Telephone Company To Expand

Centerville - Improvement and ex-pansion of the Centerville telephone exchange is now underway.

Howard Pitts, local manager for Carolina Telephone, said today that a $30,000 program is in progress to expand the company's central office equipment here.

Included in the project will be installation of equipment to provide facilities to serve 320 new telephones for subscribers in this area and permit better grades of service to present subscribers.

Pitts said that the growth of the Centerville area in recent years has brought about an increased demand for telephone service. This demand has taxed the capacity of present equipment.

Telephones in this area have in creased from 590 to more than 775 since service was inaugurated from the exchange in 1966.

'The construction program here is in keeping with Carolina Telephone's continuing program to fulfill the tele-phone needs of the communities it serves," he pointed out. Pitts said, "The new improvement and expansion program at Centerville was engineered to allow for telephone growth in the future."

Union Vote At Durham Hosiery Plant Thursday

Workers at Durham Hosiery plant at Franklinton will decide whether or not the Textile Union of America will be their representative in a special election Thursday. The vote is slated between the hours of 2:30 P.M. and 4:15 P.M.

The TUA represented workers when the plant was located in Durham but many of the employees did not continue with the company when operations were moved to Franklinton last year. The company contended the Union no longer was the proper representative of plant employees in Franklinton. The Union claimed the old contract carried over from the Durham plant to the new Franklinton operation.

The impasse led to a request by the company to the National Labor Relations Board for an election, according to reliable reports. Sources say the Union objected to the request. At a subsequent hearing before the Board, an election was ordered and the vote was set for August 7. The Union contract expires on August 31, according to reports.

Some bitterness has accompanied the controversy preceeding the elecs campaign has been tion and a vigori

And The Rains Came

William Shakespeare wrote in the Twelfth Night: "For the rain it raineth every day". If he were alive today, he might well write the same about Franklin County. It has rained here twelve out of the past 15 days.

In the 24-hour period ending this morning at 7 A.M., the area had received 2.50 inches of rain at the Louisburg reporting point. In some sections of the county, the downpour was obviously much greater. This is heaviest rainfall to hit the area since May 22, 1966 when 2.55 inches fell. G. O. Kennedy, Louisburg weatherman, reports that the modern record was set on November 7, 1963 when 3.85 inches fell in a 24-hour period.

The Tar River is rising at a rapid rate, although at this stage, the rise is not alarming. From a slightly above normal of 3.85 feet Monday, the Tar measured 12.25 feet this morning. Kennedy says he predicts it will rise to 18 feet before it recedes.

Several years ago, when waters rose above south main street and poured over in the basement of Murphy's Super Market on E. Nash Street, Kennedy says the river measured about 21 feet. His prediction falls short of this flood stage underway by Union forces to muster support of the now unaligned workers. meeting of Union forces was held in Franklinton last Sunday afternoon. Reports say that attendance was poor. Management has held in plant meetings to present its position and both sides predict victory in the coming election.

George A. Cralle is President of Durham Hosiery and said in July, 1968 when his plant move was an nounced that he was leaving Durham because the plant there was "completely insufficient and inefficient for use as a hosiery mill."

The new one-story modern plant is located on U. S. 1 North at Franklinton. It is well equipped with a modern snack rest area, modern lighting and other functional equipment for the manufacture of ladies hosiery.

In the only other union vote held in the county in recent years workers at the Sportswear plant in Louisburg defeated a bid by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America 121-39 on October 12, 1967. The case is still in the hands of the NLRB and eventually is expected to be decided by the courts.

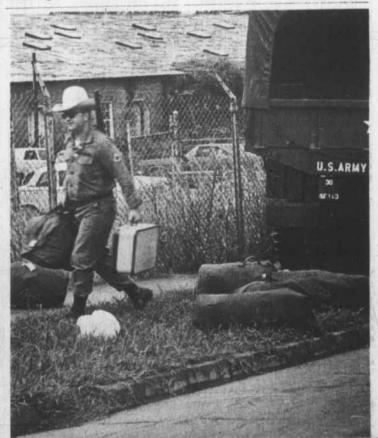

Rainfall as reported by Kennedy for the days in August are as follows: August first reading, .95; August 2, 66; August 3, .26 and August 4, 2.50. Today's measurement will be taken Wednesday at 7 A.M. He reports the normal height of the Tar River is between 21/2 and 31/2 feet.

Sidewalk Sale

Rain-Slick Highways Bring Accidents

Louisburg Police Officer Ned Lloyd is shown above directing traffic on busy Bickett Blvd. Saturday afternoon following a crash into the Tar River bridge by the Mustang, driven by Dottie Finch, w/f/25 of Route 3, Louisburg. The woman suffered what was described by rescuers as not serious injuries. The Louisburg Rescue Service transported the victim to Franklin Memorial Hospital for treatment following the accident. The car, which skidded into the bridge abuttment in a downpour of rain, was heavily damaged.

Slick highways also contributed to an accident at White Level around 6:30 P.M. Monday. Roy Stewart, Louisburg barber, was hospitalized following a two-car crash which practically destroyed Stewart's 1966 model Mustang. The crash reportedly occurred when Stewart's car struck a 1959 Chevrolet reportedly driven by Willie Lee Nash. Nash was not injured, according to reports.

Thieves Hit Bunn School

With all the conversation in recent days about chickens getting the air conditioners taken from the county courthouse, it is interesting to report that thieves entered the Bunn High School over the weekend and walk off with-you guessed it-an air condition-

The unit was taken from a window in the office of School Principal W. H. Kelly. The same chickens-thieves branched out to bigger things at Bunn Elementary School where they hauled away a riding lawn mower. Sheriff William Dement's office is investigat-

Franklinton Police Chief Leo Ed wards reports that thieves entered Red Front Grocery and carted off 25 cartons cigarettes sometime Saturday night. These chickens apparently failed to note that cigarettes may be hazardous to their health.

The Franklinton department is in-vestigating this latest break-in there. Robberies have declined in the Franklinton area in recent months and this is the first reported in sometime

Local Option Sales Tax Vote Set For November

Franklin voters are going to get the chance come November 4th, to vote on an additional one-cent sales tax. The recent General Assembly passed a bill which requires all 100 counties in the State to vote on the issue. Counties whose voters approve the additional sales tax will receive half the tax to be divided among the municipal and county governments. The other half will go into a State pool and will be distributed to all counties whose voters approve the issue on a per capita basis.

The bill was a compromise measure supported by the League of Munici-palities and the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners. When the main issue these two organizations wanted-that was a state wide one-cent tax-met heated opposition from Governor Scott and others, the two groups pushed for the one-cent optional tax. Mecklenburg is the only county in the State with the one-cent tax at present. It's been reported that Mecklenburg derives around $6 million an-nually from the extra one cent sales tax:

Should Franklin voters not approve the issue in November, the county, of course, will not participate in the revenue. However, counties defeating the issue the first time, may vote again later.

The tax will be collected by the State Department of Revenue just as the three-cent state tax is now collected.

Some criticism of the General Assembly is heard in some quarters. Many believe that the lawmakers should have passed a statewide one-cent addition to the present three-cent tax. They say the money should have been collected by the state and re-turned to the county from whence it

These same people contend that it will be impossible for any county to determine until after the vote just where it will stand when the money is doled out. Most agree that the small counties have a slight edge over the larger ones. However, few believe that this possibility is going to be strong énough to cause the voters to approve the proposed new tax.

The League of Municipalities spon-sored several other local-oriented legisations in the recent General Assem bly. The taily, according to the organ-ization's official publication "Southern City" is 18 bills passed into-law and five bills that failed. Staff photo by Astor Bowden.

Doubtful GI Issue

Sgt. Billy Harris, one of around 200 local area National Guardsmen, is shown Sgt. Billy Harris, one of around 200 local area National Guardsmen, is shown above following his unit's return Sunday from a two-week training encampment at Fort Sill, Okla. As the photo shows, Harris brought a bit of the old west back with him. Although he appeared in too big a hurry to be questioned, it is doubted that the ten-gallon lid is GI issue. Locals landed at Raleigh-Durham Saturday afternoon. Many of the men from Louisburg, Youngsville and Zebulon areas were met by family and friends but some traveled home by GI truck. The Louisburg section arrived around 5 P.M. Reports say this year's tour was void of any accidents or mishaps but most Guardsmen avolded using the term "pleasant" in describing the experiences. They did report that Oklahoma heat was still holding out strong.
