CHARLESTON.

THE SHOCK OF TUESDAY MORNING DOES DAMAGE.

THE BEAUTIFUL CUSTOM HOUSE SUFFERS SOMEWHAT.

CHARLESTON, Sept. 22.—The day has passed quietly, the streets presenting an unusual scene of activity. The chief subject of conversation was the preposterous prediction of Wiggins, of a new earthquake the 25th.

New York Cotton Futures.

New York, September 22.—The Post says: The cotton market opened this morning for futures steady at 34 1/2 points decline. At the opening October sold 9 24 1/2 23 1/2 24; November 9 27; December 9 30; January 9 37; March 9 53; June 9 78. After the opening call the market was easy and previous to noon had made a further decline of 3 points. A decline of 6 7 points in the price of futures led to the purchase of 78,000 bales up to 2.15 p. m. At the close the market was quite steady.

More Earthquake Shocks.

The earthquake shocks at Charleston Tuesday morning were felt in this State. At Wilmington two distinct shocks of earthquake were felt during Monday night, one about 1:30 o'clock, and the other about 4:30. There was a distinct shock of an earthquake there at 5:20 a. m. Tuesday. It caused some of the clocks in the city to stop and awoke a good many citizens, the Review says, causing considerable alarm with some.

Another Challenge for the Cup.

New York, Sept. 22.—John H. Bird, secretary of the New York yacht club, received today the following message: GLASGOW, Sept. 21. On behalf of James Bell, a member of this club, I officially intimate a challenge for the America's cup, the contest to take place next September. (Signed) WM. YORK, Sec'y Royal Clyde Yacht Club.

Minnesota Republican State Convention.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 22.—The republican state convention assembled here today and organized by the appointment of A. C. Wedge as temporary chairman. After the appointment of the usual committees the convention adjourned until the afternoon.

Civilians Continue to be Arrested.

MADRID, Sept. 22.—Arrests of the civilians suspected of complicity in last Sunday's revolt continue. Gen. Villacampa who led the revolt is reported as lying wounded in a peasant's cottage.

All Quiet at Charleston.

CHARLESTON, S. P. 22.—Charleston passed a quiet night with no shocks of alarms. At Summerville there was a slight shock about 3 o'clock this morning.

Rioting Ceased.

BELFAST, Sept. 22.—The city is quiet today. It is believed the worst is now over.

Political Notes.

Pamlico county democratic convention made the following nominations: house of representatives, J. B. Martin; sheriff, J. F. Sawyer; clerk, Festus Miller; register of deeds, Thomas D. Perkins; treasurer, John S. Cooper; coroner, W. W. Jones; surveyor, Paul Tingle.

A Grand Jubilee.

HOW THE DEMOCRATS CELEBRATED YESTERDAY AT BURGAW.

Special Dispatch to the News and Observer: BURGAW, N. C., Sept. 22.

One thousand pounds of meats was consumed at a barbecue given complimentary to Maj. C. W. McClammy, at Burgaw today. W. H. Kitchon, O. H. Allen, E. W. Kerr and others spoke. The attendance was very large and the enthusiasm was notable.

Foreign News.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Sir J. Ferguson, under foreign secretary, announced in the house of commons this afternoon that personal communications were passing in London between the representatives of Her Majesty's government and the United States minister in the direction of the removal of the friction between the fishing interests of the United States and Canada, arising out of the defects of the present treaties.

Lord Randolph Churchill gave notice of the intention of the government to introduce early next session measures for considerable modification in the present method of conducting public business in the house of commons.

The announcement is accepted as portending further repressive measures against the Parnellites. Thirty-one unionists voted with the Tories last night against Parnell's land bill. Ninety-six members were paired.

The Knights Templar.

St. Louis, Sept. 22.—The Knights Templar are in attendance upon their 23rd triennial convocation. Thousands of visitors and a great number of citizens devoted their time today to the charity exercises at the fair grounds for the benefit of the widows and orphans of the late war. Early this morning the streets were thronged with thousands, on their way thither. There was no room for "one more" on any of the street cars running to the grounds and vehicles of every description were utilized to convey eager spectators to the scene to witness the Knights Templar competitive drill and the Gilmore concert. The merchants' exchange held no session in honor of the event, and released the clerks as well as their employers, wasting but little time in proceeding to the grounds. As the morning passed away the usually busy streets became almost deserted, so many availed themselves of the opportunity of contributing to this charitable cause. The only class of people present in the city who did not generally attend the exercises were members of the grand encampment, whose meeting at 11 o'clock made it absolutely impossible for them to leave the city. They were represented however by a few who obtained leave to absent themselves from the meeting.

The Nominee for Solicitor in the Second District.

Correspondence of the NEWS AND OBSERVER. September 20, 1886. Having known Mr. W. A. Dunn for years, I was very glad to see his nomination for the office of solicitor in the second district, for I am satisfied that if elected he will discharge the duties of the office in a manner entirely satisfactory to his fellow-citizens of the district. He is a good lawyer, faithful to every duty imposed upon him; a man of integrity and character, and exemplary habits, and I trust that the people of his district in appreciation of his great worth will elevate him to the high position.

More Earthquake Shocks.

The earthquake shocks at Charleston Tuesday morning were felt in this State. At Wilmington two distinct shocks of earthquake were felt during Monday night, one about 1:30 o'clock, and the other about 4:30. There was a distinct shock of an earthquake there at 5:20 a. m. Tuesday. It caused some of the clocks in the city to stop and awoke a good many citizens, the Review says, causing considerable alarm with some. Numbers of Charlotte's citizens were aroused soon after 5 o'clock Tuesday morning by the well remembered sensation of an earthquake shock, which, from all reports, must have been as severe any felt since the memorable night of the 31st of last August. Several citizens of the county reported having felt the shock quite sensibly.

Congressional Appointments.

Hon. James W. Reid, democratic candidate for Congress, and John M. Brower, republican candidate for Congress, will address the people at the following times and places: Prestonville, October 4th. Danbury, October 5th. Mt. Airy, October 6th. Dobson, October 7th. Dalton's, October 8th. Winston, October 9th. Kernersville, October 11th. Greensboro, October 12th. McLeansville, October 13th. Young's X Roads, October 22d. Oxford, October 23d. Dutchville, October 25th. Speaking will commence promptly at 1 o'clock p. m.

Monday morning W. H. H. Peebles, a colored man of considerable local note, was arraigned before the mayor of Charlotte, the Observer says, on a charge of keeping a gambling house. Fifteen other colored men were arraigned as patrons of Peebles' house. This was the result of a raid made on Peebles' house late Saturday night by chief Suits and a couple of policemen.

Republican State Convention.

IT NOMINATES A FULL JUDICIAL TICKET.

At 12 o'clock the convention assembled in Metropolitan Hall. It was a small body, about two-thirds of its members being white. Some well known republican veterans were of the number. The body was called to order by J. C. L. Harris, Esq., Mr. F. M. Sorrell acting as secretary. He appointed a committee on credentials. He was a member of this committee and with the other members composing it at once retired. During this time the convention and the spectators chatted. In fifteen minutes the committee returned and reported that of the 96 counties in the State 54 were represented, with 146 votes, a majority of the 240 votes allowed the entire State. A committee on permanent organization was, on motion of Robert M. Douglas, appointed to consist of one member from each congressional district. Chairman Harris made the following appointments to constitute this committee: A. T. Davis, Alfred Lloyd, Stewart Ellison, H. M. Douglas, Arch. Brady, H. J. C. Chambers, W. C. Coleman, Thomas G. Candler.

PERMANENT OFFICERS.

This committee, through Mr. Douglas, its chairman, made the following report: For permanent chairman, James E. Boyd; For permanent chairman, Daniel Patrick, George Z. French, J. H. Harris, Charles Heister, W. C. Coleman, H. C. Cowles, L. N. Jenkins, John G. Heap, vice-presidents; F. M. Sorrell, John C. Dancy, secretaries.

CHAIRMAN BOYD'S SPEECH.

On motion of Maj. M. A. Bledsoe, the report was adopted. Chairman Boyd took his position and was introduced by the temporary chairman. He returned his thanks, saying the convention was composed of the honest and true republicans. Heretofore there had been interested to subvert, selfish interests, but now this was not so, for there was no public patronage to be distributed. He said that the republican party was a party for the Union, a fact in which democrats and republicans should alike rejoice. He said that it was the party of a free ballot and a fair count. If that had been the rule heretofore a mugwump President would not now be in the White House. He spoke of the attempt of certain republicans in the State to disrupt the party. These traitors are led by Dr. Mott, ex-chairman of the executive committee. He said that Mott in his card had said the harshest things about the democrats and that the democratic press had not denied his accusations and slanders. He said that democrats had claimed that when the republican party went out of office it would cease to exist, but said these people would find that the republican party had plenty of life. He said the democratic party was one of promises before the election and of failure to keep those promises after the election. He said that no relief had come. Instead of red-legged republican grasshoppers, there were democratic blue-bottles, to disturb the people. All they have done is to put in democrats in the places of the modest republicans. He said that congressmen were at work around the treasury department seeking places for their relatives, partners and henchmen. He said that while district attorney his heart had melted at the persecution of the people for violations of the revenue laws, but that the democrats had since come in far exceeded in harshness anything done by the republicans. He said that now the internal revenue laws were not distasteful to the average democratic politician. He spoke of civil service and said that the democrats didn't want any civil service; all they wanted was office. He spoke of the failure of the North Carolina congressmen to do anything whatever towards repealing the internal revenue. His people had voted for democratic congressmen in the hope and belief that the latter would keep their promises and abolish the internal revenue system. He attacked the democrats for their failure in failing to pass the Blair bill, which their orators had promised should be passed. He said the democratic committee had strangled the bill. He went on again to speak of the dissensions among republicans in the State. He said the late executive committee by refusing to call a convention had exceeded its authority. He said the republicans were holding together as solidly as in 1854, and many democrats were coming in. No one heard of republicans leaving their party, while from the democratic party there were many bolters. The democratic party was, he declared, the party of greed and hunger. He spoke of rings and said that a ring of three men had held the liberties of the republican party. He said that Mott claimed that Wheeler and Keogh had leased him the republican party in North Carolina and that he did not intend to give up his lease. "We will show him whether he will or not," said Mr. Boyd, who went on to claim that the republican party was the party of the laboring man. He spoke of convict labor, and said the penitentiary was filled with "unfortunate victims to democratic courts," as Dr. Mott said in his address. He charged the State had given a railway laborer, when it should have received a dollar a day per man. He spoke of what he termed democratic extravagance, and said that since the democrats came in the cost of collecting the internal revenue in this State was more than double what it had been for years and years under republican rule. He said the democratic party was many-faced and did not have the confidence of the people. He said the intelligent people did not like a mugwump president, but wanted a man of some pronounced views. He spoke of the colored vote, saying it should be intelligent. He did not wish the colored organization, and by such action the said State committee ceased to exist, and is no longer the official head of the republican party of North Carolina.

10. That we demand a free ballot and a fair count.

COMMITTEES.

Mr. J. C. L. Harris made a motion for the appointment of a committee of nine upon resolutions by the chair. This was adopted. The chair appointed the following: J. H. Harris, Victor Dookery, John S. Dancy, H. J. Chambers, J. H. Hardin, Tweed, W. C. Smith, Lloyd and J. H. Young.

UPON MR. HARRIS' MOTION A COMMITTEE OF NINE WAS ALSO RAISED, TO PREPARE A PLAN OF ORGANIZATION, AS FOLLOWS: J. D. White, Brady, Jenkins, Staunton, J. H. Harris, Melver, Hunt, Williamson and S. P. Cook.

TALK ABOUT JUDICIAL NOMINATIONS.

A motion was made by Mr. Candler, of Buncombe, for the appointment of a committee of twelve to consider the matter of the selection of candidates for justices of the supreme court and for judges of the superior court. John C. Dancy said the report of the committee on resolutions should first voice its ideas in the matter. Later, there would be more delegates present. John S. Leary said that there was some doubt whether it was best to make such nominations. John H. Williamson said it was best to decide whether such nominations were to be made or not. Maj. Bledsoe said the vote on the raising the committee would settle the question as to the election of a ticket for the supreme court and superior courts. John S. Leary did not like this matter to be left to the committee, to have matters cut and dried. He favored individual action. James H. Harris thought this question now premature, but favored the raising of the committee on Mr. Candler's motion. R. M. Douglas moved as an amendment that the committee should first decide and recommend whether nominations for justices and judges should be made, and if thought advisable, recommend names. Maj. Bledsoe said he wished to settle the matter and therefore moved that a full judicial ticket be put in the field. Mr. Douglas said the matter hinged upon the willingness of gentlemen to accept judicial nominations. If the committee's report was not thought proper the convention could refuse to accept it. Maj. Bledsoe said there were enough republican members of the bar from which to make up a ticket; men equal in all respects to the democratic nominees. Mr. Douglas said there had been some correspondence with certain gentlemen in regard to their willingness to serve as judges, and this would appear later. Finally Mr. Douglas' amendment, to leave to the committee the power to decide and recommend whether nominations should be made and also the power to recommend names of suitable persons was adopted. The chairman appointed the following as the committee of twelve, one from each judicial district: Wasson, Strayhorn, Patrick, Bledsoe, Leary, Lahey, Dancy, Heap, Jenkins, Lloyd, H. C. Davis.

AT 2 O'CLOCK THE CONVENTION TOOK A RECESS OF AN HOUR.

At 3:30 the convention re-assembled. Jesse F. Hoskins made a speech, eulogizing the republican party. James H. Harris made a similar speech. Mr. J. C. L. Harris, chairman of the committee on platform, reported as follows:

RESOLVED, 1. That we renew our allegiance to the republican party and reaffirm our faith in the patriotism of its principles and declare

2. That we oppose the democratic policy of employing convict labor wherever it comes into competition with free labor, and we declare that the result of this policy is to degrade labor, reduce wages and throw honest workmen out of employment.

3. That we are heartily in favor of the Blair educational bill and denounce the democratic House of Representatives for their failure to pass the same, said bill having been twice passed by a republican Senate.

4. That we are in favor of protection; firstly, because we regard it as the least burdensome and most convenient means of raising the funds wherewith to defray the expenses of the government, and secondly, because we would willingly extend protection, pure and simple, to every species of home manufacture, thereby encouraging home industry, stimulating the circulation of capital, increasing the capacity for the employment of skilled labor and as a consequence, creating so much greater demand in our own markets for the products of the field. We also favor the repeal of the internal revenue system.

5. That we condemn the democratic party as a party of broken promises, because it has utterly failed to redeem any one of its numerous pledges.

6. That we oppose the present system of keeping up the public roads, and demand that the road laws shall be amended so as to bear equally upon property and labor.

7. That we oppose the present system of county government, as unrepresentative, unfair, and subversive of the rights of the people, and therefore demand its repeal.

8. That the action of the democratic party through the legislature in passing laws and enforcing the no-fence system upon the people without consulting the people at the ballot-box upon the overthrow of a custom which has existed from the first settlement of this country is undemocratic, anti-republican, and no such radical change should be made in the customs of the people without first obtaining their assent at the ballot-box.

9. That the action of the republican State committee, the 10th of August last, in failing to call a State convention, and their continued refusal to do so, was in violation of the plan of organization, and by such action the said State committee ceased to exist, and is no longer the official head of the republican party of North Carolina.

10. That we demand a free ballot and a fair count.

11. That we cordially invite all citizens, without regard to former political affiliations, who favor the principles herein set forth, to join with us in our efforts to enforce the same in the administration of State and national affairs.

THE JUDICIAL NOMINEES.

Maj. M. A. Bledsoe, as chairman of the committee on the judicial ticket, made a report, as follows:

"We report in favor of nominating a full judicial ticket and recommend the following gentlemen as the republican candidates for the judiciary: Supreme court, chief justice, W. P. Bynum; associate justices, John W. Albertson, R. P. Buxton; for superior court judges, third district, B. F. Bullock; fourth, T. P. Devereux; sixth, D. M. Furches; eighth, W. S. O'B. Robinson; ninth, A. E. Holton; tenth, — Marsh (of Yancey county); twelfth, Perry A. Cumming. The committee further recommends that the republicans of the State vote for these gentlemen whether they accept the nomination or not."

Gen. John C. Gorman moved the adoption of the report. John S. Leary stated that he opposed the nomination of supreme court judges and as a member of the committee had not signed the report, and as to those judges entered his dissent. The report of the committee was adopted, Leary alone voting against it.

The committee on plan of organization made its report, which makes some changes, of no special importance save as to county representation. On this there was some debate. Some opposed any tampering with the platform. Mr. Douglas explained the change, saying that it was to allow all republicans attending a county convention to have a vote. He said that the townships very often failed to choose delegates or attend. The amendment was therefore to make all county conventions mass conventions. Wasson moved to table the amendments to the plan. This was lost and the committee's report was adopted.

Gen. Gorman offered an amendment that no executive committee should ever hold office more than two years. James H. Harris said the present plan of organization covered this matter. Mr. J. C. L. Harris made some remarks upon the failure of the State committee to call a convention. He offered a resolution in place of that of Gen. Gorman, providing that the committee shall call biennial conventions at least thirty days before an election. Mr. Bledsoe attacked Dr. Mott and his late executive committee, charging it with quibbling and assuming rights and powers it did not have. There was some debate, but Mr. Harris' amendment was adopted. A motion to increase the number of delegates at large from two to five was made. There was a lively debate. J. C. L. Harris said the old committee had eleven members and that six met here, five refusing to hold a convention. He wanted a bigger committee, to widen the influence of the committee and require a larger body to constitute a majority. T. N. Cooper was opposed to a change, saying the committee would be an unwieldy body. The motion to increase the number was carried. There were to be ten delegates chosen by the various congressional districts and five from the State at large. The following were chosen as the committee:

1st district, C. C. Pool; 2d district, H. E. Davis; 3d district, G. C. Sourleak; 4th district, John H. Williamson; 5th district, R. M. Douglas; 6th district, W. C. Coleman; 7th district, H. C. Cowles; 8th district, W. G. B. Gie; 9th district, V. S. Lusk.

State at large: R. E. Young, James H. Harris, A. V. Dookery, T. S. Hargrove, G. T. Wasson.

Pending the election of those members of committee, chairman Boyd resigned and J. C. L. Harris was chosen to fill the vacancy.

The following was adopted: Resolved, That the State committee appointed by this convention is authorized to appoint congressional and judicial committees wherever said committees have gone out of existence or where said committees have refused to call conventions for the purpose of putting in motion the party machinery; also to fill any vacancies on the ticket.

Chairman Harris made a call for $200 for expenses in printing and circulating 800,000 tickets.

At 6:30 the convention adjourned.

Among the delegates present were: T. G. Candler, John G. Heap, J. W. Hardin, R. M. Douglas, James E. Boyd, W. W. Jenkins, Jesse H. Hoskins, M. A. Bledsoe, H. C. Cowles, J. C. Gorman, T. N. Cooper, James H. Harris, Stewart Ellison, T. P. Devereux, A. V. Dookery, John S. Leary, J. Don White, Warren C. Coleman, George T. Wasson, Arch. Brady, John A. Moore, R. E. Young, J. C. L. Harris, C. M. Rogers.

The convention was characterized by good order. The delegates were mainly from the counties west of Raleigh. Few were from the east. About two-thirds were white. Chairman "Log" Harris was of course very prominent and worked hard. He is one of the leaders in the anti-Mott faction. T. N. Cooper is now a regular western man. He has moved from Iredell county to Transylvania and lives at Brevard. There was a good deal of log-rolling all during the session.

THE NEW CHAIRMAN.

The executive committee met after the adjournment of the convention and elected Col. Taswell L. Hargrove chairman. No secretary was elected. Mr. J. C. L. Harris will act in that capacity for the present.

Startling Facts. YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO IGNORE THEM. The following appeared in a recent issue of the "New York Commercial Bulletin": "An expert examined and reported upon a sample of Western Refined Lard the other day, which he said did not contain a pound of rancid fat, but contained 100 lbs. of cotton seed oil, and oleo stearine." A drummer, commenting upon the exposure being made, remarked: "Consumers don't care what is in the lard, so it is cheap." In view of the above facts won't it pay you to carefully examine the lard in your kitchen and be sure you are not getting the adulterated article. The odor from it when hot betrays it.
