SUNDAY, OCTOBER 22.

THE "INDEPENDENT" VOTER.

Awful seedy, Eternally needy, Out at his elbows and out at his toes; Fond of free lunches, Of cocktails and punches, Panoply of stomach and purple of nose. Wanting to borrow (He'll pay you to-morrow) "A dollar. No? Four bits--then two--well a dime." Only time-serving, With ever change swerving, Endowed with a cheek that is asimplly sublime. "You are a demimocrat-- Ah, but I'm glad of that, Damn the repub--What? Republican? You? Well, I'm delighted-- My friend, we're united; Of course, you're aware I'm republican too!" Such are the politics In which he loves to mix; Slyly he'll wait till he sees the cat jump; Then he'll no longer hide, But on the winning side, At the last moment he'll take to the stump. After election He's deep in dejection, If not made a treasurer right on the spot; But if he has lost the day-- Feels his vote, is short, cast away-- 'Tis fearful to hear how he curses his lot.

RANSOM AND BUSBEE IN ROWAN COUNTY.

[Salisbury Watchman.] The Hon. Mat. Ransom filled an appointment to speak at Gold Hill, this county, last Saturday. He had the pleasure of meeting there a large number of the yeomanry of that vicinity, and did himself and them the honor to deliver one of the very best speeches made in the state in this the goodly centennial year of American liberty. He spoke nearly three hours, and had his audience spell bound during the whole of that time. For closeness of argument, logical clearness, elevated and forcible thought, and every attraction and power of true eloquence, it has not been excelled by even Gov. Vance himself. His hearers were warmed and melted by turns, as they were brought to review the history of the country and the sad and oppressive incidents of the last two years of that history. And they were faithfully warned of the dangers of the present time, and earnestly exhorted to discharge their whole duty for the preservation of the liberties handed down from the fathers of the country. The people were too intensely attentive to every utterance of the speaker to applaud him much during the delivery of his speech; but they gave him a hearty, heavy round at the end of it; and we doubt not both speaker and people will long cherish the memory of Oct. 14, 1876. Fab. H. Busbee was stranded here by a failure of railroad connection, Friday evening, and as he is too active a man to be idle, gladly accepted an invitation to accompany Gen. Ransom and delegates of the Rowan Tilden and Vance club to Gold Hill, next day. At the conclusion of the general's great speech, he was called, and to our surprise at least, he came forward like a man who meant business; and to our greater surprise still, he made the audience forget weariness, if they felt it at all, and kept them listening until the sun touched the tree tops. His youthful appearance was against him at the beginning we know; for the old Dutch farmers of this section can't very well bear to listen at "poys" talk politics. But there was something winning in Busbee--he grasped the situation with accuracy, and took hold of the business in hand so deftly, and proceeded with it so gracefully and pleasantly that scarcely a dozen men left their seats until he had finished, though many of them had miles to travel to reach their homes. On reaching Salisbury, about 8 o'clock at night, the streets were lit up with bonfires, and Busbee was loudly cheered and called for. He responded--jumped out of the buggy and mounted a goods box and went at it again. And there we left him Saturday night, surrounded by an eager crowd. Prof. W. H. Neave and his Mt. Pleasant brass band were in attendance at Gold Hill, and contributed their pleasant and highly entertaining services to the occasion.

THE OLD NORTH STATE.

[Danville (Va.) Times.] She is all right! There was not much to rest a doubt on before the election in Indiana, but now it is certain she will go largely for Vance. We are sorry for Settle now. His whole reliance has been upon the bloody shirt, and as that failed in Indiana, what can it do for him in North Carolina? There is now no chance for him. His whole effort from this time forward should be to make as good retreat as possible, and save as many of his men as possible. He must drop his bloody shirt, therefore; to hold on to that will drive from him nearly all his white followers, and leave him none but a small minority of blacks to cheer him in the hour of adversity. Settle is game, but what does that signify when the people are flocking to the standard of Tilden and Hendricks and Vance? Our honest opinion is that Judge Settle has repented bitterly that he left the supreme court bench to engage in the uncertain business of politics. Go it, people of North Carolina. Bring out your best men and make Vance's majority huge. The people of Danville will fire some big guns for you when victory perches on your banner.

PEOPLE AND THINGS.

Zollicoffer's daughter was recently married in Tennessee. The thistle is typical of the aggressive warlike spirit of Scotland. English artists and literateurs are turning their attention to Scotland for romance. Sitting Bull is going to send his favorite squaw into the agency to throw out for spring croquet work on the heads of dying soldiers. If England's government to-day called for 50,000 men to relieve Serbia that number of Englishmen would volunteer. It is becoming more and more the habit to eat oysters out of the round shell without a fork. But it takes a short stop at base ball to catch one in perfection. Chicago Times: "Six of the foreigners in Miss Kellogg's new opera troupe come from New Jersey." Heine was a man most rich in epithet, and wedded together more choice words than any writer of his day.

MANIPULATING CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICTS.

The returns from the congressional election in Indiana show how effectually the republican legislature of that state in arranging the districts has succeeded in stilling the popular will. The returns show that in the four districts carried by the democrats their majority aggregates 18,725, whilst the nine districts carried by the republicans give only an aggregate majority of 12,539, giving the democrats a majority in the state on the congressional vote of 6,186, despite the fact that they secured less than one-third of the congressmen. The Indianapolis Sentinel makes the point that under the present apportionment laws of Indiana the democrats must have a majority of 17,000 of the popular vote in order to control the legislature and have a majority of the congressmen. This is not only unjust, but it is anti-republican, though accomplished by those who presume to call themselves republicans.

BRIDES AT THE CENTENNIAL SHOW.

[From the New York Times.] Of all the people who live at the centennial hotels, I think the newly married couples--Philadelphia is full of them, by the way--are the only ones who are thoroughly contented and happy. It makes no difference whether the potatoes are watery, the meats dry or the soup thin; and they don't care a pin whether people talk to them or not. They live in a little world of their own, need no conversation but for their own, and have no thought but for each other. They all try to act as though being married was an old story to them, and still for the life of them they can't help taking each other's hands every five minutes. The brides nearly all wear new watch chains.

A ROUGH DIAMOND.

[The Newbernian.] One of the most amusing incidents connected with the ovation to Gov. Vance in this city took place in the Gaston house while the governor was receiving his numerous friends. A son of old Erin on being presented to his excellency detained his hand in a vice-like grip and in his rich Irish brogue exclaimed "God bless be good to your honor," with the grace of a courtier of the olden times, bowed and kissed it. Coming from a man who has heretofore allied himself with the republican party, but who is now an ardent democrat, the three cheers and a tiger called out for Colligan were given with a vim that made the welkin ring.

SOMETHING TANGIBLE.

[From the Burlington Hawkeye.] A near-sighted man out on South Hill went wandering around among his currant bushes yesterday afternoon and stooped down and pulled a live centennial wasp's nest up by the roots to see what it was. He didn't get it anywhere near the focus of his eyes before he had an idea that it was a flat-iron some of the women had set outside to cool; then he thought it might be a concentrated case of prickly heat; and then it dawned upon him that he had picked up a raw thunderbolt, and finally his heart went clear down into his boots as he realized that he had got hold of the dangerous end of the Hell Gate explosion and pulled it off.

PAR IGNOBILE FRATRUM.

[St. Louis Times.] Having made an end of Morton, let us now abolish Logan. He is as dangerous a man as Morton in his way, although it is a smaller way. His pretensions are as big, but his ability to support them is less. Morton is a malignant fever; Logan is a bad case of the itch. Morton is a mountain of corruption; Logan is a swamp of malaria. No man ever built his way into power with more unscrupulous audacity than Morton; no man ever set up as a statesman on smaller capital than Logan. Arcades ambo--let them disappear.

THAT STAR.

[Wilson Advance.] Just before Judge Fowle opened his speech in court square, Monday, Sheriff Barnes discovered from the stand a star in the heavens as brilliant even at mid-day, than the oldest person in the audience could see it with the naked eye. It was the "bright star of hope" shedding its effulgent rays upon the great, grand and glorious victory, Judge Fowle so eloquently predicted for us in November.

PEOPLE AND THINGS.

[Vicksburg (Miss.) Herald.] The Raleigh Sentinel needs no eulogy from us. Every one that reads it knows how it stands on all important topics of the day, and although some may differ with it, yet all can say that it is sincere in its course, and is working for the best interest of the people of North Carolina. [Murphy Herald.] The Sentinel is a living exponent of democracy, seeking by the force of polished argument, to prove the necessity of restoring both state and national government to the guidance of the democratic party. Under its present able management it takes an enviable position among the best journals in the land, increasing the former prominence of its name by maintaining the highest degree of efficiency. Every democrat in the mountains should take it, and every republican who does not desire an addition wrinkle to his brow, should shun it, for its persuasive arguments entail thought. With better mail facilities, Murphy would contribute to support the Daily Sentinel, and this assertion is based on the extensive circulation enjoyed by the Herald's copy.

That our readers may see with what favor our paper is received by our editorial brethren, we give below a few extracts embracing "what they say" of us:

NOTICES OF THE PRESS.

[Newbern Times, Rep.] The leading democratic paper in the state. [Totopot Transcript.] The Raleigh Sentinel under its new managers and proprietors is greatly improved, and is now one of our most valuable exchanges. [Richmond, (Va.) Whig.] The Raleigh Sentinel publishes a six page weekly, the largest and handsomest paper we have seen printed in North Carolina. It shows enterprise and thrift, the result of good management and live-thunder. [Goldsboro Messenger.] The Raleigh Sentinel, under its present able management, shows a decided improvement. Edited with marked ability, its general make up and typographical appearance is excellent. * * * We wish the new management every success.

[Hickory Press.]

We are glad to herald the appearance again of that useful democratic journal, the Raleigh Sentinel. It has passed into entirely new hands, and there is evidently some one about who knows how to prepare something readable, for every issue teems with news and democratic soundness.

[From the Salem Press.]

The Raleigh Sentinel, under the new management has been much improved in manner and matter. We have been in regular receipt of the Daily Sentinel for a week or more, and hope its daily visits will continue. Specimen numbers can be seen at this office. Price of the Daily $8 per annum.

[From the Fayetteville Wide-Awake.]

The Sentinel, the name of which has been a terror to radicalism since Holden pledged "the last dollar and the last man" to the support of the Confederate States government, has passed into new hands, and is assuming an attitude from which it will hurl many a destructive caustic into radical ranks.

[Greensboro Masonic Journal.]

The Raleigh Sentinel came to us last Wed. today as a morning daily and decidedly improved. The new managers and editor promise to do better in the future, and present a better paper than the initial number. They may perhaps do it, but we can't see much chance for improvement. Gentlemen, we wish you success.

[Robesonian.]

The Raleigh Sentinel, under the present management, is very generally improved. It contains as much reading matter as heretofore, and is one of the very best daily papers in this state. In connection with a great many people of this state we reverse the name of the Sentinel, and will always learn of its prosperity with pride and pleasure. They have reduced the rates for the campaign, as will be seen in another column.

[Vicksburg (Miss.) Herald.]

The Raleigh Sentinel needs no eulogy from us. Every one that reads it knows how it stands on all important topics of the day, and although some may differ with it, yet all can say that it is sincere in its course, and is working for the best interest of the people of North Carolina.

[Murphy Herald.]

The Sentinel is a living exponent of democracy, seeking by the force of polished argument, to prove the necessity of restoring both state and national government to the guidance of the democratic party. Under its present able management it takes an enviable position among the best journals in the land, increasing the former prominence of its name by maintaining the highest degree of efficiency. Every democrat in the mountains should take it, and every republican who does not desire an addition wrinkle to his brow, should shun it, for its persuasive arguments entail thought. With better mail facilities, Murphy would contribute to support the Daily Sentinel, and this assertion is based on the extensive circulation enjoyed by the Herald's copy.
