Judging from these French motele, the sleeves to many dressy bodices are to be shaped a la Henri Deux, and to make the draping of the skirt secord with the unique and intricate arrangement of these sleeves, the modiste who would follow their wondrous lines successfully, must first attach the skirt to the waistband, and then literally out right and left with her seissors, so that the gown shell be short here, long there, closed at one side and slashed from belt to hem on the other; and, lastly, the stripes shall run horizontally, perpendicularly, and crosswise, all on one costume, and yet produce a highly satisfactory result—an undertaking most difficult to essay except in the hands of that deftest of all manipulators of textures, from Holland to Lyons velvet-a

It is ed in having a committee of 28 with true that good keeping will not make himself as chairman appointed congood seed of poor corn, corn improperly selected, but on the other hand, poor keeping will destroy the best seed. The secret of good keeping lies in getting and keeping the corn dry. A very low temperature will not injure the germ if it is not surrounded by moisture, whereas a temperature not lower than the freezing point will destroy enough germs to make the corn unfit for planting if it is damp at the time. The corn must be well cured after it is gathered. and for ouring there is no better place than some outbuilding where there is free circulation of the air. The corn should be spread out not more than one ear deep on boards some distance from the ground; if near the ground it will be very slow to cure, as it will absorb moisture from the earth. Of ten it requires corn longer to cure out than a person supposes. Some few years ago a very careful farmer gathered a fine lot of seed-corn in the fall, and, as he thought, cured it out thoroughly before he put it away for the winter. One day in the winter he went to look at it. and when he uncovered it was greatly astonished to find it envered with frost: it had not absorbed the moisture after pletely cured out it matters little how engaged in a long war with the brewers'

RECENT STRIKE AT THE CHICAGO STOCK YARDS.

ALL THE RESULT OF SELFISH MANIPULATORS -AN ORDER FROM POWDERLY SUPPRESEND FOUR DAYS -OTHER NEWS BY

CHICAGO, November 26 .- The inside history of the recent strike at the packgreat one, if we can judge by the yield ring houses at the Union stock yards, when 20,000 men were thrown out of employment is printed here this morn-

> When the packers decided to return to the ten hour working day, on Oct. 14th, the workmen, supposing that they would be backed by the Knights of Labo, rebelled, and all went out except the beef butchers, who had a sontract with the firms of Armour, Swift and Morris, requiring four days' notice before opening hostilities.

> Despite this agreement, the beef utchers of Armour & Co were ordered out on the following Thursday, by district master workman Butler, who deliberately broke the existing contract.

T P Barry also arrived on the scene. He stated to the newspaper reporters that he had been instructed by Powderly to settle the difficulty, and to members of the Knights of Labor he said he had simply been sent to investigate. At the same time Butler had -Chester A. Arthur, during his made his debut in the town of Lake fied by master-workman Gaunt, of the butchers' assembly, of the existing agreement, but, as has been said, he ignored it. The butchers of Armour & Co. were loath to obey Butler's order, but the presence of Barry, who was a member of the general executive board of the order, reassured them to a certain degree. The executive board of the local assembly, however, concluded to get Powderly's views, and it sent the following telegram:
Ms. T. V. Powderly, Richmond, VA:

Has the executive board of district No. 57, the power to repudiate the agreement made by the executive board of local assembly No. 7082, one clause of which reads: "One day be considered sufficient time for calling meeting of both parties, of the first and second parts, and no definite action shall be taken inside of three days after such a meeting."

Have they the power to call out men governed by this schedule without complying with this clause, that are working eight hours a day ?"

To this question, Mr. Powderly vouchsafed no direct reply, but he did send an answer to Mr. Barry, who asked the executive board of the local assembly the following day regarding the existence of the agreement with the packers. Barry investigated the matter and found that master-workman Butler had made a mistake. Barry wanted the butchers to return to work, but the damage had been done. Butler made evasive replies. Nobody was in reality looking after the interests of the 18.500 men who had been allured into the strike. In the meantime the packers were making extensive preparations for a long fight. Rev. P. M. Flannagin, pastor of St. Ann's church, telegraphed long statement of all the facts to Powderly, declaring that unless the men were ordered to return to work incalculable injury and misery would result. Barry was immediately telegraphed to order the men to return to work, but did not do so until the following Sunday. Among the violent opponents to this order was Butler, who told Barry that the order would cause him, Butler, to lose two thousand votes at the approaching election. Before leaving, Barry divested Butler and the executive board of the district of all power to create another strike, instructng the committee to have charge of all matters affecting these workmen. Butler, who, it is claimed, saw he was making a losing political fight, succeedtrary to the constitution of the Knights of Labor. The cattle butchers in returning to their work had succeeded in having their wages increased from twenty-four dollars to twenty-seven dollars a week, agreeing to work ten hours. On the day before the election several drunken men rushed among the workmen at Swift's house, ordering them to quit work, and they did so. This panie and been carefully planned. On the following day all those on strike voted for Butler. The latter called out Armour's men on the Thursday succeeding the election. Master workman Gaunt protested, and he and two followers were expelled from the order. Barry reappeared on the scene and an order from Powderly, which was suppressed for four days, caused an ending of the

Futures at New York. Enleigh Philharmonie Society.

Cor. of the News and Observer. Why has not the executive committee salled a meeting of this society? Many of the members have expressed a desire to begin work, and being willing, there is no reason for not commencing at once. I s almost certain the efficient director. Dr. Kursteiner, is as zealous and ready to work as ever, and when such excel lent management as his can be secured no time should be lost in taking ad vantage of it. It is to be hoped, therefore, that the executive committee will call a meeting at once to let the society decide whether or not it shall continue its aspirations towards refinement and culture, and whether or not the pursuit of such objects is of consequence enough to the members to interest them more thoroughly and actively in the work.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 26 .- A Times special says: A report has reached Williamsburg, Ky., that the Poe family thought to have been destroyed by fire in Knox county, a month ago were in reality murdered by a neighbor and his concubine whom Poe had slighted socially. A mother and five children and two visiting young ladies were found burned in the ashes of the destroyed hut. The story of the murder is told as follows by a son of the woman aged 10 years, whom the reported father had threatened and made mad. This boy says the man out from ear to ear the throats of each of the eight persons while they slept, and that his mother then dragged the bodies to the middle of the room and set them on fire. A Serious Explosion.

WILEBSBARRE, Nov. 26, 3 30 a m -An explosion of gas occurred in Conyngham shaft this morning shortly after the miners and laborers had entered, and it is said that between twenty and thirty persons were burned and seriously inured. None, however, are reported to have been killed, but little can be learned as yet regarding the accident. The men are still in the pit, but they will be removed as soon as possible. The shaft is owned and operated by the Delaware & Hudson Company and was known to contain considerable gas.

9.50 a m .- It is now known that the explosion occurred in a shanty at the foot of the shaft, which was occupied by a fire boss. 11.50 a m.-Later particulars concerning the accident in the Conyngham shaft show that the explosion cocured at 10 07 o'clock while the men were getting ready to go to work. About fifty miners and laborers were sitting at the foot of the main shaft waiting for the inside boss when the explosion occurred, and only three or four of them, as far as can be ascertained, escaped without injury. Most of the men were sent to their homes at once and as they are cattered and at long distances from the shaft, no account of the result of their injuries can at this writing be obtained. It is known, however, that a number, possibly ten or twelve, will die, and that many others will be scarred or maimed for life. The explosion was caused by Cornelius Boyle mine laborer, who stepped into ting his time to writing for newspapers a worked - out chamber which was filled with gas, with a lighted lamp upon his hat. Boyle will die. Many mules were killed or wounded, and the damage to the inside workings of the shaft are great. The fire bosses, William Evans and William Williams are reported fatally burnt. Great excitement prevails in the vicinity of the shaft.

was done to Dr. Woodrow. For although Dr. Woodrow holds as practicable a doctrine of the mediate evolution of Adam's body, which I do not myself hadd and which is not held by the Presbyterian church generally, he has never affirmed that the doctrine which he considers "probably" has ever been con-clusively demonstrated. But whatever may be his view in regard to any scientific question, he regards the authority of the work of God as sacred and supreme, and all scientific speculations seemingly in conflict with it to be rejected if it be shown that the true sense of the sacred Scriptures, is inconsistent with them. In a long and heated controversy not one of his opponents has ventured to call him an infidel or compare him with Ingersoll The Woodrow controversy, throughout, has had no reference to the personal or religious character of Dr Woodrow, but to the best method of reconciling the supposed teachings of science with the infallible teachings of scripture, put in the controversy in regard to the meaning of the term "day" in the Bible, the literal sense of which has been supposed to be in conflict with certain geological theories. There are those who retain the old view that the term "day," in the opening chapters of Genesis, designated only twenty-four hours; and there are those who, by a very elastic interpretation, would make it an indefi nite period.
