On Sunday last at about 11 o'clock at night, at his own home, and surrounded by wife and children, our brother passed from the earth-"and the places which once knew him shall know him no mo:e again forever." No more will courts and juries hang upon his words and be edified and instructed by his lucid exposition ble presentation of the facts of his case in hand. His life is ended, and what he has accomplished for good alone remains to us of this highly ifted and fully furnished man. Mr. Gatling was conspicuous in every position in which he was placed; as a soldier he was bravely faithful in the discharge of duty, as a legisla-tor he was intelligently diligent, as a lawyer he was wary, pains taking and able, as a husband he was kindly affectionate, and as a father he was judiciously inculgent. But why shall I dwell upon those things which are familiar to all who knew him well. and, especially in this place, amid those who were actors with him in many of the important events of his

But our brother is dead, and by many will soon, perhaps, be forgotten. "Alas! how soon we are forgotten," is a truth felt by all who have lived to man's estate. But there are some, I know, who will continue to hold his memory precious. To us, his brethren of the bar, death has purified him, and his faults, if he had them, we will forget, and his virtues, of which he had his share, we will cherish.

In this spirit I lay my wreath upon his tomb. Col. Hinsdale then spoke as folfollows, after which he introduced the resolutions: Maj. John Gatling, whose death we have met to deplore, was born in the county of Gates in the year 1840. He entered the University of North Carolina at an early age and during his college course gave evidence of the ability for which he was afterwards so distinguished, graduating

He represented his native county in the House of Representatives in 1868, and afterwards, having removed to Wake county, after a brilliant canvass he was elected in 1884 to the Senate from his adopted county. He was a useful and influential mem-

When Mr. Moore retired from the practice Maj. Gatling succeeded to the large and lucrative business of that firm. It was as a lawyer that he was pre-eminently distinguished. He was a lucid and forcible speaker and an able advocate, WOOLLCOTT & SON'S, having ready command of the purest English. He was most persuasive in his manner, both to the jury and the court; had a discriminating legal mind and was well versed in the learning of the profession. In the famous case connected with the estate of the late Hon. Geo. E. Badger, in which he appeared as counsel, his argument was aid in the construction of a railroad opposite to and co terminous with a portion of any such railroad not now completed and in operation for the construction or banefit of which the lands have heretofore been granted, and all such lands are declared to be a part of the public domain. The fifth section exempts from the operation of the act the grant to the State of Mississsippi for the Gulf and Ship Island Railway from the Tennessee river, at Gun'er's Landing, to the Coosa river, at Gadsden.

The sixth section fixes the price of even numbered sections of land within the limits of all forfeited land grauts at $1.25 an acre. The eighth section gives to all
