

WAKE COUNTY TICKETS.

SENATE, GEORGE B. SNOW. HOUSE REPRESENTATIVES, MICHAEL J. WHITLEY, MALCOLM W. PAGE, HENRY C. OLIVER, JOHN W. JONES.

LOCAL MATTERS.

TICKETS, TICKETS.

We are prepared to print tickets at the following prices. The cash must accompany all orders, as no tickets will be sent without the cash.

Cotton Market.

Carefully collected by Lee, Whitaker & Johnson.

The following are the quotations of yesterday:

Table with 2 columns: Item (Middling, Low middling, Bright Stains, Deep Stains) and Price (10 1/2, 9 1/2, 7 1/2, 7 1/4).

There was snow in Watauga county last Sunday.

Tobacco-chewing saints, leave your quids at the church door to-day.

W. T. Blackwell & Co., of Durham, bore off the tobacco premium at the centennial.

Wonder if Judge Settle won't a little enquire when he busts his breeches at the praying-hinge yesterday.

Wm. G. Hill lodge A. E. & A. M., will hold its regular communication to-morrow evening at half-past 7 o'clock.

It is astonishing to see how devout our young lads become, as soon as the female seminaries open.

We are glad to see how enterprising on the part of our Presbyterian friends.

There will be a profusion of curls given the boys now.

As the procession of mounted men left town to meet Vance last Friday, a countryman in his wagon had just brought his cotton in, and asking where the crowd was going, when they told him to meet Vance, he sprang from his wagon and exclaimed to his wife, "Set that, Sal, till I come back," and unwhipping his horse, he "fell in" like an old soldier.

Bless the world for charity. It is all about the town. After a long down street made by the little cripple yesterday—only hear him tell of the little boy who ran to his father and got a silver quarter to give him, and then the man that had passed him by, but wheeled suddenly, and came back, and gave him money, and then the good woman on some street who saw him crawling by, and raised the window and threw a dollar bill out to him.

There will be a profusion of curls given the boys now.

As the procession of mounted men left town to meet Vance last Friday, a countryman in his wagon had just brought his cotton in, and asking where the crowd was going, when they told him to meet Vance, he sprang from his wagon and exclaimed to his wife, "Set that, Sal, till I come back," and unwhipping his horse, he "fell in" like an old soldier.

Bless the world for charity. It is all about the town. After a long down street made by the little cripple yesterday—only hear him tell of the little boy who ran to his father and got a silver quarter to give him, and then the man that had passed him by, but wheeled suddenly, and came back, and gave him money, and then the good woman on some street who saw him crawling by, and raised the window and threw a dollar bill out to him.

There will be a profusion of curls given the boys now.

As the procession of mounted men left town to meet Vance last Friday, a countryman in his wagon had just brought his cotton in, and asking where the crowd was going, when they told him to meet Vance, he sprang from his wagon and exclaimed to his wife, "Set that, Sal, till I come back," and unwhipping his horse, he "fell in" like an old soldier.

Bless the world for charity. It is all about the town. After a long down street made by the little cripple yesterday—only hear him tell of the little boy who ran to his father and got a silver quarter to give him, and then the man that had passed him by, but wheeled suddenly, and came back, and gave him money, and then the good woman on some street who saw him crawling by, and raised the window and threw a dollar bill out to him.

There will be a profusion of curls given the boys now.

As the procession of mounted men left town to meet Vance last Friday, a countryman in his wagon had just brought his cotton in, and asking where the crowd was going, when they told him to meet Vance, he sprang from his wagon and exclaimed to his wife, "Set that, Sal, till I come back," and unwhipping his horse, he "fell in" like an old soldier.

Bless the world for charity. It is all about the town. After a long down street made by the little cripple yesterday—only hear him tell of the little boy who ran to his father and got a silver quarter to give him, and then the man that had passed him by, but wheeled suddenly, and came back, and gave him money, and then the good woman on some street who saw him crawling by, and raised the window and threw a dollar bill out to him.

There will be a profusion of curls given the boys now.

As the procession of mounted men left town to meet Vance last Friday, a countryman in his wagon had just brought his cotton in, and asking where the crowd was going, when they told him to meet Vance, he sprang from his wagon and exclaimed to his wife, "Set that, Sal, till I come back," and unwhipping his horse, he "fell in" like an old soldier.

Bless the world for charity. It is all about the town. After a long down street made by the little cripple yesterday—only hear him tell of the little boy who ran to his father and got a silver quarter to give him, and then the man that had passed him by, but wheeled suddenly, and came back, and gave him money, and then the good woman on some street who saw him crawling by, and raised the window and threw a dollar bill out to him.

There will be a profusion of curls given the boys now.

As the procession of mounted men left town to meet Vance last Friday, a countryman in his wagon had just brought his cotton in, and asking where the crowd was going, when they told him to meet Vance, he sprang from his wagon and exclaimed to his wife, "Set that, Sal, till I come back," and unwhipping his horse, he "fell in" like an old soldier.

Bless the world for charity. It is all about the town. After a long down street made by the little cripple yesterday—only hear him tell of the little boy who ran to his father and got a silver quarter to give him, and then the man that had passed him by, but wheeled suddenly, and came back, and gave him money, and then the good woman on some street who saw him crawling by, and raised the window and threw a dollar bill out to him.

There will be a profusion of curls given the boys now.

As the procession of mounted men left town to meet Vance last Friday, a countryman in his wagon had just brought his cotton in, and asking where the crowd was going, when they told him to meet Vance, he sprang from his wagon and exclaimed to his wife, "Set that, Sal, till I come back," and unwhipping his horse, he "fell in" like an old soldier.

Bless the world for charity. It is all about the town. After a long down street made by the little cripple yesterday—only hear him tell of the little boy who ran to his father and got a silver quarter to give him, and then the man that had passed him by, but wheeled suddenly, and came back, and gave him money, and then the good woman on some street who saw him crawling by, and raised the window and threw a dollar bill out to him.

There will be a profusion of curls given the boys now.

As the procession of mounted men left town to meet Vance last Friday, a countryman in his wagon had just brought his cotton in, and asking where the crowd was going, when they told him to meet Vance, he sprang from his wagon and exclaimed to his wife, "Set that, Sal, till I come back," and unwhipping his horse, he "fell in" like an old soldier.

Bless the world for charity. It is all about the town. After a long down street made by the little cripple yesterday—only hear him tell of the little boy who ran to his father and got a silver quarter to give him, and then the man that had passed him by, but wheeled suddenly, and came back, and gave him money, and then the good woman on some street who saw him crawling by, and raised the window and threw a dollar bill out to him.

There will be a profusion of curls given the boys now.

As the procession of mounted men left town to meet Vance last Friday, a countryman in his wagon had just brought his cotton in, and asking where the crowd was going, when they told him to meet Vance, he sprang from his wagon and exclaimed to his wife, "Set that, Sal, till I come back," and unwhipping his horse, he "fell in" like an old soldier.

Bless the world for charity. It is all about the town. After a long down street made by the little cripple yesterday—only hear him tell of the little boy who ran to his father and got a silver quarter to give him, and then the man that had passed him by, but wheeled suddenly, and came back, and gave him money, and then the good woman on some street who saw him crawling by, and raised the window and threw a dollar bill out to him.

There will be a profusion of curls given the boys now.

As the procession of mounted men left town to meet Vance last Friday, a countryman in his wagon had just brought his cotton in, and asking where the crowd was going, when they told him to meet Vance, he sprang from his wagon and exclaimed to his wife, "Set that, Sal, till I come back," and unwhipping his horse, he "fell in" like an old soldier.

Bless the world for charity. It is all about the town. After a long down street made by the little cripple yesterday—only hear him tell of the little boy who ran to his father and got a silver quarter to give him, and then the man that had passed him by, but wheeled suddenly, and came back, and gave him money, and then the good woman on some street who saw him crawling by, and raised the window and threw a dollar bill out to him.

Governor Medlin.

Jonas Medlin stole Tom Watt's cow the other day and sold it to old man Yearby for beef. The cow had been sent to Perkinson's pasture and Perkinson had put his mark on her. He missed the cow and found her at Yearby's, and was told Jonas and his wife had brought her to town and sold her.

Just Heard It.

"How're the people for governor?" asked a gentleman riding through the dark corner of Person county the other day.

"I can't tell you," said the foot-plodder; "we just heard of it last week; I s'pose as the thing gits a little excitin' we'll know who's who."

"Here's a chance for some gentlemen to leave the railroads and public towns and make the locusts quit singing with the roar of his voice. The woods are full of such people as these, and they don't attend the speakings in the towns."

Jim Harris in Charlotte. The Observer says that Jim was introduced by a colored divine, and spoke for over an hour, apparently to the great delight and satisfaction of his auditors.

The speech was a genuine radical production, and differed from those of the white republicans in being a little more moderate and sensible. He said, among other things, that the democrats had come over to republican principles, &c., and that he was glad to see this much, and would be willing to accord Gov. Vance and Judge Foye very high marks, but could not give them the reins.

This, of course, excited much merriment. He dilated at great length on the amendments, of course.

A Merchant Returned.

A Raleigh merchant has just returned from New York and reports all in a fever for Tilden and Hendricks. On his route to the national headquarters he met a policeman and enquired the way. The policeman in turn enquired where he was from, and being informed from North Carolina, the bully boy hooked arms with him at once, exclaiming in rapture, "You're going to elect Vance, ain't you?"

Right opposite the national headquarters is a large warehouse with clerks at work, wagons running to and fro, and everything as busy as a rail road depot. They are engaged in sending off documents. The national headquarters is filled with large rooms full of clerks and all busy at work. The merchant saw Job Morrissey and he spoke with confidence of carrying Indiana and was dead sure of sweeping the state of New York.

Good Prospects.

Everything looks ripe for a pleasant and successful fair. Transportation on railroads is put lower than it has ever been, only two cents and a half per mile for the round trip, and on the Raleigh & Augusta air line the train will run twenty miles higher up above Cameron than it has ever done.

A full parade of the military will be here, including companies from Fayetteville, Wilmington, Portsmouth, Va., and Bingham's corps. In fact the general temper of the people is favorable just now for a good attendance, and a good exhibition, judging from the letters constantly being received at the rooms of the secretary. There is a strong interest felt outside of the state, which will increase the feeling in our own midst.

It would indeed be strange were our own people to remain seated at home while strangers from far off states are rushing to the fair. Arguing from this standpoint alone we can only expect a good attendance and a good fair.

County Supervisors.

Commissions to supervise were mailed last Friday to the democratic chairmen of the following counties:

Beaufort—James E. Shepherd, at Washington.

Branawick—W. G. Curtis, at Smithville.

Camden—Francis N. Muller, South Mills.

Carroll—W. C. King, Beaufort.

Chowan—W. D. Pruden, Edenton.

Columbus—John W. Ellis, Whiteville.

Cumberland—J. H. Myrover, Fayetteville.

Currituck—W. B. Shaw, Indian Ridge.

Duplin—Isaac B. Kelly, Kenansville.

Edgecombe—John S. Dancy, Tarboro.

Franklin—W. H. Spencer, Lenoir.

Gates—L. L. Smith, Gateville.

Harnett—Jas. P. Hodges, Bunn's Level.

Jones—E. G. Simmons, Trenton.

Lenoir—C. B. West, Kingston.

Nash—B. H. Bunn, Rocky Mount.

New Hanover—G. H. Robinson, Wilmington.

Northampton—R. B. Peebles, Jackson.

Pender—R. F. Sanders, Burgaw.

Pitt—H. Shepperd, Greenville.

Robeson—Thos. A. McNeill, Lumberton.

Sampson—E. Peterson, Clinton.

Wake—Joseph A. Hayward, Raleigh.

Wayne—A. Bonitz, Goldsboro.

THE CHINNING CHIEFS.

VANCE AND SETTLE AT LAW'S STORE.

SETTLE SPILT OUT ON THE ROAD—COL. RUSSELL FIGURES IN AN EXCITING SCENE—AN UPROARIOUS CROWD—FAIR PROSPECTS FOR A FREE FIGHT, AND THE DISCUSSION ABSOLUTELY DISCONTINUED.

The second joint discussion between Vance and Settle in Wake county took place yesterday at Law's House, New Light township, 18 miles from Raleigh. A very large crowd was in attendance from Wake, Granville, Orange and Franklin, all of which counties jointly estimated by gentlemen upon the ground at from 2,500 to 4,000.

Governor Vance was received at the Falls of the Neuse, 8 miles from the place of speaking by 415 MOUNTED MEN, whose acclamations rent the very skies. In consequence of his horses running away about 8 miles out of Raleigh, Judge Settle was delayed about an hour. The speaking did not commence till half-past twelve.

Judge Settle opened the discussion in a speech of an hour and a half. He commenced on the matter of finance and alleged maladministration and corruption on the part of the radicals. As this portion of JUDGE SETTLE'S SPEECH has been frequently repeated in these columns, it is hardly necessary to reproduce it again here.

This same remark will apply to others of the standing features of Settle's speech as well as Gov. Vance's. Judge Settle stated that he did not feel like speaking as he was suffering pain from his injuries received when his horses ran away, as reported in a paragraph to be found elsewhere in this issue of the Sentinel. The judge's right hand was bandaged.

Judge Settle discussed the proposed CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS at some length. He next referred to his own and Gov. Vance's war record. He read the Calloway letter. He exhibited the Wm. Johnston ticket and the yellow ticket.

The judge then alluded to the matter of the alleged statement made by Col. J. P. H. Russ in relation to Gov. Vance and called for Col. Russ. Gov. Vance also called for Russ.

COL. RUSSELL IMMEDIATELY CAME FORWARD and took the stand. Judge Settle then repeated the alleged statement in Col. Russ's presence. Col. Russ then said: "I have never been guilty of the charges alluded to by my friend Settle. He has been incorrectly informed. It amounts to a falsehood in toto. I say on my honor as a gentleman and with my hand on my heart and in the presence of my God, that I never said what is attributed to me. Three days ago I would have voted for him, but yesterday we compromised our difficulties; he met me like a white man, and I am now a Vance man."

I HATED VANCE as I did the devil in hell, but I am to-day the friend of Vance. Tom Settle is my friend too, but I would not tell a lie to save Vance and Settle both. What has been stated in the papers is not true."

After this denial Judge Settle stated that he was satisfied with it and that he would in justice to Gov. Vance, make no further reference to the matter. He had not mentioned it since the first discussion at Rotherford until he came into Wake, Col. Russ's home, and he would now let it drop out of the canvass.

VANCE'S REPLY. Gov. Vance then made his reply, being received with much applause. Some noisy people on the outskirts kept up a slight disturbance, whereupon Gov. Vance humorously told them if they didn't hush he would come down and lick the whole business of them.

To a fellow in another part of the crowd who undertook to ask foolish questions Vance remarked, "Oh hush, I can beat you to death talking." The man hushed.

A DRUNKEN GANG of blacks and whites at a little distance kept up such a din of talk and laughter that Gov. Vance was compelled to suspend his remarks some minutes till they could be made to behave themselves. After awhile the fuss began again in another part of the ground. Gov. Vance stated that he had not been treated so in any part of North Carolina, and that he would quit speaking unless the noisy element either kept quiet or retired out of the way. Judge Settle rose several times and also asked for order. Gov. Vance resumed his speech until

A FIGHT OCCURRED between two men which raged for a long time and almost broke up the meeting. It looked at one time as if the fight would become general. A number took of their coats. Fortunately no knives or pistols were drawn, and nobody got dangerously hurt. It was a high old frolic. At last Vance got under weigh again.

Some chaps still seemed to be spoiling for a row, when Vance ironically FULLED OFF HIS COAT and proposed that the whole concern should go to fighting. This brought the crowd up around the stand, and they listened with some degree of attention for awhile. Discord, however, ruled the hour, and Gov. Vance finally gave way to Judge Settle to see how he liked it. Complete confusion reigned and riot looked likely to run rampant; so the discussion was discontinued, and the affair wound up with a huge free fight in which some fifteen or twenty men were more or less injured, some of them seriously.

Pussing. The Charlotte Observer says: "There is a package of flowers in the postoffice in this city held for postage addressed to James E. Lawrence, R. & G. railroad, Raleigh, N. C."

That seems plain enough, and yet we have scratched our wig baldheaded trying to make out whether the city is held for postage, or the postage is addressed to James E. Lawrence, or the postoffice in the city is held for postage addressed to others, or—really we give it up.

PERSONAL VARIETIES.

H. S. Packard, of the London Graphic, is in Richmond on an artistic tour.

More than 500 of the 1,000 whites in Brunswick Ga., are down with yellow fever.

The late storm tore up the beach so badly the fishermen have great difficulty in hauling their seines.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Walters, of Danville, Va., have lost two little girls from diphtheria in the last few days.

The library of the Y. M. C. A. at Richmond, Va., will have 260 new volumes added in a few days.

It is reported that Sublet of the Atlantic House at Beaufort, will now take charge of the hotel at Morehead City.

A couple of young gent who have had yellow fever have left Richmond for Savannah to get business situations.

A Spanish proverb says that a paper cigarette, a glass of fresh water and the kiss of a pretty girl will sustain a man for a day without eating.

Mayor Bryant of San Francisco has vetoed a resolution granting permission to the Chinese to play upon musical instruments on their holidays.

Some fellow stole a Hayneswheeler flag in Portsmouth. Now let him that stole steel no more—and he will always pass for an honest man.

Chas. E. Rollins, well known in the city, has become one of the owners of the Chicago Insurance Herald, one of the handsomest publications of its kind in America.

At a London breakfast last season Lady Sykes, the young wife of a very wealthy Yorkshire baronet of a famous sporting family, wore a skirt of black silk tied back with unusual tightness, a white waistcoat over an embroidered shirt front fastened with heavy gold studs, and a green velvet coat made like a man's tail coat. Lady Sykes is daughter-in-law of the "Sir Tatton" of Boucault's "Flying Scud."

A boarding-house keeper of Chicago read how the hotels in the White Mountains had school mistresses and divinity students for waiters, and, to follow the example, induced a young man and two female teachers, whose salaries had been cut down, to undertake waiting at table. The first young woman was addressed by a boarder to "pass them beans," whereupon she fainted and spilled a plate of soap over the best false hair and down the back of a young widow. Her companion, when called upon for a plate of "pad'n," said kindly, "You mean pudding, do you not?"

Protracted Meeting. They call it the centennial year, and say there was never known the like before—of protracted meetings in the northern edge of Orange county. Rev. Joseph Martin, a Methodist minister of Chapel Hill, seems the inspired worker. He starts the meetings and leaves them in charge of a good preacher, while he goes to a new place.

He commenced one at Hebron and left it in charge of Rev. Mr. Walker, and then one at Walnut Grove, and left it in charge of Rev. Mr. Webb, of Roxboro, and so on. The people seem warmly in earnest about religion in that section.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

Church services will be held to-day as follows: Christ (Episcopal) church, 11 a. m. and 4 p. m., Rev. Dr. Marshall. Sunday school at 9 a. m.

St. John's (Catholic) church, Mass at 11 a. m. and Vespers at 6 p. m. Rev. Father Reilly. Sunday school at 10 a. m.

Salisbury Street Baptist church, 11 a. m. and 8 p. m., Dr. T. H. Pritchard. Sunday school at 9 a. m.

Swain Street Baptist church, 11 a. m. and 8 p. m., Rev. J. D. Hufham. Sunday school at 9 a. m.

Edenton Street Methodist church, 11 a. m. and 8 p. m., Rev. Dr. Burkhead. Sunday school at 9 a. m.

Person Street Methodist church, Rev. W. C. Norman, at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. Sunday school at 9 a. m.

Presbyterian church, 11 a. m. and 8 p. m., Rev. Dr. Vaughan. Sunday school 9:30 a. m.

Church of the Good Shepherd (Episcopal), Rev. E. R. Rich, rector. Services Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Wednesdays and Fridays at 9 a. m. Seats all free. Sunday school 7:30 a. m.

Third Baptist Sunday school, corner of South and Fayetteville streets, 9 a. m.

THE ORACLE.

—Born in Tarboro, Sept. 30, to the wife of Gen. W. G. Lewis, a son.

—In Newbern, Sept. 12, to the wife of George E. Pittman, editor of the Nuttall, a daughter.

—In Richmond, Virginia, Sept. 30, to the wife of Dr. G. W. Bagby, ("Mozis Addums") state librarian, twin sons.

—Married, in Hillsboro, Oct. 2, Dr. John Berry and Miss Mary Strayhorn.

—In Pitt county, Oct. 4, by Rev. Josephus Latham, Mr. C. D. Rountree and Miss Annie A. Johnson.

—At the residence of John A. Johnson, in Wake county, Sept. 28, by Squire J. D. Balleine, Mr. Paschal Johnson and Mrs. Charlotte Beaves. The local poet who furnishes the notice adds this touching warble: Three cheers for reform, Vance and Tilden. For this happy couple and their children.

—Died in Greensboro, Sept. 28, Miss Minnie Wharton, aged 16 years.

—In Greensboro, Oct. 3, Charles Hervey Lathrop, of Savannah, aged 22 years.

—In Edgefield, S. C., Sept. 25, Col. Thomas G. Bacon, son of Edmund Bacon, the "Red Bruce" of the "Georgia Scenes," and commander of the 7th South Carolina regiment during the war.

The Good Old North State.—I am receiving my Fall and Winter Stock of the celebrated Old North State Cooking Stoves. Call at once and secure bargains as prices are Down, Down, Down. Every Stove sold warranted to give satisfaction or the Store can be returned and the money will be refunded. C. A. HAERT, market & Martin, Sts., Raleigh.

SETTLE RUNAWAY WITH.

VANCE'S OPPONENT SPRINKLED OVER A HALF-ACRE OF ROAD—DICK BADGER AS AN ACROBAT—REDPATH OF THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE STICKS TO HIS SEAT—A BADLY BATTERED DRIVER.

The horses to the pheton that set out from Raleigh yesterday morning for New Light with Judge Settle, R. C. Badger, J. Redpath, correspondent of the New York Tribune, and a colored driver, became unmanageable about seven miles out of town and ran furiously for at least a mile and three quarters over the roughest and rockiest part of the whole road. The horses screamed on top of the steep hill at Flat Creek at a lead of cotton coming up the hill. As soon as the horses began kicking Major Badger leaped out, but they ran with Settle about a hundred and fifty yards, when with much presence of mind he placed one foot on the carriage step and sprang forward. He fell on his side, tearing his pants and breaking his gold watch and chain. This is the second narrow escape Settle has made in the last few years. He was hurled over in a smash up on a Virginia railroad since the war, and four persons were killed in the same car with him. He seems spared to go back to the supreme bench. Isaac Kelly, the colored driver, jumped at the start and tried to head the horses, leaving the reins in charge of George Mathews, a colored man who was on the boot with him. George held manfully to the horses until just before they were stopped by a countryman, when he was thrown out, and his head striking, was very badly hurt. He was left at a neighboring house. As for Redpath he sat upright in the pheton to the last like enjoying a drive on Pennsylvania avenue. Mr. R. H. Battle, Jr., being present with his buggy kindly gave Judge Settle a seat, while his driver volunteered to drive the runaway horses, and Badger and Redpath not caring to try on any more of their accepted seats from Pugh Haywood and George Williams, they giving up their buggy and taking the pheton.

PEOPLE AND THINGS.

James L. Lick, the California bogus philanthropist, is defunct.

Jacob Lamb, of New York, suicided at his sister's funeral Tuesday.

John F. Cleveland, a brother-in-law of Horace Greeley, is lying at the point of death.

Merodith Reed, minister to Athens, is in New York, we suppose to enter the lists for Hayes and Wheeler reform.

A grandson of President Harrison and cousin of the rad candidate for governor of Indiana killed his sweetheart in Kentucky, the other day, because she refused to marry him.

VIRGINIA.

Mozis Addums has twins.

Gen. John G. Walker, of Texas, has purchased from G. Ward his residence and forty acres of land, near Winchester, for $10,000.

A street fight between two high-colored gospellers enlivened Richmond the other day. Rev. Walter Brooks, a negro Baptist missionary and Zach Chandler, eminary, attacked Rev. J. W. Gaines, pastor of the West Point darkey Baptist church. The belligerent radical billy-goat of Zion was arrested and invited to contribute to the expansion of the municipal finances.

WHOLESALE CASH PRICES

As quoted by F. C. CHRISTOPHERS & CO. RALEIGH, Oct. 7, 1876.

Cotton Ties, 6¢ cents. Flour, North Carolina (new) $5.00@6.00. Corn Meal, 70¢@75¢. Bacon, N. C. hog round, 14¢@15¢. Lard, North Carolina, 17¢. Coffee, Prime Rio 25¢@30¢. Sugar A. 13. Extra C. 12. Yellow C. 11¢@11½¢. Oats, 14¢@15¢. Hides, green, 56¢. d. v. 9¢@10¢. Tallow 66¢. Oats, shelled, (new) 40¢@45¢. Corn Meal, 70¢@75¢. Fodder, baled, 100. Hay, N. C. baled, good 60¢@75¢. Eggs, per dozen, 30¢. Butter, N. C., 23¢@25¢. Beans, 25¢@27¢. Rags, 3¢. picked, 3¢ cents. P. ref., on foot, 5¢@7¢. Heavy Copper, per pound, 16¢. Light, 12¢. Brass, per pound, 8¢ to 10¢. Pewter, per pound, 7¢ to 10¢. Lead, per pound, 8¢. Old Iron, per 100 pounds, 80¢. Shaver, Red Sea, 25¢@30¢. Wool—washed, per pound, 35¢@40¢. unwashed 15¢ to