NEW ORLEANS, March 22 .- In the election fraud cases yesterday against Casper Glazer and Owen Short, commissioners of election of the 5th precinct of the 9th ward. Peter Graves, deputy clerk of the criminal district court, presented the poll-book of precinct number 5, of the 9th ward, parish of Orleans, wherein the district atttorney charges that 65 names of persons appeared who had not voted. Several witnesses testified to having registered previous to the election, but did not vote. They presented their registration papers, which were not marked as voted, and though their names were on the poll-list as having voted. These registration papers were all offered in evidence and filed. A number of other witnesses who had not registered previous to the last election, or who registered and had lost their registration papers, and others who had registered in 1880, testified that they did not vote at the election in November last, although their names were recorded on the poll-list as having voted. At 9 P. M. the court adjourned until to day.

While the jury was bein; empaneled yesterday Walter J. Hare, a well known citizen, who had been drawn as a juror, ob. jected to serving, but the court refused to excuse him. Finally, when pressed by the District Attorney, he said: Well, I would not convict, for I don't thirk that if these young men did add names to the poll list it is one-half as bad as the infamous frauds that went on here for eight years. He was challenged for cause.

A Georgia Cotton Warehouse Burned.

COLUMBUS, GA., March 22.—At 1 o'clock this morning the Fontaine cotton warehouse was destroyed by fire. It was owned by Abe Illges and kept, by Hatcher & Brannen. Thirty-four hundred bales of cotton, forty rolls of bagging, three hundred bundles of ties, twenty barrels of syrup and forty-one bales of domestics, besides other property on storage, were burned. The Columbus bagging factory had on storage $11,000 worth of bagging. Everything except the office furniture is a total loss. The loss is estimated at $200,000 ; insurance on building and contents $145.000, which is carried by different companies represented by agents in Government fuel must be scarce. as he was caught barn burning. The office is now vacant. The sureties have been notified to take charge of the office."

The Treasury Department has ordered the payment of interest due April 1st on the 26th inst. without rebate.

John A. Walsh was before the grand jury to day. It is understood that the government is making another attempt to indict ex Postmaster General Brady, in connection with the former while United States Senator, for conspiracy in the star route matters.

LONDON, March 22 .- The Times says the new tariff law in the Uhited States is only a step towards free trade prospects, which might be changed if the prosperity of America were checked or if the Democrats were to shrink from their position on the question. The alarm of the protec tionists indicates how the prospect for free trade is at present brightened.

LYNCHBURG, VA., March 22 .- Wm. Cooper, chief of the gang of counterfeiters in southwest Virginia, has been sentenced to 3 years in the penitentiary by Roanoke county Court. The gang has been operating extensively, but it is now broken up. COLUMBIA, S. C., March 22 .- Col. W. B. Cash was fined to-day for an assult on James Herron, in a hotel here last night during a despute arising from the Fairfield election cases; Herron was also fined. Cash drew a pistol but did not use it. Two pistols were found on his person, and he was also fined for carrying concealed weapons, in addition to the other fine.

The Famous Wife Marderer ReCap-tured.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 21 .- A white man calling himself Thomas Medlin, was brought before Justice Marshall, charged with cow stealing and was committed to jail to await trial. While imprisoned he old Sheriff Rowan that he had escaped from the North Carolina lunatic asylum last October and had been living in Fairfield, from which county he stole the cow and brought it to Columbia for sale. The sheriff has ascertained from the authorities of the Asylum that the man really was an escaped lunatic, and that his name is Hoke C. Secrest. He shows occasional evidence now of insanity, and will probably be returned to the Raleigh Asylum. [This man murdered his wife and child under peculiarly revolting circumstances, and only escaped hanging on the ground that he was insane.]

At the reorganization of the Virginia Midland the other day the question was raised by President Barbour as to the extension of the Virginia Midland from Danville to Mooresville. In support of this project he stated that Mr. Robert Garrett claims that it was the understanding between the Baltimore and Ohio and the Virginia Midland that the connection would be made by the latter road, and that Mr. Garrett declares if the Midland does not undertake it "Mr. Garrett will extend his Valley Road down there and make the connection." Upon this representation the new board took the matter under advisement. The result has not

A Tobacco Tax Decision.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 22 .--Judge Lawrence, First Comptroller of the Treasury, to-day rendered a decision on the question submitted to him by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, as to whether the tax and tariff act of March 3d, 1883, either of itself or in connection with existing laws, operates as an appropriation of money necessary to pay claims which may be presented under its 4th section for a rebate of the tax on unbroken factory packages of tobacco, snuff, cheroots and cigarettes. The First Comptroller decides that this act does not make an appropriation of money for the payment of claims for rebate authorized by said 4th section, and that there is no other statute which makes the appropriation of money applicable for that purpose. He also decides that the statute authorizes the payment of claims for rebate to manufacturers in stamps at the reduced rate therein provided; but no such provision is which your correspondent desires to notice briefly. A brief notice will suffice. The theme is one which has been worn threadbare, and the matter is scarcely new, though the whole may be termed somewhat "fresh." When a young man leaves college and "launches his bark upon the tempestuous sea of life." as the debutante would express it, he sees, or thinks he sees, many existing evils in the political, economical and social systems about him, and is forthwith impelled by a laudable desire to put his lance in rest and, like Don Quixote of old, proceed to to set the world to rights. As we grow older we come to recognize the' fact that our forefathers found the same evils existing in one form or another, and that our grand-children will probably do likewise; so we are content to let matters regulate themselves,. The inequalities of trade adjust themselves, and the practical farmer best understands his own business. This nay be said of any profession or trade, for a farmer's suggestions to a lawyer how to conduct a case in court would be resented as a piece of unwarranted presumption. Let us assume that the author of this pamphlet was actuated solely by a motive to benefit the planter, and by no desire to seek popularity by pandering to the prejudices of the grumbling farmers whe, as a rule, are the least thrifty of their class. We would modestly suggest that the pamphlet contains little else than a dirge over the imaginary impoverished condition of the State at large, and a tirade of abuse against commission merchants. So far as any practical advice to the planters is concerned, we have failed to find anything which may even be termed a fair suggestion. It is the old cry of "Produce what you consume," and the planter must not consider whether or not he can raise one product to better advantage on his land than another. Oh! no, he he has not enough intelligence to do this for himself, but needs must have advice written him in a general, scattering, impractical way, by friends who would make such successful farmers themselves that it is a wonder they should desert this field of usefulness and devote their talents to a profession wherein they are allowed the leisure the compiler of

They are very explicit and provide clearly what shall be done by the owners of this property on that date, in order to secure rebate on revenue stamps affixed previous to that time. The points of these rules are as follows : "Original and unbroken factory packages" are held to embrace every whole and duly stamped package which remains as it came from the factory, with the same contents origi nally packed therein. No package from which a part of the contents has been taken can be filled up and treated as an unbroken package. All goods must be carefully inventoried in the presence of two disinterested witnesses of good standing, not clerks or employes of the claimant; the first column to contain an enumeration of the various kinds of packages of each kind, the next the total number of packages of each kind, and the next the total weight of each package. Each package of tobacco weighing more than 10 pounds bears a numbered stamp. Columns are provided for inserting then umbers of those stamps and the exact weight of the package so slamped. If any numbers or weights are omitted the claim will be held up for inquiry. These should be correctly entered and the great care taken so that they may be found to tally with stubs in the Treasury department. A further column is provided for packages of snuff of irregular weight. Each package's weight should be given and other sheets added, if necessary, for filling up any of these lists.
