R. B. PREBLES,

Ch'm Dem. Ex. Com. 2d Cong. Dis.

Ir may not be improper for us to state that every communication received at clear that the democrats can lose all the this office commending either judge Strong or Mr. Pruden for nomination has been promptly published by us.

The crop news from all quarters is DEFAULTER GRAY varied the monotony, He went to death, not to Canada.

Tun democrats of Ohio, Missouri, Michigan and Pennsylvania all heartily endorse the administration.

A COMBINED letter-sheet and stamped envelope is to be introduced by the postoffice department, which will suggest old-time stationery no little.

Wm learn from Mr. T. C. Oakley, of Durham, that he does not expect to be an independent candidate, as was mentioned recently by our very excellent correspondent at Durham, who certainly had no purpose to do Mr. Oakley an injustice.

THERE will be a great conclave of the Knights Templar in St. Louis next month. Three thousand knights will be on hand and a hundred thousand other people are expected to be present in order to witness and share in the great demonstration that will be made The regular conclaves of the knights are triennial.

THE Col. John R. Winston, who is the independent candidate for Congress in the fifth district, is the same Col Winston who blossoms out perennially in the same guise for the same place. Though always an irregular, he is reg ularly beaten, and so he will be this time. The regular democratic nominee | been condemned was in effect that one will leave him in the lurch, as usual.

So was the proceedings of the Irish convention at Chicago have been reasonably harmonious. The influence of the body for good certainly depends upon the prevalence of conservatism in its counsels. We trust therefore that the disciples of "physical force" may continue to be kept in the background.

LITTLE is heard of Brer Linney's alleged independentism. Like Brer Rabbit, our brother lies low. We would fraternally remind him that it is never too late to mend and if he is wrestling with doubt in the wilderness of uncertainty we would again suggest the lamp which to the best of our knowledge and belief still holds out to burn

It is said that Chas. R. has attributed to Gen. Ransom the saying that he "no longer panders to the will of the people." Certainly Gen. Ransom never said anything on that line at all. Now that Charles R., who seems to have dropped his old name as he has dropped his old party, has soured on the democrats, people ought not to attach any importance to his flings at our demoeratic officers.

REV. DR. G. W. PEPPER, the Metinodist clergyman who rose in the Irish convention at Chicago and said that when Parnell should send the message, sippians would never stoop so low as to that she must not shine on thy face too "Come and help us." there would be "at least one vacant pulpit in the United States," was at one time, it is said, a resident of Raleigh. He had no charge here, but was connected with one of the marks. If they pass untwisted into a "Yes, my darling." war, we believe.

SWEAR 'EM ING

There are now outstanding about

$130,000,000 of three per cent United State bonds, and the government is paying them at the rate of $100,000,000 per annum. Before the representatives to be elected this fall shall meet in December, 1887, all of these bonds will be retired. The annually according surplus revenue is about $80,000,000, and aper sentafter the expiration of time paid for if no tax reduction is made, the overshadowing public question will be, how shall the government rid the treasury of the surplus revenue? In order to prevent the piling up of the people's money in the vaults of the government, schemes will be devised to squander it: and as long as these squandering schemes are allowed, there will be no great pressure for tax reduction. But if the representatives to be elected this fall be pledged to the people on the stump to vote against "steals" and "jobs," then the condition of the overflowing treasury will be such as to force tax reduction. The people all over the United States ought to "swear in" all candidates of both parties against jobbery and unnecessary appropriations. By this means we will at length attain a reduction of taxation. Another matter of interest connected with the situation is this: The law requires that in each year there shall be set apart as a sinking fund a sum equal to one per cent of the outstanding, debt and also the interest on the bonds already purchased by the sinking Tund. The three per cent bonds are now being naid at par-but after next year no bonds can be bought for the sitking fund except at an enormous premium. Shall the government in paying off its bonds before maturity also pay a heavy premium for then? Usually when debt is paid before maturity a discount is allowed. In this case a premium will be exacted. What are the people going to do about it? Are they going to pay $125 to take up now a bond for $100 which is not due for nearly twenty years? Would any private person do tember 1st, at 4 p m. to nominate a that in his own business when the intercandidate for Congress and appoint an est is only 4 per cent? Let us swear in the candidates.

> THE NEXT HOUSE. It is difficult to see on what grounds the republicans expect as they say they to to capture the next Federal House To one who looks into the matter it is districts which are considered close and still retain a majority. In the absence of any stirring issue this year it is to be expected that some districts will be lost through indifference but this cause will of course operate upon both parties alike. For example, in Indiana the demorats may lose in one or two intances but party lines are so closel drawn that the republicans are almost certain to lose two or three districts now held by the slimmest of pluralities. In Missouri, the democrats are likely to gain the Kansas City district but on the other hand, it is likely that they will lose one other. In New York we can hardly hope to hold as many districts as we now have, though even there it is not impossible that the losses and gains will generally equalize each other. The Albany district, which was lost two years ago, will certainly be recovered. And so we might go on. The republicans cannot figure out anything like a majority for the life of them. There are some forty odd doubtful; districts, chiefly in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Ohio, but while, in some of these, exceptional causes may have produced the result two years ago, it seems to be true that like causes operate still to render the districts doubtful. There is no possibility of the democrats losing the House. They have the vantage ground,

THE country will learn with satisfaction that the Chicago anarchists have been dealt with in accordance with their deserts. It is gratifying to know that the law is still and everywhere equal to the protection of society. The defense may openly advocate bloodshed, may organize murder, may drill, arm and instruct assassins, but so long as witnesses may not be produced who have actually seen him throw a bomb or otherwise personally take life he is innecent and nust be set free. It is well that this cobweb has been brushed away. It is well that the man who notoriously engages in teaching, encouraging and urging the policy of destruction, who is thoroughly identified with the propaganda of blood, who is clearly proven to have contrived and directed a murderous outbreak is pronounced a murderer. The decision in Chicago has been made in the interest of civilization. The anarchist, the socialist, the dynamitard may as well take warning and understand once for all that there is no comfort in this land of the free for any of his kind.

and by the grace of the country's good sense they will keep it indefinitely, or so long as the people desire an honest,

of public affairs.

Hon. JEFFERSON DAVIS addressed the members of the democratic congressional convention of the sixth Mississippi district Wednesday, during a recess of the convention and by invitation. He said as to the President's appointments that Mr. Cleveland was a man entirely new to national politics and could not therefore be expected to escape opensional mistakes, and touching the negro vote the Southern democrats should be congratulated upon having educated their slaves up to a grade of citizenship so can do for me to show your affection " wherever it has been worked it is maghigh that the republicans thought them ht to exercise the right of civilization. | pluck the stars from the cerulean dome? | bottoms. In the son of Jere Black the Pennsylvania democrate have named a man of great strength and one who will probably lead his party to victory, though Pennsylvania is generally largely republican. His nomination was very much feared by the republicans. His reputation, both personal and publie, is spotless, and as compared with the republican nominee he is generally the better liked, as he is the better man. The prohibition candidate will be named next week and he will probably be one Wolfe, a republican dissenter. Then the breach in the republican ranks of 1882 has never been healed, so that the outlook for democracy in the Keystone State is encouraging all around. The democratic platform enthusiastically endorses the present governor, Pattison, who is himself a democrat, and of the administration says: "We endorse the demccratic reform administration of President Cleveland. It has given confidence to the business industries of the country, purged the departments of corruption, checke i extravagance, discouraged class legislation and monopolies, elevated the civil service from the partisan debasement to which it has been reduced by previous administrations, and has made the people of the United States feel reassured confidence in the perpetuity and safety of the nation.

In connection with a paragraph from the Biblical Recorder to the effect that Latham will probably have a close brush in the first district," the Raleigh correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch, mentions that "Skinger, who was defeated by Latham is a Baptist.' The obvious inference from the juxtaposition of these two ideas takes a long farewell when it is understood that Mr Skinner is not a Baptist, but a member of another denomination. There is no church matter involved, and we hope that every democrat in the first district will buckle on his armer and see to it that Latham is elected.

THE story of the Chicago cockrosch tournament is confirmed by later ac counts. The effort to explain it away as a "cricket" match failed as it de served to fail.

The Madison Republicans. Cor. of the NEWS AND OBSERVER.

ASHEVILLE, August 19. The republicans of Madison county met in convention Tuesday and nominated the following ticket: For the house, J. C. Pritchard; sheriff, M. A. Chandler; register, B. T. Chandler; clerk, J. J. White; treasurer, J. A. Nichols; coroner, Dr. Joseph Brand.

This nomination is equivalent to an ection, the democrats being in chronic minority. Mr. Pritchard is the present member of the legislature from that county.

Prof. S. F. Venable has announced that he will on September 20th open a first class military school here. Prof. W. Pinkuey Mason, formerly of the U 3. navy, is associated with him as commandant of cadets. A large school building is to be erected; and this noble educational enterprise it is hoped will meet with high and permanent success.

Spirit of the State Press.

It seems so inconsistent in party men to make use of such reckless assertions. just before the nominating convention meets, as that they will not support A or B of his party if nominated. How much principle has any good party man who lets his personal animosity overcome the love of his country and party principles. It would be much more honorable in him to be silent. He should recollect that every man has his faults as well as the man he opposes. All have enemies; no public man is without some, and we should bear with one another's faults, as "there are none perefficient and economical administration fect."-Edenton Enquirer.

The other element political outside the democratic party, is naught if not based on selfishness, and, indeed, the quintessence of selfishness inself-independentism. Malone, Linney and 'Charles R." Their platform correctly stated is: 1 We want to go Congress: therefore, fellow citizens, come out to the polls and vote for us." Of course, no set up in behalf of the men who have other thing can be proclaimed in reason as a claim upon the people; and of course the people may be, in all resson, expected to do by them as they have been in the habit of doing by such, and they will be decently interred on the day of the election, too deep for resurrection Their very candidacy will subserve the desired end of rallying and solidifying the democratic party. The more of them the worse will be their defeat .-Monroe Enquirer and Express.

When has there been such an admin istration in the last quarter of a century. that had at its head such a statesman as Grover Cleveland! When under a republican administration were such men as Lamar and Garland taken into the cabinet from the South, and when was there such a broad, liberal, democratic, unsectional administration as we have today? Take off your hat, old friend, to the only President this whole country has had for twenty-five years! Isn't sweet potatoes. this enough for rejoicing? But this isn't all. The internal revenue laws will be modified if not repealed, and you may safely count on the tariff being reduced .- Kernersville News and Farm.

Hon. J. B. Batchelor for Supreme Court Cor. of the News and Observer.

SCOTLAND NECK, N. C., August 18. It gives me much pleasure to see the name of our old county-man, the Hon. Joseph B. Batchelor, mentioned in connection with a position upon the supreme court. And but for the remarkable concensus of public opinion upon the "old court" I should have deemed it strange that the name of so ripe a scholar and such an accomplished legal mind had not been mentioned before. No man in the State would fill more completely in every respect the full measure of the ideal judge than would Mr. Batchelor. He is an able, learned, courteous, dignified lawyer He has a reputation for profound legal learning second to that of no man in the State.

sure has never arraigned him. He is one of those strong, powerful conservative men who make their influence felt. He is a strong democrat and has never faltered in his allegiance to party. He is a fine type of the able lawyer of the "old school"-a class of men that is rapidly passing away. He practiced with such men as Moore, Graham and Bragg, and was always re garded as a foe worthy of their steel.

As a man, he stands without spot or blemish. He is a man with such elevation of moral character that even cen-

He should be a great favorite with the young lawyers, for many of them have been kindly assisted by him. Many times has the writer seen him explaining intricate problems of the law to young men, with a zeal and earnestness and patience that convinced him that he loved his profession and that he desired to see all who had adopted it honor it.

It is the characteristic of great minds to be free from envy. This truth is strikingly illustrated in this instance. Some lawyers of shallow minds and superficial knowledge look upon their young brethren with sinister eyes and seem to regard them as trespassers upon their rights. Not so with men of Mr. Batchelor's type. Not so with him. His heart overflows with warm sympathy for the young, and he is a fit exemplar worthy in every way to be followed

Let the convention of the people when it assembles do away with sickly sentiment. let it perform its duties calmly and dispassionstely; let judgment and sense control; let the best legal talent in the State be selected; let no secondfate man's name be considered for a moment; let the court be selected from the best legal minds in the State. Foremost among the ripest legal minds stands Joseph B. Batchelor. Let the State honor itself by elevating him.

The Supreme Court.

At Wilmington Wednesday, after a dispute between two baseball clubs, a general fight followed. John Maxwell had George Johnson down, and while in this position cut him with a large knife, inflicting a deep wound in the side, which the physician says may result fatally. During the progress of the fight Maxwell had his head cut by a stone thrown by some one of the party, the Star says.
