GREENSBORO'S FIRST STRIKE

WICH OTH'R NEWS FROM THE PLOWER

Cor. of the News and Observer. GREENSBORG, N. C., March 14, 1888. Our town was favored with the novelty of a genuine "strike" yesterday morning. It was the water works force, a squad of about fifteen negro laborers. The tower is to be 100 feet high and 30 feet in diameter.

Greensboro is again on the move for a military company. A new edition of the famous old "Guilford Grays" was organized here some ten years ago. The company was officered and fully equipped, but the roll of names was hardly up to the requisite standard; in fact, there was not sufficient material in the place to keep up a full organization, and after a few years it was disbanded.

An effort was made last year to reorganize, which did not result in success. There is more material here now, as the boys have been growing very fast of late, and the town is nearly twice as large as it was ten vears ago.

The negro Pleas. Martin, who cut his wife's throat last Tuesday, seems to have made good his escape, as the officers have not been able to come up with him and there is no news of his whereabouts.

His wife still lives in spite of the ghastly wound, and is in fair way to recover.

The West End Club, in accordance with its previously announced programme, favored a packed audience with a really first class and highly meritorious entertainment in the Court House on last Friday night. Our town may well feel proud of its instrumental part, and Mrs. Haywood Alderman, the lady manager, assisted by ten young ladies, supplemented by ten male basso and tenor voices, all together presented an array and furnished a treat which entirely captivated the large audience. Many of our folks were simply astonished, and the storm of applause which greeted some of the performers at-

Winston.

Cor. of the News and Observer. WINSTON, N. C., March 12. In a very sensible article in your Sunday issue, in reference to the establishment of small industries in the city of Raleigh is a reference to the successful operation at this place of I. Leopold & Co.'s big cigar factory. The reference is all right, merited and true, in its main points, but incorrect as to one fact, and that is where your writer refers to Mr. Leopold's using only North Carolina tobacco, in the manufacture of his eigars. Mr. Leopold tells me that he does not use any North Carolina leaf in his cigars, but on the contrary, Cuban tobacco, Sumatra and Connecticut leaf enters almost exclusively into the manufac ture of his goods. North Carolina tobacco cannot be excelled for cigarette smoking and plug tobaccos, but tobacco grown in North Carolina does not possess those peculiar qualities that constitute cigar tobacco. Consequently our North Caro lina tobaccos are never used for cigars, as cigars made from our tobacco could not be smoked with any degree of pleasure. In this connection I will say that you are on the right track as to the establishment in our State of small industries. Cotton and tobacco factories are good and do a grand work in developing and building up our country, but there are hundreds of articles that are scarcely even thought of that can be manufactured in the South as well if not better than in the North and East. It is well for people who contemplate the establishment of such industries to visit the North and the New Engwas a good opening in Raleigh for a
