and strips of bark, and lind with grass. The two to four eggs are bluish-white spotted with brown. They hatch in 12 days. The male cares for the young after they leave the nest, while the female busies herself with the next family. The male is a fussy but devoted father, hopping about in the greatest excitement until the little birds are able to fly. The cardinal is a fine singer, and what is unusual among birds, the female cardinal sings as well as the male. Penny Nash told about the National Bird - The Bald Eagle - The bald eagle is our national bird. It was chosen by Congress in 1782 as the emblem of the United States. The bird was not chosen unanimously - Benjamin Franklin insisted that the wild turkey be selected because it was native only to America. A vote was taken; the eagle won by a single vote majority. On the national seal the bird appears with wings outstretched, holding a spray of olives in one claw and arrow on the other. The bald eagle does not like to wander far from water. They are flesh eaters and like fish, but are not very good fishermen. They much prefer to chase other birds, and rob them of their catch.

Each year the eagles return to the same nest, with the same mate. Built on a cliff or tree top where there is a wide view, the nest is made of dead branches and lined with grass
