PROCEEDINGS YESTERDAY IN SENATE AND HOUSE

THE FISHERIES TREATY AGAIN AND MR. HALE THEREON—OTHER NEWS.

By Telegraph to the News and Observer.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—SENATE.—Mr. Hale called up Mr. Morgan's resolution as to the fisheries treaty, and proceeded to address the Senate on that subject. He said that Mr. Morgan's speech last week had filled him with wonder that he, as a representative of his party, and advocate of the administration, should be urging and advocating the cause of "our friends, the enemy." The question, said Mr. Hale, was not a local one. It involved a national spirit and national sympathy. There was no man living anywhere in the United States and taking an interest in public affairs who was not concerned that out of existing conditions should come the establishment of the rights of his fellow-citizens who are engaged in the fisheries of the United States. He proposed to assail in detail the provisions of the treaty—unsatisfactory, illusory and comparatively valueless as they all were. His colleague (Mr. Frye) had done that in the most thorough and effective fashion. But the treaty was a failure, and must needs have been a failure inevitably because neither the administration nor the negotiators had been able to seize or take into consideration the whole situation.

Mr. Hale declared that the fishermen would agree to no surrender in this matter that his voice alone was against the treaty. He gave it as his conviction that the desire of the Canadians to have the American market opened free to their fish was at the bottom of all the trouble. At the close of Mr. Hale's speech the resolution was postponed till Monday, the 26th inst.

The District of Columbia appropriation bill was then passed and the Senate resumed consideration of the resolution offered by Mr. Stewart, for a statement of the sale of bonds since April, 1888, the question being on Mr. Cockrell's amendment to add after the word "names" the words "other than private parties."

Mr. Cockrell, in speaking 60 his amendment, read a letter written last April to the Secretary of the Treasury by a Mr. Michels, a Washington journalist, asking that the committee on mines and mining (of which Mr. Stewart is chairman) should be furnished daily with a detailed statement of the bonds offered and accepted. The Treasury Department had complied with that request, and ever since the 17th of April the Senator from Nevada and the journalist mentioned had had a complete statement before them. Why did the Senator insist on having the names of the persons offering bonds? There would be some reason for it. He would now withdraw his amendment, and have the Senate itself responsible for adopting the resolution.

A motion to refer to the finance committee was rejected. A discussion for some time took place. The resolution was then adopted without modification and without division.

Mr. Blair moved to take up the Senate bill for the adjustment of the accounts of laborers, workmen and mechanics, arising under the eight-hour law. A vote by yeas and nays resulted yeas 21, nays 11. The negative votes were all given by Democrats and the affirmative by Republicans—the latter being joined, however, by Messrs. Call and Turpie. As there was no quorum voting, the roll was called and 44 Senators answered. A motion to proceed to executive business was made by Mr. Butler, and resulted yeas 14, nays 18. There was another roll call, showing the presence of a quorum, (several Senators, however, being paired), but another vote on the motion to go into executive business failed, and then, weary of useless voting, the Senate, at 4:20, adjourned.

HOUSE.—The House went into committee of the whole, Mr. Springer in the chair, on the tariff bill. Mr. Bayne, of Pennsylvania, moved to strike from the free list sun, sisal grass and other vegetable substances. Motion defeated.

Mr. Warner, of Missouri, moved to strike from the free list burlap, not exceeding sixty inches in width, of flax, jute or hemp. Rejected after very brief discussion.

Mr. McMillin, of Tennessee, moved to place upon the free list bags of jute for grain. A long debate resulted upon this motion, into which a good deal of politics entered.

Mr. Dingley, of Maine, opposed the proposition to place jute bags on the free list on the ground that it would be destructive to the manufacturer in this country of cotton bagging.

Messrs. Biggs and Thompson, of California, earnestly supported the motion, contending that the placing of jute bags on the free list would not interfere with the manufacture of cotton bagging, but would be greatly beneficial to the grain-producing people of the Pacific coast.

The motion was then agreed to. Reaching the clause putting on the free list machinery for the manufacture of cotton bagging, Mr. Lind, of Minnesota, offered an amendment including machinery for making twine of hemp, but this was rejected as well as one to strike out the paragraph.

The next paragraph was read (tin plate) and Mr. Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, moved to strike it out. Another general tariff debate sprang up on the paragraph. Mr. Dalzell opening it with a fifteen minutes' speech in favor of protection for tin manufacturers.

Mr. Yost, of Virginia, taking up the figures showing the imports of tin plate into the United States, estimated that the laboring people of this country had lost $15,000,000 in wages by not being allowed to produce these tin plates through a higher duty. Virginia could furnish everything necessary to make the best tin plate. She had basic steel and tin, without which plate could not be made. Put the duty at two and two-cent cents a pound and give the South a chance for five years and then she could compete with the world. She was demanding her rights and could not get them if the gentlemen here who represented her did their duty.

Mr. Randall said the real question was: Could we produce tin plate properly? We could, and we had done it. Men who had seen it had testified. If properly produced, it would be the natural product of the country, the price of tin plate would decrease here. We should be the wage-earner of the United States—produce what we could produce. It went further. It touched iron ore and lime stone, and other products, all going to make tin-plate. We had long enough drained the country of sixteen millions annually paid out for tin-plate. We took three-fifths of the British products, and he (Randall) was opposed to favoring a foreign supply at the expense of our own.

Mr. Wilson, of West Virginia, produced an old record and had read a discussion in the Senate between Senator Sherman and Ingalls, in which the last-named gentleman protested against the protection of the infant line of industry before the infant was born. This was received with a round of applause on the Democratic side. The committee then rose and the House at 5 o'clock adjourned.

THE EMPEROR.—By Telegraph to the News and Observer. POTSDAM, June 13.—At 2:45 p. m. fears were entertained by the Emperor's physician that inflammation of the lungs would set in by the developments of his illness. The Emperor now receives nourishment, consisting of cream and whiskey, which is given by Dr. MacKenzie several times a day through a tube, the use of the tube being attended with danger. Dr. MacKenzie only applied it after the other doctors in attendance had agreed to its use. Cases are on record where the lives of patients have been prolonged several months by this means. Since Saturday Dr. MacKenzie has been inserting a tampon cannula, as a connection has formed between the larynx and oesophagus.

Prohibition in Kansas.—By Telegraph to the News and Observer. Ellen Foster, of Iowa, addressed the convention, and said she was en route for Chicago, and in the name of the Republican women of the country would demand that the Republican party declare against saloons.

JACKSON.

THE MONUMENT MARKING THE SPOT WHERE HE FELL

DECEASED WITH IMPROVING CEREMONIES—FIVE THOUSAND PEOPLE PRESENT—OTHER NEWS.

By Telegraph to the News and Observer.

ALEXANDRIA, June 13.—At Alexandria yesterday a monument that marks the spot where Stonewall Jackson received the wound from which he died was dedicated with impressive ceremonies. The Fredericksburg Grays, Military Camp of Confederate Veterans, delegations from Lee Camp of Richmond and Lee Camp of Alexandria were in attendance. General Fitzhugh Lee was chairman of the meeting. He made a brief though feeling address, after which he introduced Senator John W. Daniel as the orator of the day, who spoke for more than an hour, reviewing the life and character of Jackson. His speech was received with applause. Many touching words were related of the dead hero, which produced a sensation. Brief speeches were also delivered by Dr. R. M. Compton, of Alexandria; Col. William Allen, of Baltimore; Col. Jed Hotchkiss, of Staunton, and Rev. James P. Smith, of this city. The three last named were members of Jackson's staff at the time he was shot.

Appropriate odes were sung during the exercises by the Musical Association of this city. The military fired a volley of three rounds over the monument at the close of the ceremonies.

Gen. Bradley T. Johnson, of Baltimore; Col. E. Cutshaw, of Richmond, and J. J. Johnson, of Fluvanna county, were among the prominent people present. Johnson was assisting to carry Jackson off the field at Chancellorsville when a shell carried by his left arm, causing the latter to fall. This was his first visit to the battlefield since that occasion. It is estimated that 5,000 people were present today.

AT ST. MARY'S.—THE ANNUAL CONCERT LAST NIGHT—A BRILLIANT AFFAIR.

The crowd which was at St. Mary's last night could not begin to get into the spacious audience room where the concert was held. The visitors were crowded in the apartment till it was full, and hundreds were about the door and in the halls and balcony who could not get seats within.

The annual concert was one of those superb entertainments which everybody is always anxious to hear. The concert given up at St. Mary's are always noted for the ease and grace with which they are carried through. All the minor details are arranged and executed to admirable effect. The following is the programme which was rendered last night:

Dr. C. A. Rominger read a paper on Dental Chemistry, a discussion of which was participated in by a number of gentlemen.

Dr. W. W. H. Thackston commended the paper as being an intelligent and clear exposition of advanced chemical knowledge in its relations to dental tissue and lesions of that tissue, especially during the period of ulcers formation.

Dr. H. D. Harper developed the idea of rapid dissolution of the lime salts being attributable to imperfect assimilation.

Dr. C. A. Rominger agreed with the above and recommended such cereals as contain large quantities of lime salts.

The Association having learned of Prof. R. B. Winder's sickness, a resolution of sympathy of the Association were conveyed to him by Drs. A. O'Daniel and Sid P. Hilliard.

An expression of sympathies and regrets were wired Dr. J. F. Griffith, of Salisbury, who was provisionally prevented from meeting with the Association.

A similar resolution was conveyed to Dr. J. H. Crawford. Also the thanks of the Association for the use of his office for holding clinics.

A committee, composed of C. A. Rominger and F. G. Harris were appointed to report on Thursday morning as to the advisability of revising the constitution, by-laws and code of ethics.

The committees being so much engaged the different subjects have not come up in regular order, but the business is being fairly dispatched.

Adjourned to meet this morning. On yesterday we inadvertently left out that Dr. Rominger read a paper on pathology and therapeutics which was included in the discussions under that head, and which was pronounced a very excellent one.

The Teachers' Assembly. Persons who desire to visit the Teachers' Assembly at Morehead City during the session may secure the certificates of membership in Raleigh by applying to Mr. J. B. Neathery at Alfred Williams & Co's bookstore, who will act for the secretary during his absence at Morehead. Tickets of membership will entitle holders to reduced railroad and hotel fare if presented before June 21st.

so perfectly it is almost unjust to say that one feature excelled another.

The Dental Association. Yesterday several interesting clinics were held in the offices of Drs. Turner and Crawford.

Dr. Sid P. Hilliard demonstrated the use of the Parr Separator belt, inferior cuspidal lateral. Sufficient space was obtained in three minutes, causing but little pain and annoyance to the patient.

Dr. C. A. Rominger filled the cavities thus exposed with Pack's gold cylinders, making perfect margins; also exhibiting gold fillings inserted without the use of the rubber dam on the labial surfaces of inferior bicuspids.

Dr. V. E. Turner condensed, with colicoid gold, the distal surface of a superior cuspid.

Dr. J. E. Wyche demonstrated the use of a filling set.

Dr. Geo. W. Whitsett inserted a cement filling and explained their use for temporary purposes.

Dr. H. C. Herring exhibited a set of instruments for the implantation of teeth and explained their use.

Dr. A. O'Daniel illustrated a new and convenient method of stopping a hole accidentally made in the rubber dam while in position, by the use of a ligature.

Some beautiful specimens of crown and bridge work were exhibited by Dr. H. Sniffen, Prof. R. B. Winder, who was confined to his room by sickness.

AFTERNOON SESSION. The Association was called to order by President Hunter who, as per announcement, arose and delivered his annual message, which was greatly appreciated by all. It was replete with wisdom and many happy suggestions were made, which, if adopted, would greatly aid in improving the status of dentistry in North Carolina.

The message was complimented by many of the gentlemen, who fully endorsed it.

Dr. Turner then read a very interesting paper entitled Dental Legislation, and in many respects it was the finest paper ever presented to the association on that subject. Those who opposed its sentiments in action could but endorse its principles.

Dr. C. A. Rominger made a most beautiful reply, not only indorsing the paper, but offered suggestions which were intended to encourage the work of the new chapter in the elevation of the standard of dentistry.

Dr. A. O'Daniel read a paper on Dental Chemistry, a discussion of which was participated in by a number of gentlemen.

Dr. W. W. H. Thackston commended the paper as being an intelligent and clear exposition of advanced chemical knowledge in its relations to dental tissue and lesions of that tissue, especially during the period of ulcers formation.

Raleigh to a Wilmingtonian. Wilmington Star.

Raleigh has very much improved and enlarged. Through the courtesy of Dr. Eugene Green, able and efficient Superintendent of the Insane Asylum, we were taken over a part of the town—the part that is best built up—Fayetteville, Blount and Hillsboro streets. We noticed a great many handsome and more costly residences. In north Raleigh there are many tasteful and charming homes—all new. Where the old Lovejoy Academy stood there is a residence. The parade grounds have all been utilized, and where there were tens of acres of open ground there are now streets and residences. That is the court-end of the town. It is London's west-end. We saw the lordly Governor's palace—so-called—but sometimes known as "Jarvis's Folly." It is an ugly looking thing and is not too large for a rich citizen or a Chief Executive with $6,000 salary and good credit. The new postoffice is the handsomest building in North Carolina next to the modest, simple, massive capitol. It is a beautiful ornament to Fayetteville street. We saw with pleasure that many fine, capacious stores had been erected on Fayetteville street. The new Edenton Street Methodist Church is the most attractive building of the kind in the town unless the First Baptist eclipses it. We were taken to see Peace Institute and St. Mary's. We had not visited the latter, since we took a sister to school there about 1851. It was much improved and enlarged. The new Art building is fine, the very best we have seen. The new chapel is tasteful and a decided improvement on the old one. At Peace Institute we also found changes, and particularly in the audience room, which is fine. Both of these schools are managed well and are doing excellent work for North Carolina. Mr. Burwell and Mr. Smedes, the two principals, received us most cordially and showed us through their schools. All these changes noted have been made since we were last in Raleigh, twelve years since. It is the birthplace of this writer and he has a very special interest in the little capital city. We were taken suddenly ill and were compelled to forego a visit to the State Geological Museum, in which we were born nearly sixty years ago. We desired to look once more upon the room in which that event so important to us occurred. We were also prevented from visiting the capitol and looking in upon the Governor and the other officials who have borne themselves well in office and reflected credit upon the Democratic party that honored them.

"The little city" is good, coming from the citizen of a town which has very few if any more white residents than Raleigh, and but a few thousand more all told. The capital is very willing, however, for the apples to swim while they may, and secure in its metropolitan dignity, is very proud of the State's chief seaport, the hospitable old town on the lower Cape Fear.

Democratic Campaign Clubs.

Democratic Campaign Clubs are now being organized all over the State, and it has been suggested that a white Cleveland beaver and a small walking cane be adopted as the regulation uniform. Messrs. Whiting Bros., clothiers and haters of this city, have completed arrangements with one of the largest manufacturers in the country to furnish unlimited quantities of the hats at a very low price so that they will be able to place them in any part of the State, free of charge, in quantities of 25 and upwards at a time, at $1.50 each. A sample beaver will be forwarded on receipt of $1.50 cash. Messrs. Whiting Bros. have already received 20 cases of the hats, which will just supply the local demand, together with a few orders from the eastern and western part of the State that they had on file. They have placed orders ahead just so as to meet demands for the hats as they come in. They will receive 10 cases more in a few days.

Campaign Clubs will do well if they will correspond with Messrs. Whiting Bros. about getting their Campaign Banners as they are headquarters for them in this State. They have already received orders from Durham, Salem, Charlotte, Washington, Reidsville and many other places. They will be glad to fill a sample order for a hat and the same may be returned if not satisfactory in style, price and quality. See Messrs. Whiting Bros. change of "ad."
