

NEWS AND OBSERVER

PUBLISHED DAILY (EXCEPT MONDAY) AND WEEKLY BY THE NEWS AND OBSERVER CO. J. I. MORRIS, Editor.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1887. "TRIVIAL TROUSERS" is what they now call Foraker. "Little Breaches" having somewhat palled on the public ear, so to speak.

The best thing about St. Louis Veiled Prophet organization seems to be the fact that not a single republican can belong to it.

DR. PARKER, of England, eulogized Henry Ward Beecher Tuesday night in Brooklyn, referring to the dead preacher as the "shepherd of his nation."

The Wadesboro Messenger appears in enlarged form with Messrs. Love and Boylin as its publishers. We wish it continued growth, long life and prosperity.

JANET AIMEE, the singer and actress, has just died, in Paris and there were not two score mourners at her funeral. As poor Rip says: "How soon we are forgot when we are gone."

The President said good-bye to rough and tumble Chicago yesterday, and proceeded to Milwaukee, where we hope, the crowds that throng to see him will be better-mannered than they were in the western metropolis.

THERE is apparently a fresh outbreak of hazing at the Northern colleges. The cowardly practice is generally, however, on the decline, we are glad to know. It is almost wholly a thing of the past in our North Carolina colleges and the fact is a decided credit to our young men.

IRVING HALL has split up, it is reported, the better part of its membership withdrawing rather than barter away the principles of Democracy. It is a gratifying fact that the democrats of New York city as a whole are more harmonious and united than they have been for many years.

NINA VAN ZANDT is aggrieved because of the fact that her husband by proxy, Spies, will insist on writing love letters to another woman. This is the reward she has for giving up friends and reputation and everything else in her infatuation for the condemned anarchist. But what else could she have expected.

The Italians of Trenton, N. J., are preparing to celebrate on the 12th inst., the 395th anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus, "which the same is" but the beginning, we suppose, of Columbus celebrations which will culminate four years hence. The prospect is not altogether pleasing.

GOLD continues to pour into this country from across the sea and at an ever increasing rate. In July the imports were about $2,000,000, in August about $6,000,000 and in September about $13,000,000. It all goes into our melting pot on arrival, except of course the United States coin which is returned to us in it and it indicates a decided balance of trade in our favor.

The Salisbury Truth is a new paper to be published every Thursday by J. J. Stewart, editor and proprietor. It starts out by saying that no democratic principle has been observed in this country since 1848, and proceeds to declare that its purpose is "to stamp with the truest ethical significance the gravest symbol of political legerdemain." Its character may be gathered from these remarks.

A LARGE and enthusiastic meeting of Wilmington's most substantial citizens has declared in favor of a subscription of $150,000 to the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad. Now for the extension of the road and a straight line between Wilmington and Cincinnati. That or something like it is all that is necessary to make our commercial metropolis one of the leading Atlantic ports.

The savings banks which have been established in the State during the past few months are all doing a thriving business. Why should not their number be multiplied? Each of the larger centres of population, particularly the industrial centres, needs one of the institutions. Let us have one in every town of consequence in the State, and our word for it, they will not only benefit the communities in which they are established but make money for their stockholders.

The considerable increase in the assessed valuation of property in North Carolina is a further gratifying evidence of the advance of the State on all lines of prosperity. There has been marked growth in material welfare in every section. There has been improvement in every department of industry. There has been advance in agricultural methods. There has been development everywhere of the wonderful resources of the State. The rich lands of the east have been made to yield more abundantly and the trucking interest has been widely extended; the centre has experienced a decided boom in mining and has multiplied its industries largely; the west has advanced with such great strides as to astound all who visit it after an absence of any number of years. Throughout the State the water-worn for some time been "Forward" and the result is a status with respect to material progress second to that of no State in the South.

We say the fact is gratifying, and we record the frequent evidences of increasing prosperity with pride as well as pleasure. Let us see that no untoward political event shall retard the progress we are making. Let us take care that the sound administration afforded us by the democrats be continued, to the end that the commonwealth may be speedily placed where it belongs—among the most progressive in all respects of the States of the Union.

In the Montgomery Dispatch of the 4th we find a letter from Gen. James H. Lane, so well known to North Carolinians as a brigade commander of troops from this State during the war and as a zealous defender of the fame of our people since the unpleasantness, in which the story of the tragic death of the brave young lieutenant Caldwell at Gettysburg is told anew. The General says he has received many requests for the publication of his recollections of the famous charge of the 3d of July, and North Carolinians would be particularly glad to see such a publication; but the General explains that he has nothing to add in the way of historical facts to his official report of the battle and two letters written by request, which have already been published in the Southern Historical Society papers. "In the same papers," however, he says, "will be found a communication on the same subject from Gen. Trimble, who commanded a part of Pender's division (Lane's and Scales' brigades) in that third day's charge. Gen. Trimble ought certainly to be an impartial judge, as he commanded us then for the first and last time. A perfect stranger to us all he took charge of us on the battlefield, made us a short address, and with his staff and a part of Pender's he rode in the rank of file closers as we advanced, lost one of his legs and fell into the hands of the enemy when Gen. Lee withdrew from Gettysburg."

Gen. Lane will not soon be forgotten by North Carolinians. His gallant bearing on the field at the head of North Carolina troops and his defense of our boys in grey on all occasions against maligners have endeared him to us all and his memory will remain fresh and green among us long even after he shall have crossed the river, which event we trust is still far in the future. He says young Caldwell, enlisted in the 33d regiment, Lane's brigade, Pender's division, A. P. Hill's corps and not as heretofore stated.

There is nothing truer than the quotation made by Gen. Lane to the effect that "the want of knowledge among the rising generation—our Southern youth, grown up since the war—of the trusted and faithful sops of the South, who so grandly fulfilled their pledges with their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor in her defence, is absolutely appalling."

We owe it to ourselves, our State and the truth of history to see this knowledge is supplied as far as possible. We have seen something in the papers of an alleged bolt of Maryland democrats in favor of republicanism. The leaders of the movement have been put down as Messrs. S. T. Wallis, Stewart Brown and Charles Marshall. These gentlemen, though it appears, are chronic bolters. The Washington Post says: "They bolt the ticket of the party to which they assume to belong as regularly as Collector Groome and Senator Gorman vote it, and find themselves as often in the company of such republicans as ex-Sheriff Airey and ex-Collector Webster."

The Post says further: "Mr. Wallis twelve years ago, was the regularly nominated republican candidate for Attorney-General of the State, and from that year to this year he has never aided, so far as we know, the local ticket of the democratic party. He certainly supported, as did Col. Marshall (we do not know so much about the other man), opposition tickets for mayor of Baltimore in 1883 and 1885."

The bolt therefore does not seem to be very well defined. But suppose it is a bolt it is clear the democracy will thrive upon all movements like it made up of similar material.

Sugar Bounties. Springfield Republican. The London workingmen are clamoring against the sugar bounties, and a meeting of 10,000 persons was held there to denounce them yesterday. As these bounties are imposed by the nations of continental Europe, the British workingman is powerless to help himself, except by calling for retaliation. France, Germany, Russia and other countries by paying these bounties on the export of beet sugar have stimulated the growth of that product from 20 per cent to 55 per cent of the world's production. Of course, this enormous and artificial stimulation has closed the British refineries and greatly damaged the countries which produce sugar from the cane, except in the case of the Hawaiian Islands, which have a great advantage in the free admission of their products to our ports. But, in the meantime, the European powers are not without difficulties. None of them can afford to pay millions annually to pay for other people's sugar, but none of them dare to reduce the tax, for fear of rousing the opposition of those engaged in raising the beets and refining.

ASHEVILLE NEWS.

The Reception of the President—Continuation of the Work of Improvement. Cor. of the News and Observer.

ASHEVILLE N. C., Oct. 5. The board of county commissioners decided Monday to submit to a vote of the people the question of subscription to the various railroad projects now engaging the attention of the citizens of this county. The proposition is to subscribe one hundred thousand dollars each to the four proposed roads. The order submitting the question is to be prepared by the county attorney and will be acted on finally at the next meeting of the board—an adjourned meeting a few days hence. The vote will probably be taken in November. The contest will be strenuous; the advocates of the proposition are very confident, enthusiastic and aggressive; the opposition is quiet but determined. A discussion of the question on the stump will be likely to be had, as a great many voters are doubtless open to argument.

At a meeting of the board of trade and city council and a number of citizens Monday night, preliminary steps were taken towards the preparations for Cleveland's reception on the 21st of October. A committee of arrangements was appointed, headed by Mr. S. R. Kepler, president of the Board of Trade, and Hon. H. S. Harkins, mayor of Asheville. The Governor, the State Council and the two U. S. Senators were invited to meet the President here. They will be the guests of the city if they shall accept the invitation. The President has allowed only 15 minutes for his visit to Asheville, and the problem presented to the committee on arrangements is how to abbreviate the desired or proposed programme, and crowd down into that limited space the hospitalities that the community desire to extend to him.

Lieutenant Governor Mauldin, of Greenville, S. C., is visiting the city in the interest of the projected Carolina, Western and Knoxville railroad. He appeared before the board of commissioners Monday and presented his views on the question of subscription to the proposed railroads. Gas was turned on Monday night, and the new works are now in regular operation. The quality of the gas is excellent, and affords as fine a light as can be desired. It will be generally used throughout the city.

At the regular annual meeting of the Tobacco Association held Monday night, C. C. McCarty was elected President, J. H. Carter vice-president, and E. J. Holmes secretary. The work of macadamizing our streets goes steadily on. They are laid with crushed stone. Just now the principal work is being done on Patton avenue.

THE "JUNE BUG" ROAD.

Celebration of its Completion—Reunion of Confederates. Correspondence News and Observer.

TAYLORSVILLE, N. C., Oct. 4. At a meeting held yesterday it was decided to have a soldiers' reunion and celebrate the completion of the "June Bug" Railroad to Taylorsville Tuesday, November 1st, 1887. Committees were appointed to invite speakers and prepare a dinner. An excursion will be run from Charlotte. Several prominent speakers are to be invited, and one of the biggest days ever known in Taylorsville is expected. E. L. H.

How a Zircoon Mine was Sailed.

The following is an actual occurrence on Green River. Much excitement has prevailed in that section recently over the opening of the zircon mines. Scores of residents along the zircon belt have been with pick and shovel busily engaged prospecting for zircon.

So far the search has been unsuccessful except in one instance, and in that the mine was sailed. A mischievous Green River youngster scattered a lot of zircons, taken from the Freeman mine, in a certain place on the lands of his father, J. J. Adams, and speedily informed him of the find. His "dad," highly elated, went to work and with pick and shovel dug a deep pit, built his rockers, and prepared for mining the crystals on a big scale. But the exertions of the old man proved too much for the youngster. Choking with laughter, he gave himself away, and the "sell" was soon in the possession of the old man. Disgusted with mining for the mineral, he now concluded to extract the oxide, pure and simple, but this time it came not from the mine, but from the boy. With a stout hickory switch he gave the urchin thirty-nine save one, and they do say he laid it on with a will. This will no doubt put an end to zircon salting in that locality at least.

Charged With Murder.

Charlotte Chronicle. Sam Deberry, colored, was yesterday lodged in jail charged with the murder of Jules Robinson, also colored. It was reported that while Jules was sitting on a pallet fooling with an old pistol the weapon exploded, the ball entering his head and causing his death. After Jules' body was buried rumors of foul play were heard, and Coroner Cathey being summoned, the body was exhumed and an investigation was made. Several witnesses, including Deberry, testified in support of the accidental theory. There was no conflict in the testimony until a colored man named Rufus Walker was called to the stand, and upon the strength of Walker's testimony, Deberry was arrested upon the charge of murder. Walker swore that he was lying on a pallet in the room and heard Jules say to Sam: "Don't hit me over the head again, Sam." Sam got up and secured the pistol, when Jules threw his hands to his face and exclaimed: "Don't shoot me." Almost immediately Sam pulled the trigger and Jules fell over with a bullet in his head. Sam threw the pistol out of the window and then asked those in the room not to tell what he had done. Another negro testified that in the cotton field next day, Henry Walker told him that Sam Deberry had killed Jules Robinson.

Married Against His Will.

An interesting case was tried in the Superior Court yesterday, John D. Southernland suing for divorce from Melissa Southernland. The plaintiff in the case is quite a young man. He came to this county, where he became acquainted with Miss Melissa Turley. Young Southernland kept company with Miss Melissa for some months. Although he might have contemplated matrimony, he was rather dilatory about coming to the point, and Miss Turley's father thought it was advisable to hurry matters.

It was alleged by the plaintiff that he was waylaid in the woods, and captured, and with a pistol pointed at his head by the father of the young lady, was told that he must "marry or die." Seeing that there was no escape, Southernland reluctantly submitted, and was then and there joined in wedlock with the young lady by a justice of the peace, who was with the party that made the capture. Southernland, the reluctant groom, said that he accompanied his bride to her parent's home but left soon afterwards, and has ever since refused to live with her. The jury rendered a verdict for the plaintiff, finding that he was forced violently and against his will to marry the defendant.

Salvation Oil delights everybody. It can be had of all druggists and dealers in medicines. It eradicates all pain by quickly removing the cause. It cures neuralgia and rheumatism. Price 25 cents.

When Noah was in the Ark young Ham was always playing tricks on the old gentleman. One day he told his resentful father that there was water in the cellar and they had all caught cold! Then a dawned on Noah that he had omitted to secure a supply of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

—Green in many distinct tints, from golden green to the dark moss and myrtle shades, is a conspicuous color in autumn millinery. It is used in conjunction with black, white, juncal yellow, Persian lilac, terra-cotta, certain shades of blue, Roman red, Venetian bronze, and many novel neutral tints in plush and velvet shot with a contrasting color.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once, it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste; soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

—Vincenzo Juliano, an Italian charged with the murder of a countryman, saved his rations in the Newark Jail to keep his wife and children from starving.

What a Time

People formerly had, trying to swallow the old-fashioned pill with its rim of magnesia vainly disguising its bitterness; and what a contrast to Ayer's Pills, that have been well called "mischievous sugar-plums"—the only fear being that patients may be tempted into taking too many at a dose. But the directions are plain and should be strictly followed. J. T. Teller, M. D., of Chittanooga, N. Y., expresses exactly what hundreds have written at greater length. He says: "Ayer's Cathartic Pills are highly appreciated. They are perfect in form and coating, and their effects are all that the most careful physician could desire. They have supplanted all the Pills formerly popular here, and I think it must be long before any other can be made that will all at once compare with them. Those who buy your pills get full value for their money." "Safe, pleasant, and certain in their action," is the concise testimony of Dr. George E. Walker, of Martinsville, Virginia.
