THE VOTE ON THE TARIFF BILL.

SCENES IN THE HOUSE AT THE TIME.
Special Cor. of the News and Observer.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.

When the house met at noon today nearly every seat was occupied. Notwithstanding the misty rain the fall galleries gave evidence that something unusual was expected. Mr. Morrison was walking about the hall nervously and once or twice Mr. Randall was seen with telegrams in hand talking earnestly to McAdoo, of New Jersey. Members were seen in groups or pairs discussing the situation, and while the result of Mr. Morrison's motion began to be fore-shadowed, yet the votes of some members were in doubt, and a lingering hope was entertained by the tariff reformers.

Mr. Carlisle rapped the house to order in his usual cool and business like way, and the morning hour began with routine matters.

General Cox tried to have a day fixed for the consideration of the bill repealing the tenure of office act, but was met by an objection and the bill was referred to the committee on reform in the civil service.

Then Mr. Hill, of Ohio, got through a bill creating a new Associate Justice of the supreme court of New Mexico, after Judge Bennett had raised the point of no quorum and forced him to telling. The balance of the morning hour was consumed by Mr. Barlow, of Georgia, (the largest member of the House, weighing about 350 pounds), in a speech against the bill organizing the territory of Oklahoma. Then came the long-looked for moment, Mr. Morrison arose, and the silence in the hall was profound. You could hear a whisper. In a business-like tone he simply moved that the House resolve itself into committee of the whole to consider bills raising revenue. Immediately up sprang the smooth-faced Mr. McKinley, of Ohio, and demanded the yeas and nays on the motion. This brought a rattle to a focus at once, and as the clerk began in a clear monotone to call the roll, members were seen, with pencil and paper, keeping the tally. The first name that attracted attention was Mr. Bacon, the new member ascending Mr. Bacon. He voted "aye." There were several surprises to the public as the roll continued, for Messrs. T. J. Campbell, Pinder, Vialle, Findlay, Stone and Hayden, who voted "no" last vote, voted "aye," and Mr. James, of New York, who voted "aye" before, voted "nay." When the roll was concluded the speaker directed the clerk to call his name, and John C. Carlisle voted "aye." The result was then announced, yeas 149, nays 154. So 303 members voted. Three seats are vacant by death, fourteen were paired, four absent and not paired; namely, Messrs. Ellsberry, King, and Reid, of North Carolina, and Judge Reagan lost his vote by being down in the bath tub at the time. Mr. Ellsberry would have voted no, and Messrs. A. Ken, King, Reid and Reagan would have voted yes. Thus had every living member been present Mr. Randall would have defeated one of the pet measures of his party by only two majority! As soon as the result was known the republicans began to applaud, but a wave of the hand from Mr. Reed soon suppressed it. In this vote tariff reform has received a bleak eye, and is likely not to receive consideration at this session. Much indignation is felt among the tariff reform democrats at being a second time defeated by a small wing of their own party.

"Today's vote settles the matter for today," said Mr. Morrison. "The House has adjourned, and the question cannot be raised again before Monday, but for how much longer it has been disposed of I cannot say. You see, that for one republican lost we have gained two. Besides, we have gained four democrats and lost none. We are not losing anything."

But even this sad day had its humorous side. As stated above Judge Reagan lost his vote by being down in the bath tub. When the fleshy old gentleman came up puffing and blowing, he found he was about two minutes too late. What adds a pang to this slip is the fact that he is a candidate for the Senatorship from Texas. Some suggest that it will kill him because he was down stairs in a $500 marble bath tub while the fate of the nation was trembling in the balance above. Others suggest that it will kill his chances when it is known that a Texas man took a bath in the winter, and again other suggest that he might have saved his vote by donning a striped towel like a Commodore chief, and braving the galleries, roared "aye" to his name. But be it as it may, Mr. Reagan will never miss a vote again.

It Always Pays.

Wilmington Star.

The man who advertises never fails to be rewarded.

A gentleman who arrived in the city a night or two ago on a train from the North, found on reaching home that he had lost two valuable bear-skin rugs, somewhere on the streets between the railroad depot and his residence. He started off immediately to advertise his loss in the columns of the Star, and on his way down town, about a square from the office, met a colored boy with the lost robes, which he had picked up on Front street. The gentleman didn't finish his journey to the Star office, but the facts "got there, all the same."

It would then seem that an actual intention alone of advertising is beneficial. What then must be the result of actual advertising?

A Prescription Defeated.

WIMBORNE, Va., Dec. 20.—In the local elections the prohibitionists were defeated in every district, their opponents carrying Clarke county by 3,000 majority.

CONGRESS.

THE PATENT SYSTEM HAULED OVER THE COALS—EFFORTS TO CORRECT ITS ABUSES.

THE HOLIDAY RECESS—A FEW NOMINATIONS—A FEW DEPUTY COMMISSIONERS OF INTERNAL REVENUE—OTHER WASHINGTON NEWS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—SENATE.—On motion of Mr. Hoar the Pacific railroad funding bill was postponed as a special order until the second Tuesday in January. He expressed a hope that in the meantime the matter would be taken up in the House, and disposed of in one way or the other.

On motion of Mr. Eustis the bill declaring a forfeiture of the lands of the New Orleans, Baton Rouge and Vicksburg, (Blackbone) railroad, was postponed as a special order until the second Wednesday in January.

Vest introduced a substitute for the bill to incorporate the Atlantic and Pacific ship railway company, and stated that it simply provided for a naked incorporation of the company, without any guarantee by the government. It was made a special order for the second Tuesday in January.

The senate passed the house bill for the relief of the survivors of the exploring steamer Jeanette and the widows and children of those who perished in the retreat from the wreck of that vessel in the arctic seas. Also the senate bill to construct a road to the national cemetery at Corinth, Miss., and a number others of only local interest.

Executive session adjourned.

HOUSE.

Mr. Wilkins, of Ohio, from the committee on banking and currency, reported back the resolution calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for the following information:

1. Whether any portion of the money appropriated by the sundry civil bill of last year has been expended in issuing notes of large denomination in lieu of notes of small denomination cancelled or destroyed.

2. How many, if any, $1 and $2 notes have been cancelled and destroyed since the passage of the act, and by what authority they were destroyed and what sum was expended in their destruction.

3. How many of such notes were mutilated and whether notes of like denomination were issued in their stead.

Adopted.

Under a call of the States, the following bills and resolutions were introduced and referred:

By Mr. Townshend, of Illinois, a resolution calling for executive information. The following is the text of the resolution: That the Secretary of the Treasury be requested to ascertain whether any national banking association, located in the city of New York, has, during the present month, loaned its surplus money or deposits to brokers or other persons operating in stocks and bonds, without security, and merely upon the receipt of interest on the same, for the purpose of enabling speculators to look up and prevent the use of money in business transactions and thereby produce a scarcity of money and greatly increase the rates of interest on loans, and also whether during the same period, any of the said banks for the purpose aforesaid knowingly permitted the total liability of any person, corporation or firm to exceed the amount limited by statute in said cases, and that said secretary report all facts to this house as soon as practicable with such recommendations as he may deem proper.

By Mr. Tanbe, of Kentucky, a resolution reciting that it is stated in the newspapers that the Secretary of the Treasury has paid interest on certain bonded indebtedness of the United States before said interest was due and without rebate, and that it also stated that said advance of interest was made for the purpose of affecting the market value of certain stocks in Wall street, and requesting the Secretary to inform the House if such interest has been so paid and if so why and by what authority.

Mr. Findlay, Maryland, to prescribe the rate of standard silver for certain coins of the United States, to enlarge the legal tender quality of the half dollar and permit the issue of silver certificates on deposit of the same.

By Mr. Johnston of North Carolina a resolution instructing the committee on Ways and Means to report a bill repealing the internal revenue laws.

Mr. Morrison introduced a resolution for a holiday recess from December 22 to January 4th. Referred to Ways and Means committee.

Mr. Hiseock called up his motion to suspend the rules and pass the bill relating to duties on tobacco.

The bill amends the statutes relating to duties on leaf tobacco as follows: Leaf tobacco in any bale, box, package or bulk, any part of which is suitable for wrappers; if not stemmed, 75 cents per pound; if stemmed, $1 per pound upon the whole contents of such bale, box, package or bulk.

Sec. 2. That this act shall take effect on and after its passage.

Mr. Morrison opposed the bill.

Since the introduction of this measure and only as late as last Saturday, the House with the concurrence of the gentleman from New York (Mr. Hiseock) had decided not to have any revenue legislation—neither to increase nor diminish the revenues and indeed not to consider the question. He had been in hopes that obedient to the will of the ALARMING.

WHAT WAS AT FIRST THOUGHT A MATRIMONIAL ELOPEMENT DEVELOPS INTO A STARTLING AFFAIR.

THE LATEST NEWS OF BINGHAM AND MISS TURLINGTON.

The greatest sensation ever experienced within the last two days by the non-return of the deaf mutes Mr. W. L. Bingham and Miss Lissie Turlington, who suddenly left the Deaf, Dumb and Blind institution last Friday morning and who were at first supposed to have eloped for the purpose of marrying. It turns out however, that no marriage has taken place, that the young lady has mysteriously disappeared, nothing having been heard of her and all efforts to learn where she is up to this time proving fruitless and that Bingham has fled the State under the suspicion of murder.

The affair is one of the gravest and most serious looking. While nothing has been learned to absolutely verify the suspicion of actual murder, the friends of the young lady fear the worst. The circumstances of the case are substantially as follows:

Mr. Bingham who was formerly a student of the Deaf and Dumb Institute had for some time been paying marked attention to Miss Lissie Turlington, who was also educated there, and who for several years past had been matron of the female department of deaf mutes. She was a very bright, intelligent young lady and made a very efficient lady officer. She favored Bingham's suit and had engaged herself to him, promising to marry him next summer, or as soon as the present session of the institution closed. It seems that Bingham insisted upon an earlier date and was very persistent. About ten days ago Miss Turlington mentioned the persistency of Bingham to the principal of the institution, Mr. W. J. Young, and asked his opinion as to what she should do. He told her that he would regret to lose her services in the midst of the session and be under the necessity of employing an inexperienced lady to take charge of her department. She then told Mr. Young that if she decided to marry before the close of the session she would give him several weeks notice in order that he might employ some one else, and during that time she (Miss Turlington) would teach the new matron the duties of the office.

Last Thursday Bingham came to the city and as usual called at the institution where he generally stopped when here. In the evening he went to Mr. E. Parham's livery stable and engaged a horse and buggy for Friday morning, saying that he would want the turn-out for the day. He also went to the office of the register of deeds and procured a marriage license for himself and Miss Turlington giving the ages of each as 23 years. He then returned to the institution and spent the remainder of the day with the deaf mutes, but principally with Mr. J. W. Clonts, the deaf mute foreman of the shoe shop. During his stay in the shop he showed Mr. Clonts a revolver and a large bowie knife, making some apparently jocular remarks about them in the sign language. At night he spent some time with Miss Turlington in the parlor. Friday morning they took breakfast with the officers of the institution, after which Bingham went to the stables for the horse and buggy. A short time after Miss Turlington announced her intention of doing some shopping, and went out, made some purchases and had them sent to the institute, not returning, however, herself. It is not known whether or not she intended to take a ride when she left the house, but it appears that Bingham had met her somewhere on the street and taken her in the buggy. They drove up Hillsboro street and out of the city that way. The officers of the institution are confident that she had no intention of eloping and that she was not aware of the existence of the marriage license, and that she took a seat with Bingham simply for a short drive. As they did not return at dinner hour, it was supposed that they had decided to dine with some friends in the city and no special notice was taken of their absence. When night came on, however, and they did not return, a suspicion of an elopement arose, which was confirmed upon ascertaining that a marriage license had been obtained, though no good reason could be assigned for the running off as no objection had been urged to their marriage. Not returning during the night, nor the next morning (Saturday) investigations as to their whereabouts were commenced, and some facts calculated to excite alarm were ascertained. It was found that Bingham had reached Durham alone Friday evening, and had taken the train there for Charlotte, making inquiries as to railroad connections with Atlanta and New Orleans. Efforts were then made to find out where Miss Turlington was but nothing was learned. Her friends here held that if she had been left at any point, she would have communicated with them at once by telegram, and as nothing was heard from her, fears for her safety increased. Saturday evening chief of Police Heatt of this city went to Durham to make investigations and found that the horse and buggy had been left at a livery stable there but could not learn anything of Miss Turlington in the town. He then made inquiries along the road leading from Raleigh to Durham, and Sunday evening telegraphed Mr. Young that within a distance of eight miles from Durham, Bingham and Miss Turlington had been seen in the buggy together going in the direction of the town, and that within a distance of five

THE BINGHAM-TURLINGTON AFFAIR.

DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 20.
Special to the News and Observer.

Nothing definite is known about Miss Turlington. Chief of police Brown is now assisting in the search for her. Rumors of her murder are current.

The State Printing.

We note with pleasure the fact that several papers in the state are speaking in favor of giving the state printing to the News and Observer of Raleigh. That high toned, thoroughly democratic journal certainly deserves the compliment. It costs something to keep up so creditable a paper at the capitol and the good rendered the party by the News and Observer cannot be estimated. By all means let our western members cast their votes for this staunch democratic organ.

Deputy Commissioner Internal Revenue.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The Secretary of the Treasury has appointed Eliosezer Henderson, of Indiana, to be deputy commissioner of internal revenue, vice P. B. Rogers, resigned. The change will take effect January 1st.

miles, Bingham had been seen going in the same direction alone in the buggy. With these facts before them, the friends of Miss Turlington were almost compelled to arrive at the horrible conclusion, that Bingham had scoured the license and driven off with the young lady with the intention of persuading her to marry him at once, and having failed in his purpose became frenzied and did the very worst—murdered her. A squad of officers and deputies left this city Sunday evening to make a thorough search along the road taken by Bingham but no official report has been received from them.

Telegrams were sent on Sunday evening to all important points for the arrest of Bingham, should he be seen, and Monday morning a telegram from Carmanville, N. Y., was received saying Walter Bingham was in that town, Sunday; that he was insane, and later that he had disappeared.

During his stay there he said he was on his way to Council Bluffs, Iowa, where he expected to find and kill Mr. E. M. Goodwin, formerly of this city, and who has been a teacher in the institution here. It seems that Bingham for some reason supposed Goodwin to be his rival, and after having probably murdered the unfortunate young lady, determined to carry out his fondness for the last extreme. Telegrams have been sent to Carmanville, N. Y., and along the railroads leading to Council Bluffs to arrest Bingham, and it is hoped that he will be apprehended before he reaches Iowa, if it really be his intention to go there.

Various wild rumors were afloat in the city yesterday to the effect that the body of Miss Turlington had been found, with her throat cut, shot through the heart, &c., but none of them were authentic.

Later reports are to the effect that the couple were not seen near Durham, but that they were together one and a half miles east of Morrisville, which place is twelve miles west of Raleigh, and that Bingham crossed Crabtree creek at that place, alone. Last night a message was received from Chief of Police C. D. Heatt, near Morrisville, saying that he would not return to the city during the night, and that he thought he was on the eve of finding the missing girl. Further developments are awaited with the most intense interest.

Mr. Bingham is the son of Col. Bingham, of Alamance, and nephew of M. J. E. O. Bingham, the proprietor of Bingham's school. He is about 25 years of age, a tall, rather fine looking man, and although a deaf mute, he is very intelligent and has been much esteemed by all who knew him.

Miss Turlington is a native of Wilmington where her parents are held in high esteem. She is about 23 years of age, a fine looking intelligent lady, and much admired for her lovely character by her friends.

The Knights of Labor and the Church.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—A great deal of interest is being taken by the Knights of Labor in the case of Father McGinn, of New York. They are anxious, it is said, for a speedy decision in the matter, so that the order will know what to expect from the Catholic Church. Some of the Knights here say that if the Catholics are expected to leave the order the Church will be hurt more than the Knights. They think their order might receive a set-back if the Church should sit down upon it, but in such case they would in time win much more than they could lose and would know who to fight in the future. In an article in the organ of the Knights in which the labor and Irish landlord question are discussed in connection with Father McGinn is the following paragraph: "When the church strikes at the means of life and makes it an article of faith that tens of thousands of Irishmen must toil and starve that an hundred English landlords may live in idle luxury, it simply drives great masses of people out of its fold. Life is a struggle for existence and when the church proposes to use the religious sentiment and theological superstition of men to make the struggle hard for thousands, while relieving one from any struggle, then is rung the death-knell of any church. * * * Henry George's theories can well stand the anathemas of the church, but the church cannot afford to anathematise them."

The Bell Telephone Case.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The government will soon institute proceedings in Boston to test the validity of the patent granted the Bell Telephone Company. Solicitor general Jenks has prepared a draft of a bill against the company and copies of it have been sent to Judge Thurman in Ohio, Judge Lowery in New York, and the other special attorneys employed by the government in this case, for their consideration. Action will be deferred until these gentlemen have expressed their views in regard to the proposed bill.

Confirmations.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The Senate today confirmed the nominations of Kittle Baskin, to be postmaster at Weston, Miss., and Willis Ling, to be postmaster at Valdosta.

Futures at New York.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Greene & Co.'s report on cotton futures says: Not much has come out of today's market. Liverpool advices afforded little or no encouragement. Port receipts were quite free and estimates for the week were, in proportion with the Southern markets, tame, and a noticeable absence of buying orders at all points. Most of the business, in consequence, was local and included enough long cotton to break off rates. Some 455 points, at which the close was slow, though the decline seemed to attract some attention from the shorts and some fair covering took place during the day.
