Lack of Bailroad Facilities.

Cor. of the News and Observer. The great lack of railread facilities still existing in this state is striking! marked by the feet that until this weel railroads were rupning to only fortyeight county seats cut of the ninety size in this State, being one-balf. This week the trains commenced running to two more county seats, Pittsboro and Rutherfordton, making the number now fifty. Railroads are being built now to three more, Clinton, Nashville and Murphy, and there is a strong probability of others being built to Plymouth, Carthege, Boxtoro and Taylorsville. There will still remain about forty county seats to which no railroad is built, being built or even in contemplation. This is striking when we consider that the nineteenth ecutury is growing old and that we lack but thirteen years of being in the twentieth century, and that North Carolina at this late day, with nearly one and three-quarter millions of people, has railroads running to only half of her county seats and to the county seats of forty counties railroads are not yet even in contemplation. Can't our railroad magnates be more liberal and progressive in buildir g branch lines and cannot our public men do semething to premote more life and energy in the development of our State by the-building of these iron reads which are the soul of progress and advancement.

MISS TURLINGTON.

FOUND ABOUT ONE MILE WEST OF CARY.

CARY, N. C., Dec. 24. Miss Turlington was found about a mile west of Cary, and a half mile southwest of the R. & D. railroad, having the appearance of being knocked in the head. An old negro named Marsh found her. CARY, N. C., Dec. 24, 1886. The body of Miss Turlington was found this evening about 2 o'clock at a point about one mile and a quarter west of Cary, near the residence of Mr. Wiley Boughoombe. The body was found by stood on good suthority that the body a negro man named Frank Marsh, in a will be brought here tomorrow on the piece of woods about one querter of a mile south of the North Carolina rail- held here at 10-'clock. road, and about the same distance from the county road leading from Raleigh to Durham. It was found lying on its back, with hands crossed on the breast and one bullet shot through the head. The body was found about one hundred yards from a path leading out of the main road, and it seems that the murderer made no effort to cover up the body. It seems that the larger number of the searching party were near Morrisville. A messenger has been dispatched to notify the searching party that Miss Turlington's body has been found. Marsh was not searching for the body when he found it. He had started over to Mr. Boughoomb's on G. W. GURES. business.

the city yesterday morning at 9 o'clock for the scene of the search for the body of Miss Lizzie Turlington, carrying eighty-four gentlemen, smong them Chief of Police Heartt, Messrs. Spier cause it is the fashion, but also to show Whitsker, A. H. Temple, Jno. E. Ray, Thos. G. Jenkins and F. A. Olds. The train arrived at Cary at 9 30 o'clock, from where the party proceeded to a point within one and a half miles of Morrisville and commenced a thorough search of the country for a width of three miles and extended it to a point three miles beyond Morrisville. going over the entire territory in which If yourg ducks are kept in confinement, all reports seemed to indicate that the murder had taken place. The greatest interest was manifested by every one on arimal and green feed. They should the ground and all were pretty thor-have plenty of vegetable food. They never erjoyed a der and being badly torn. This swim in their lives, and yet they do very handkerchief was found in open field a mile west of Morrisville on the Chapel Hill read. The hunt was then contined until a special messenger arrived at Morrisville from Cary and announced that the dead body of Miss Turlington had been discovered rear that place. The searching party were at that time scattered all over the immediate territory around Morrisville and to call them together and make the fearful announcement, the bells of all the churches in the village were tolled. After hearing the announcement, the party at once proceeded to the place at which the body was discovered. This point is sbout one mile west of Cary on the main road leading to Morrisvalle, and is not more than one bundred yards to the left of the road. By this point the North Carolina railroad and the county road runs parallel, being not more than twenty-five yards spart. The Raleigh & Augusta Air Line railroad runs paraliel to these two roads for three-fourths of a mile from Cary, being the south of them and about a quarter of a mile distant. Between these two reilroads, and threefourths of a mile west of Cary in a wood, is the exact spot at which the body was found. The place is by no means isolated, houses being in sight in two directions, and it is a matter of the greatest surprise that the spot should be chosen for the commission of such a horrible crime. It appears that Bingham had driven over the road and through Morrisville, as before stated, going through that village at about 12 o'clock m , and that he had taken a by-road to the left of the main road. one mile beyond that place, making a circle continually to the left until he reached the main road near Cary a sec ond time, then turned from the left of the main road again going about forty vards into the woods when he stopped and tied his horse. This fact was asworth, as they toddled down the street | certained by the marks made by the ogether. horse in stamping his fore feet. The 'Yes, in my mind," Wigglesworth hat and reticule of Miss Turlington were hanging on the bough of an oak tree at that point. Signs seen her indicate that the young lady had jumped from the buggy and tried to escape. It is presumed that Bingham shot at her as she ran, missed her and then jumped from the buggy, pursued and overtook her, dealt her some violent blows on her left check, knocking her senseless and then shot her through the head

The pistol was evidently very close to her head when fired, her face and her hair being badly scorched by the powder. Right here were two old rails between which was a large blood invited to eat with the family -Bur- stain. From here she was dragged for about fifty yards further into the woods. s was evidenced from the particles of by the twigs and brush between the spot and the place she was found. THE BODY AS DISCOVERED. When found the cuff on her right arm was pulled down over her hand that she had thrown her hand to her head when the fatal shot was fired. been torn and was in good order. A part of her hair had fallen down and had apparently been pushed into the coil by some one after she had been killed. She seemed to have been carefully laid out, being on her back, her hands carefully placed upon her breast and and the lying upon a slight incline, the head being on the higher portion and towards the north. It would seem from the careful arrangement of the body that the maddened and frenzied lover after hoving committed the horrible crime realized his inexpressible inhumanity and had as a last and forever lasting farewell to the woman he loved best on earth, bestowed every tender caress and token of love upon her that was lest in his power.

The coroner went up to Cary last night to view the remains. It is under-8.45 train and that the inquest will be Morganton-Hickory.

TWO LIVE TOWNS-IMPROVEMENTS - GOL. J. G HALL-PERSONALS, &C , &C. Staff Correspondence.

After an absence of five years the writer again has the pleasure of visiting the town of Morganton and Hickory.

MORGANTON.

HICKORY, N. C., Dec. 24, 1886.

the county seat of Burke, and lying almost under the shawdow of Grandfather mountain, is one of the pleasantest places to summer at in the Piedmont country. No purer, sweeter, cooler water can be found in the state than here. No eleverer or more hosptiable people exists than those of Morganton. Within sight of the town and not more than fifteen or twenty miles distant are the beautiful Blue Ridge mountains, which wherever seen produces upon the mind of the beholder reverential feelings for these megnificently grand eviderces of nature's great architect. The spirit of progress has not been idle within the last five years, for during that period a number of handsome brick stores have been built, and Morganton will at no distant day, it is hoped, become one of the prominent towns of Western Carolina. We were happy to shake the hands and meet the smiles of many of our former friends, which among this people are not easily forgotten. It is at this place that the Western North Carolina asylum is situsted, which is said to have cost about $10,000. It is a magnificent building.

HICKORY is fortunate in baving among its citizens state. This place only a few years ago was but an obscure railway station, but now some twenty or more large, handsome brick stores, several tobacco factories and tobacco warehouses attest the indeminable energy and push of its businces men. It is at this place that the celebrated "Old Hickory Wagona" are manufactured. Col. J. G. Hall is president of the "Piedmont Wagon Co.," the factory from which these wagons are produced.

This company manufactures about 2,400 wagons annually. Col. Hill is to Hickory what Col. W. T. Blackwell is to Durhem, almost the father of the town. He is a tall well-built man, with black bair, dark intelligent eyes, and pleasant smile. He is a man of fine executive ability, and although engaged in several branches of business. keeps them all well in hand. Col Hall intends making an exhibit of his wagens at the next state fair in rather a povel style, he will cause a beautiful house to be built of wagons, the house baving several rooms, one of which will contain a large cottage organ accompanied by a good choir from Hickory who will discourse the sweetest music, during the exhibition. While in Hickory we had the pleasure of meeting the Hon. A. A. Shuford, member of the last legislature. We also had the pleasure o enjoying the converse of Bro. B. K. Bryan, editor of the Piedment Press. and it gives us much pleasure to acknowledge the many courtesies received at the hands of this accomplished and handsome junior editor. One of the most crying wants of Hickory is a good hotel, for with its many advantages to the summer resorter as a healthful place, this want of a good comfortable hotel will forever preclude any business in this direction.
