THE Tallapoosa has been re-caulked and painted and has put to sea, though with commendable forethought, it is reported, none but bachelors were ordered to duty on the ship. WE are glad to note the establishment of an industrial school at Kittrell by the colored people of the State. The black man has no greater need at pres ent than that of industrial training.

JUDGE CLARE is winning words of commendation from the State press geperally for his recent stand in favor of morality and the law. He deserves them all.

PRINCE Napoleon has recently undergone an operation for the removal of part of his cheek. We can readily, see that it was necessary since the Prince recently issued a proclamation virtually declaring himself the Emperor of France

THE bill increasing the pensions of widows and dependent relatives of soldiers from $8 to $12 per month will probably pass the House, if it did not pass yesterday. The increase will cost the government about $5,000,000 a year.

MR. CANDA will probably be confirmed without question as assistant United States treasurer at New York. He is a business man of prominence in New York and has been since 1875 treasurer of the Democratic national committee.

THE policy of the British government with respect to Ireland, as foreshadowed in the Queen's speech from the throne, seems to include further coercion. This is unfortunate. There has seemed recently a possibility of such compromise as would insure a settlement of the Irish question temporarily at least. Now the whole matter is reopened, and in view of the discovery of strength recently made by the Parnellites, serious trouble may again be anticipated. A GREAT game of chess has been going on in New York for some time between Zukertort, the celebrated Hungarian player, and Steinitz, the editor of the London chess magazine, who is as famous as his adversary in the same line of skill. The game, however, has been altogether one-sided. Steinits has lost four consecutive games and the battle, royal is now to be transferred to St. Louis.

he has leave to print. Judge Bennett is certainly true to his convictions and loyal to what seems to him right, always, regardless of expediency. He has a reverence for the constitution which is most refreshing in these days of loose construction, and has read and studied the charter of our liberties, which is more than can be said of a majority of our public men. Then he is the peer in ability of any man in the House, having held his own thus far against all comers.

THE WORK OF THE BOARD OF AGRI-CULTURE.

The action of the board of agriculture yesterday with reference to the in dustrial school was very indefinite and will, unless we are wistaken, be disappointing to the people of the State There was a general demand for the establishment of the school without further delay if at all possible and the proposition made by the citizens of Raldence. eigh seemed to us at least favorable enough to warrant a beginning in a matter which is admitted by all to be of great importance. The board has taken a different view of the matter from this, however, in its wisdom, and it must be for time to tell whether or not it has acted for the best interests of all the title people. The act providing for the school made it discretionary with the board when it should be established, and in the exercise of this discretion the estabter-claim any damage he may have suslishment has been postponed indefinitely. We have no more therefore to say on

We are glad though that so laudable an initiative as the establishment of the experimental farm was taken. We can congratulate the board heartily on that result of its labors. The farm, intelligently managed, will doubtle-s become very beneficial to the agriculture of the State. It will serve as its name indicates to improve by experiment the methods of farming now in vogue thus making more prolitable the calling of the farmer and will tend to elevate that calling to the position it should hold by enlarging the element of intelligence among those who follow it. As an adjunct to a school teaching the handicrafts, which form the act providing for its establishment doubtless intended it to take, it would be of still greater value, but even as it has come to us it will be beneficial in a high degree and we therefore for our part commend the board heartily for establishing it. We are content with half a loaf when the alternative is

How He Won a Cigar. St. Paul Pioncer Press.

A young man seated in one of the easy chairs at the Windsor puffed the snoke from a very fragrant and evidently imported Havana cigar. I looked at him, and, divining my thoughts, he said: "It's a very good cigar, and was presented to me by a lady Sunday school teacher. She bet and lost, and, unlike most of the ladies, she paid her bet. You see she is a stanch defender of the Sunday school scholars, and entertained the belief that they were attached to her. I insinuated that the girls came in just before Christmas to get the little gifts which are distributed at the Christmas entertainment. She denied that such was the fact, and asserted that they would come after Christmas. I finally induced her to wager a good cigar against a box of candy, the terms of the wager being that seven children out of class of nine would not attend last Sunday. She went to Sunday school and found two of her old pupils. On the following Monday I received the cigar. There is nothing like betting on a

NORRIS & CARTER,

The price of reserved seat tickets to the Kellogg concert in Wilmington is $1.00. Here it is $1.50. Why should there be so great a difference against us? We ask the question because it seems to us that prices of admission to theatrical performances are generally too high. Meritorious performances are valuable as cultivating influences and as affording means of relaxation such as are not too numerous among us. But the prices of everything else are close to the lowest point possible and prices of tickets to public entertainments should come down to a point corresponding.

THERE is a renewal of interest in Kasttern affairs, since there seems to be decided danger of a resumption of hostilities in the neighborhood of the Balkans. Neither Bulgaria, Servia nor Greece will disarm at the demand of the powers. but on the contrary are laying in additional supplies of war material as rapidly as possible, Greece and Turkey are doing likewise, and all is apprehension in western Europe, it is reported, despite the optimism of the Vienna press. Expansion is the law of Russia's being, that is to say the Muscovite empire considers itself retrograding when not extending its limits in some direction, and it is not surprising. therefore, to learn that the Czar is occupying Bulgaria, quietly, but none the less surely on that account. Austria may be expected to follow suit by grabbing Servia, and then the whole difficulty which the world had hoped was in process of adjustment, will be reopened and a war will result that will probably end only in a general European conflict. Such a contest would be deplorable. It would have the effect of benefiting certain industries on this side the water for a period-it would stimulate the grain and provision markets-and hence would probably be welcomed by a certain class of speculators, but the reaction from the artificial demand would be inevitable and would be injurious to the business interests of the world. War is to be deprecated under all circumstances is a great evil and now that the four quarters are so closely bound together by the ties of trade the effects of a struggle anywhere on the globe are felt everywhere else almost immediately after the shock All markind may be regarded now-s-days as affected promptly to a greater or less extent by every battle fought any where on the face of the earth. remembered, was directed to the secretary of the navy, and called upon him for information concerning the truth or falsity of the statement that the commandant of the navy yard at Norfolk "has caused honorable inscriptions heretofore borne on cannon captured by United States military or naval forces to be obliterated;" that the same officer has cansed to be removed from the dry dock a tablet placed there at the time it was reconstructed, and which the inscription, "Destroyed by bore the Rebels in 1862, rebuilt by the United States government in 1863;" and that persons who had served in the United States and were subsequently employed in the navy yard, had been dismissed "and their places filled by men who fought against the government during rebel-lion." The committee very wisely concluded that the war had been over many. many years, all the Republican memers with the exception of Mr. Boutelle agreeing in this view, and that there was no sense or reason in the constant attempt to revive the i sues of the unfortunate struggle. Nothing treasonable has been done at Norfolk and there has been no mismanagement. The only thing Mr. Bout-lle has gained is the result that his original resolution has been so amended that if finally adopted it will enable the secretary of the navy to investigate the management of the Norfolk yard under Chandler's administration, when it was unscrupulously used as a rendezvous for Mahone and his political followers-when it was a synonym for Republican rottenness. A great victory

Gun. Cox's committee on civil service reform very sensibly decided upnnimously to report adversely the bill introduced by an Ohio member to repeal the civil service law. The law is unperfect as all tentative laws are, since human nature is itself imperfect, but its principle is sound and rightly interpreted the Democratic party, which evolved it, wishes it enforced in accordance with the will of the people.

The Willow and its Uses. Weldon News.

The willow used for manufacturing purposes is the ozier or white willow and is cultivated in various places in the United States. It is also largely imported. There is some of this species of willow growing on the farm of Mr. J. N. Smith, of Scotland Neek. About twenty-five or thirty years ago a steam boat captain came up the river and give Mr. Smith a twig of ozier willow, which he stuck into the ground. He paid no attention to it whatever in the way of cultivation, but now there is a large quantity of it growing on the place, having spread considerably. It proves conclusively that this species can be successfully grown on the Roanoke, and would be profitable towady one who Phenomenal Fecundity. Naples Letter to Paris Register. The most extraordinary case of focundity that I ever heard of came to my knowledge last week. About twentyfive miles from here, and by rail two or three stations beyond Pompeii, is the histerical city or Noceta (the Nucera of the ancients.) * The Sharp Old Sheriff of Nash. Battleboro Headlight.

Orleans

A capital story is told of the method by which a former sheriff of Nash county secured his election The ruse was elever, and therefore characteristic of a Nash county man. The sheriff in question was uncertain of his election, and knowing that the contest would be close determined to make some special effort. A near neighbor of his was opposed to his election and to win him over he invited him to dinner, bidding at the same time another acquaintance, with whom it was agreed that he should pick a quarrel with the unsuspecting neighbor. Accordingly it was done, whereupon the candidate angrily ordered his friend from the house and after he had gone remarked: "Well, I have lost a vote, but you shall not be insulted in my house if it boats me." "If," replied his neighbor, "you have lost a vote you have gained one also. I'm going to vote for you." He did and the sheriff was elected by a majority of one. Of course the friend who made the quarrel merely "played off " to gain the important vote.

There is great excitement in Hancock county, W. Va. over natural gas development. More than a dozen wells are being put down. People are flocking there from all quarters and leasing hand at high prices. Wellsville, Ohio, just opposite, is sharing in the excitament.
