CONGRESSIONAL.

THE SENATE DOES SOMETHING REALLY IMPORTANT WORK.

The House at Work on the Naval Appropriation Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—SENATE.—On motion of Mr. Hoar, the Senate passed the House bill to permit the entry free of duty of dutiable foreign goods for exhibition at the fourth biennial exposition of the United States botanists' protective association.

Mr. Mahone, from the committee on public buildings and grounds, reported back with amendment the House bill for the erection of public buildings at Jacksonville, Fla. The amendment was agreed to and the bill passed.

Mr. Miller asked leave to call up the bill to amend an act prohibiting the importation of contract labor. Objected to by Mr. Edmunds, on the ground that the bill proposed to give the execution of the law to State officials.

Mr. Coke offered a resolution discharging the committee on finance from further consideration of the House joint resolution for the payment of the surplus in the treasury on the public debt. He gave notice that he would call it up Monday and ask a vote upon it.

A resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Edmunds, instructing the committee on foreign relations to inquire into the violation of the rights of American fishing and merchant vessels in Canadian waters, was taken up and adopted.

Mr. Hawley reported from the committee on printing a resolution for the collection and printing of Presidential votes from the organization of Congress to the present time, arranged in chronological order. This was adopted. The Senate at 11:45 resumed the consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill.

Going back to a paragraph on page 19, requiring the secretary of the treasury to issue silver certificates of $1, $2 and $5 "on all surplus silver dollars now in the treasury, in payment of appropriations made in this bill and other expenditures or obligations of the government," which certificates "shall be redeemable in standard silver dollars on demand and when paid into the treasury shall be re-issued, subject to the provisions herein, for redemption of the same," the committee on appropriations recommends the striking out of the clauses within the quotation marks and to add the following: "Provided that the said denominations of $1, $2 and $5 may be issued in lieu of silver certificates of larger denominations in the treasury, and to that extent the said certificates of larger denominations shall be cancelled and destroyed."

Mr. Beck offered as a substitute for the paragraph the amendment of which he gave notice some time ago and addressed the Senate in explanation and advocacy of the amendment. At the close Mr. Beck's speech a point of order was made by Mr. Allison against the amendment, that it was general legislation, and the point was sustained by the chair, thus excluding the amendment. An amendment recommended by the committee, striking out the words "on all surplus silver dollars," etc., was agreed to without a division. An amendment striking out the words "and shall be redeemable in standard silver dollars," etc., was agreed to; yeas 25, nays 24, as follows: Yeas, Messrs. Aldrich, Allison, Butler, Cameron, Chase, Conger, Dawes, Dolph, Edmunds, Everts, Frye, Gray, Hale, Harrison, Hawley, Hoar, McMillan, Miller, Palmer, Platt, Sawyer, Sherman, Spooner, Stanford and Wilson, of Iowa—25. Nays, Messrs. Beck, Berry, Brown, Call, Camden, Coke, Colquitt, George, Gibson, Harris, Ingalls, Jones, of Arkansas, Jones, of Nevada, Maxey, Mitchell, of Oregon, Pugh, Riddleberger, Teller, Vance, Vest, Voorhees, Walhalla, Whitthorne, and Wilson, of Maryland—25.

An amendment adding the words "providing that the said denominations," etc., was agreed to without a division. The clause as it now stands reads as follows: "And the secretary of the treasury is hereby authorized and required to issue silver certificates in denominations of $1, $2 and $5, and the silver certificates herein authorized shall be receivable, redeemable and payable in like manner for like purposes as is provided for silver certificates by the act of February 25, 1878, entitled 'an act to authorize the coinage of the standard silver dollar and to restore its legal tender character; provided that said denominations of $1, $2 and $5 may be issued in lieu of the silver certificates of larger denominations in the treasury and to that extent the said certificates of larger denominations shall be cancelled and destroyed.'"

Mr. Beck gave notice that when the bill was reported back to the Senate he would demand votes on these amendments. On motion of Mr. Dawes an item appropriating $25,000 for the education of children of school age in Alaska, without regard to race, was inserted. On motion of Mr. Hoar an item appropriating $7,500 for the purchase of W. F. Halsall's painting of "The First Fight of the Ironclads" was inserted.

Mr. Blair moved to add to a clause appropriating $50,500 for the expenses of inauguration of the Bartholdi statue the following proviso: "Provided, however, that no part of the sum herein appropriated shall be used to procure or pay for spirituous liquors, or tobacco, or stimulants or narcotics, in any form; neither shall any charge or expenditure for the same be paid by the United States." Mr. Allison assured the Senator from New Hampshire that there was not the slightest probability of any such thing being done. He hoped the Senate would not pass his amendment. Mr. Blair assured the Senator from Iowa that if he did not think it necessary he would not have offered it.

Mr. Allison said there was nothing in the appropriation except a small sum to entertain guests. Mr. Allison made a point of order that the amendment was not in order, but the point was overruled by the chair (Mr. Sherman) on the ground that the Senate had power to limit the use of an appropriation. Mr. Blair said he had desired the amendment to be adopted without remark. He had not anticipated opposition, but as to there being no danger of money being used in that way, he had only to refer to the recent celebration at Yorktown, where between $7,000 and $8,000 was spent out of the public treasury for the nations of the earth to get drunk upon. Mr. Gorman moved to lay the amendment on the table. A vote taken by yeas and nays resulted yeas 27, nays 28, so the amendment was not laid on the table, and it was agreed to without a division.

On motion of Mr. Ransom an item of $20,000 was inserted for establishing a light at Harbor Island bar, between Pamlico and Core sounds, N. C. The Senate at 6 p. m. took a recess till 8 o'clock, with the purpose of finishing the bill tonight.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill and all amendments were adopted as in committee of the whole. The amendments reserved were those in reference to the issue of silver certificates. Mr. Beck demanded the yeas and nays on an amendment to strike out the words "on all surplus silver dollars now in the treasury in payment of appropriations made in this bill and other expenditures or obligations of the government." Mr. Sherman appealed to Mr. Beck not to attempt to force such legislation on the bill at this stage of the session. He believed it to be a breach of public faith and contrary to the pledged faith of the nation. The discussion of it at this time seemed to be a mockery of legislation. Its passage would alarm public credit and do much to bring about a condition of affairs which everybody would regret, in which gold would disappear from circulation and be either hoarded or exported. The legislation proposed a revolution in the currency which would endanger the whole foundation of the financial system of the country. He said it had no place in the bill, being a change of the existing law, and not being reported by the committee on appropriations or the committee on finance. He trusted that the gentleman from Kentucky would have a reasonable deference for the opinion of others, who had studied the question as much as he (Mr. Beck) had. It seemed to him an unpardonable piece of legislation at this time. Mr. Beck replied to Mr. Sherman, stating that the proposition had come from the House of Representatives and was in the bill. It had been distributed among the Senators for a month and had been before the committee on finance at the suggestion of the Senator from Ohio himself, and then was not acted upon. He declared that the silver coinage of the country had never had a more inveterate enemy than the Senator from Ohio. Mr. Sherman denied that accusation and claimed to be a better friend to silver than the Senator from Kentucky.

Mr. Allison said the House provision was a crude and undigested provision which had been put in the bill for the single purpose only, and that was to coerce an unwilling President or administration. After considerable discussion and votes on a variety of amendments, the paragraph as to silver certificates was left in the shape in which it was fixed this afternoon by the Senate as in committee of the whole. The bill was passed and the first reading was dispensed with. The Senate at 10:39 adjourned.

Immediately after the reading of the journal the house went into committee of the whole (Mr. Crisp in the chair) on the bill for an increase of the navy. After speeches by Messrs. Herbert, Boutelle and others, the original bill was read by sections, for amendments, Mr. Ballentine moved an amendment appropriating $1,300,000 for the construction of a cruiser of between 2,500 and 3,500 tons displacement, with a speed of not less than 16 knots, upon plans designed and specifications furnished by Charles D. Lundberg, of New York. This was adopted; 37 to 36. (This amendment is intended as a substitute for a clause providing for the construction of three protected double-bottomed cruisers.)

On motion of Mr. Beck an amendment was adopted inserting in the bill a provision contained in the substitute, for a dynamite gun cruiser. Mr. Boutelle moved to strike out a clause which authorizes the secretary of the navy in certain emergencies to import armor for the new cruisers. Agreed to; 101 to 67.

Mr. Brady, of Virginia, offered an amendment providing that one of the new vessels shall be built at the Norfolk navy-yard. He was afraid that unless such provision were inserted in the bill the President and the secretary of the navy would discriminate against the Norfolk yard. The amendment was rejected. The committee rose and reported the bill to the House. Mr. Ballentine's amendment was rejected without revision. The other amendments were rejected upon a vote and they were reported; yeas 108, nays 111. Mr. Herbert offered as a substitute for the bill a proposition agreed to by the committee on naval affairs, which had been published. It was agreed to; yeas 117, nays 104, and the bill as amended was passed. The House at 5 o'clock took a recess until 8 o'clock, the evening session to be for the consideration of land forfeiture bills.

New York Cotton Futures. New York, July 24.—Green & Co.'s report on cotton futures says: It was a slow and not particularly eventful market and a noticeable feature was an undercurrent of considerable steadiness.

Liverpool sent over fairly encouraging advices and the "shorts" were inclined to cover, while a sprinkling of new buying orders increased the demand slightly and gave a fractional advance, which at the close was very well sustained, with light offerings, especially for the next two or three months.

Bank Statement. New York, July 24.—The weekly statement of the associated banks is as follows: Reserve increase, $659,275; loans increase, $188,400; specie increase, $254,300; legal tenders decrease, $73,800; deposits decrease, $1,915,100; circulation increase, $56,100. The banks now hold $14,270,200 in excess of the 25 per cent. rule.

The Falls of Neuse. COR. OF THE NEWS AND OBSERVER. In company with Hon. A. S. Merriam and Spier Whitaker, Esq., your correspondent took the R & G. R. train on the 23d inst. for Neuse depot; where we were met by Col. Wm. F. Askew, the genial and hospitable proprietor of the Falls of Neuse paper mills, with an elegant pair of bay horses, such as are rarely seen even in this country; and in fifteen or twenty minutes we were resting ourselves in the country residence of our host. After dinner (and such a dinner) we went down to the mills, about a quarter of a mile distant, and spent several hours in looking at the magnificent water-power and elegant machinery for making paper. We all were greatly delighted and highly instructed, examining into the mysteries of making paper, from the wood and dirty rags, to the paper in all its smoothness and polish as it came rolling out of the machine at the rate of three thousand pounds in every twenty four hours. This is perhaps the finest water-power in this part of the State, and it does seem a pity to see wasted so much power, enough to run thousands of spindles, in addition to that now utilized. The property, with about 400 acres attached, originally cost the present owner $30,000, and he has since expended for valuable machinery and other permanent improvements $70,000 or $80,000 more; and with a judicious expenditure of a few thousand dollars more this would be one of the finest properties in the South.

It was really interesting to see how greatly judge Merriam and Mr. Whitaker enjoyed the sweet country air and beautiful scenery, and how they were exhilarated and refreshed by their trip. The judge was, as usual, talkative and facetious, and many times did the society laugh ring out in response to the witty remarks of our host. Mr. Editor, if you have never visited the Falls of Neuse, go there without delay. The judge and Mr. Whitaker returned to the city by the evening train. Your correspondent, being a younger man, lingered behind. Why? Go ask the two pretty saddle horses they pranced along over the beautiful hills and lovely valleys that afternoon; go ask that delicious water as it rushed, cold as ice, out of the solid rock and quenched the thirst of your correspondent and another; go ask those beautiful eyes, and if you get no answer there you may, as your correspondent has already done, give up in despair.

A WAR CLOUD.

A SERIOUS STATE OF AFFAIRS ON THE MEXICAN BORDER.

Feeling Between the two Republics High, With Talk of War.

CHICAGO, July 24.—A special from El Paso and Fort Texas, published this morning, indicates that great excitement prevails throughout Texas over the detention of editor Cutting by the authorities of the state of Chihuahua after the repeated demands for his release by the American consul. The newspapers of this section assert that the men of Texas are ready for war, and that it needs but a word to start one.

A special from San Antonio says: "There is considerable bustle about the military headquarters here, and although the officers are reticent, the report is current that general Stanley has received orders to have all his available force in readiness to move at a moment's notice to El Paso, whenever the order therefor is received. The gathering of the Mexican war cloud is watched here with a great deal of interest, and but one opinion prevails, and that is that the Mexican government should be taught that it cannot treat American citizens with indignity."

Keeping it secret: Little Boy—"Who is that man, pa, who stands on a platform, shouting and swinging his arms so?" Father—"That is Mr. Powderly, my son." Little Boy—"And what are those sheets of paper he is tossing up in the air and distributing among all the crowd?" Father—"It is the last secret circular he has issued, my boy. He is trying to keep it from the public.—Texas Siftings.

Father—"What ought I to do to a boy who is lazy and disobedient, who has no respect for his parents? What should be done to that kind of a boy?" Son—"Don't, for heaven's sake, talk him to death. Give me the lickin' that's comin' to me, an' be done with it."—Texas Siftings.

Mrs. Bagley—"William, how is it that Boston people are so literary, so refined, so noble and so celebrated?" Bagley (angrily)—"They ain't. Because your father's aunt was born in Boston you are a regular Hub worshiper. Tell me, now, if Boston is so great, why don't they get up a big exposition?" Mrs. Bagley (tranquilly)—"Perhaps, my dear, there is nothing to expose."—Philadelphia Call.

Satisfactorily Explained. From Texas Siftings. A German student who spent most of his own and his friends' money in riotous living applied to an old absent-minded professor for a certificate that he had attended his lectures regularly.

"But I can't remember ever having seen you in my lecture room," replied the professor. "You probably confound me with another student who never attended your lectures, but whom I resemble very much in personal appearance." "Ah, that explains it," replied the absent-minded old man, signing the desired certificate.

Nellie Grant's Unhappy Marriage.

Washington Letter to Indianapolis Journal.

Gen. Grant's daughter, Nellie, who married into the Sartorius family, of Boston, and whose treatment by her husband has become so notorious throughout this country, will leave her unpleasant home in the north of England and return to America with her children. For more than two years Mr. Sartorius has not contributed one cent towards his wife's support, and she has lived entirely on the remittances sent her from home. Sartorius spends his time in London, carousing about the cafes and clubs, drinking and making merry with women of little reputation, while his wife remains at an isolated country seat, year in and year out. Many stories have been told of his shocking treatment of her. A gentleman said, some time ago, that he had seen and heard her begging him to remain at home, simply to abate the scandal that was in progress. But no, he would not listen to her for an instant, and the next hour off he went with a couple of riotous companions to London.

Sartorius has no business; he never attempts any for the simple reason he has not sufficient brains to conduct a dog case before a justice of the peace. He lives on an allowance of £700 per annum, given him by his father, with which he takes himself to London, lives in style for about three or four months, and then returns penitently to his sorrowing wife and proceeds to borrow some more. Then a few months of "life" is repeated at the gay metropolis, and the second act is gone over again, and so on, year by year.

Mrs. Sartorius, it seems, being a high-bred American girl, does not propose to stand this sort of thing any longer. She has been repeatedly urged to leave her unnatural husband and return to her mother, but up to a few weeks ago she had refused to entertain the thought. At last, however, life at the Sartorius mansion has become so distasteful to her that she has accepted the alternative, and will come back to her once happy home.
