-The Baron de Horn, the richest hightippybob in all Dutch India, has arrived in this country in search of a little sport. He wears a ringholding a diamond of eight carats, given him by the Shah of Persia, and in his vest dangles a couple of cruelly sharp, white claws of the last tiger he killed, set in gold The Baron is married!

-A Californian is suing the New York Central Railroad Company and the Central Sleeping Car Company for $80. 000 damages-$40,000 each His com plaint is that while he was on his wedding tour he got into an altercation with sleeping-car p rter and the porter knocked him down. There is a genu the Californian munificence in the idea of $80,000 for a honeymoon blow.

-A fair and baxom widow who had buried three husbands recently went with a gentleman who in his younger years had paid her marked attention to inspect the graves of her dear departed. After contemplating them in mournful silence she murmured to her companion ; Ah, James, you might have been in that row now if you had only had a littie more courage!"

-It is really something unique in Euglish history to see the lord chief justice of England in the witness box, acrimoniously cross examined by his own son-in-law and deadliest enemy. And as if this was'nt enough, his lordship's own daughter now brings a suit against him for slander, and she seems to have a pretty good case. His lordship's misfortunes are almost enough to make all the hairs fall out of his big wig.

-Long draperies with full effects and the short plastron in place of a vest are, with fur bordering and fur panels, the leading features of tailor-made gowns for the winter season. The smooth or fancy sloth is draped in Grecian style, opening up the left to disclose a panel handsomely trimmed, or else made of pleats of a contrasting color, banded across with velvet, the long back drapery falling in soft Bedouin folds at the top. This is very effective in heliotrope cloth with fawncolored pleats of faille Francaise on the sides, crossed with bands of velvet, the short viblet pleated plastron arranged to correspond. Black or deep blue Isle of Wight serge, with Nespolitan red serge, pleated panels, and plastron, crossed with velvet, also makes a most tasteful gown. -Let farmers of the South raise more horses, mules, cattle, grain, hay, etc. The Abbeville, S. C., Press knows a farmer in that section who bought a small farm almost entirely on credit. His farm is now clear of debt, and this

The warrant was not served during the evening, as Morgan was attending a meeting of the committee of twenty-one down town. The who will palliate Mr. Blaine's rudenews created quite a stir in the inner circles of the labor party. One of the charges made by Morgan is said to be munds as reprehensible The latest that Jacobson was employed by Pinkerton some months sgo, and attended meetings of the Knights of Labor, reporting the sofa, talking with Mr. Charles E. their proceedings at the detective agency at their close. Western Glass Company discharged all their men yesterday and closed their works. Mr. Cordora, secretary and treasurer of the company, says they were obliged to take this action in consequence of the drinking habits of most of their men, rendering them so unreliable that the vorks could not be operated in a proper manner. The men pronounce the statement a deliberate falschood, and assert that the real cause was the employment of apprentices to do men's work, and that had the men not been discharged there would have been a strike in the factory in a few

Mr. Blaine had already shaken hands with Mr. Miller. Senator Edmunds advanced with extended hand, at the same time saying: "Oh no, not at all." Mr. Blaine stared at him with a halfinsolent expression on his face, turned on his heel and walked from the room, leaving Senator Edmunds' hand outstretched in the air. Mr Elmunds' face flushed, but he returned to the sofa and resumed his conversation with Mr. Miller. Mr. Blaine walked upstairs to the room where Gen. Arthur's body lay. He expressed regret to Col. McMichael that he should be compelled to resort to so decided an act at such a time and under such circumstances. He then left the house.

Vivacious Kate, as she is familiarly termed in the popular theatrical centres, s billed for Tucker Hall on the first of December. Miss Castleton has won in the last few years a popularity equalled by few in her line of business. She is essentially a comedienne of that neat. modest, but vivacious stamp which we all so admire. She is heralded by the most fisttering notices from the public and press in all the leading cities, more particularly Boston, St. Louis and Cinsinnati. Not much is a claimed for her piece "Crasy Patch," it being advertised "for laughing purposes only," but it has attained a great deal, of success.
