

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and whiteness...

Despondency or Melancholy,

Commonly called the "blues," generally proceeds from a sluggish liver...

Every Sufferer Is Earnestly Invited to

Nature's own remedy for a sluggish liver.

For some time my liver had been out of order, and I felt generally good for nothing...

Woolcott & Son, 14 East Martin Street.

100 pair high cut 20 button ladies' Donagola Boat Boots at $3.24, cheap at $3.00.

100 pair ladies' Oxford ties $1.48, a real bargain.

100 pair opera toe slippers 60c a pair.

2,000 yards printed lawns, new styles, 2c a yard.

1,000 yards bleached cloth 8-16 and 12-16c a yard.

2,000 yards cheese cloth, all shades, 5c a yard.

White goods, lawns, edgings at greatly reduced prices.

Lace curtains 10, 12, 16, 1-2, 25 and 35c a yard.

Ribbons all shades and widths.

200 misses' and ladies' shade hats 35c each, worth 50c.

In order to close out our French organ-dies we have reduced them to 10c a yard.

These goods at this price will only last a few days, they are cheap at $20c a yard.

Our New York buyer is daily shipping us bargains in all lines of goods.

$500 Reward!

We will pay the above reward for any case of liver complaint, dyspepsia, sick headache, indigestion, constipation or colic, when we cannot cure it with our Vegetable Liver Pills...

HARRISON NOMINATED ON THE EIGHTH BALLOT.

L. F. MORTON, OF NEW YORK, NOMINATED FOR VICE-PRESIDENT—THE AGONY OVER—OTHER NEWS.

By Telegram to the News and Observer. Chicago, Ill., June 25.—(Non)—Stephen B. Elkins was seen by an Associated Press reporter immediately after the adjournment of the Blaine caucus at 1:30 this morning.

"I want what I say to the Associated Press to go to the country as the unequalled sentiment of the leading friends of Blaine. There has been much misunderstanding in the matter both by the public and those who represent the public in this convention. Blaine is not a candidate before this convention unless by and with the consent of at least four of the leading candidates now before it. He will not be placed in nomination under any circumstances and his friends trust that his friends in the convention will refrain from voting for him until every other man has had an opportunity for a nomination. As I said we want at least four of the presidential candidates to relinquish their hold on the claims they may have upon the convention and make Blaine their candidate as nearly unanimously as possible. His Maine friends, Congressman Boutelle and Mr. Manly, will insist on this and they are supported by every clear-headed, honest friend of Blaine. Of course there are a few hot-heads here as there are most anywhere and they are attempting to force things, but such a move will be deprecated by those who understand Blaine's relation to this convention in view of his letters. The chief reason for the caucus last evening was to obviate anything contemplated which might look as if his name was being forced on the convention.

At this meeting of Maine delegates I have mentioned I fought for some length of time to combat any rash or foolish action on the part of his friends and then I was called in together with several other gentlemen who are not delegates and therefore had no right to a place in the caucus. I can now say to you that there will be no stampeding. Other candidates must have their day in the convention and then if there is no nomination, and the representatives of at least four candidates conclude that Blaine is the only solution of the dilemma they can nominate him and I have no doubt he will accept. But we must have it practically unanimous or we want listen to it. At any rate we are intent on holding down those whose blind fidelity to Blaine would make it appear that he wished to obtain a nomination by antagonizing other candidates. They are all his friends and he would not think for a moment of destroying the interests of a single one of them. We do not want the nomination for Blaine unless we get it as I have indicated and no one will labor harder to prevent any thoughtless or hasty action than I will or his friends in the Maine delegation. This is why they have their own State have peremptorily refused to cast a single vote for him unless the conditions exist which I have pointed out. As for myself, though I am a personal friend of Mr. Blaine, Mr. Harrison and I know that New York almost solidly for him and will so remain."

The sub-committee of the caucus remained in session after the main body adjourned. The sub-committee, it is understood, is in reality a Blaine "steering" committee to whom the Blaine men on the floor will look for directions. Half a dozen men compose this committee along with them are Powell Clayton, Creed Hammond and Charles Enory Smith. Just before 11 o'clock this morning a messenger left the room hurriedly and soon returned with S. J. Benson and J. S. Clark. Both of the gentlemen had apparently retired for the night and had only come to the meeting on urgent summons.

10 a. m.—The Sherman tide which set in yesterday flows on this morning and it will reach its flood on the second ballot today. The situation is critical for all the other candidates and the manipulators of the Blaine movement are disconcerted and have lost their confidence. New York can stem the Sherman tide if the delegation from that State desires to prevent his nomination. The question is now, Can New York effect his nomination if the delegation desires to do so? In brief, without New York's support it does not appear that Sherman has any chance at all. His friends claim that Sherman will get New York, and that is the situation in a nutshell.

Senator Hiscock said to an Associated Press reporter a few moments ago: "New York will vote for Harrison as long as he has a fair chance of success. Should Harrison become improbable, New York will consider Sherman. New York has not decided yet, we expect to stand by Harrison for several ballots."

At 10 o'clock the band is playing and the California delegation are unfurling the celebrated blue banner bearing the inscription, "Blaine and protection," in large gold letters. This indicates that they intend to flash it over the convention at the proper time. Just when and under what circumstances they may choose to spring it on the convention remains to be seen. There are other indications besides this significant banner incident which show that a few of the Blaine people propose to make their final effort today, but there is reason to believe that this effort will fail. Some of Blaine's friends have given up all hopes of his nomination. At three minutes past 11 o'clock the convention was called to order by Chairman Estee, who was again in good voice. The convention meets with almost absolute certainty that Blaine is a sure thing out of the race and that all the candidates must combine to prevent the impending nomination of Sherman. The proceedings were opened by prayer by Rev. Arthur Edwards, of Chicago. Evidently there is some occasion for delay, for as soon as the prayer was concluded Chairman Estee, the little electric bell and star. At the head of the House, of Virginia, arose and said he desired to offer a resolution regulating the order of balloting in the convention which would prohibit the casting of any vote for any candidate who had not been regularly placed in nomination before the convention.

The chairman ruled that this could not be done, as nothing was in order, except balloting. Mr. Boutelle, of Maine, arose and said he desired to offer a resolution, Mr. Hammond, of California, made the point of order that nothing was in order except to ballot. If there were any speeches to be made he wanted to make one for Blaine. [Applause.] The chairman said that he understood the gentleman from Maine desired to make a privileged announcement, and he was given the floor. He mounted the platform and said: "I find myself somewhat embarrassed in being thrown even into a semi-antagonism of the representatives of antagonism to the great Pacific slope who have come here manifesting such devotion to the chief whose banner I have followed with pride and affection these many years. [Applause.] I would like, were the occasion appropriate and did I feel it proper, in view of the courtesy to which I am indebted for an appearance here at all, to preface the announcement I am about to make with some explanatory remarks. I shall not attempt to do so. No one in this convention, no one in this magnificent auditorium has any doubt as to where the affection, devotion and allegiance of the Republicans of Maine have been and always will be. [Applause.] No one here will doubt the regret with which I discharge the duty imposed upon me, but, Mr. President and gentlemen of the convention, I am under constraint which I do not feel at liberty to speak of and without attempting to give construction or interpretation of my own to the language of one better than I am by far to judge, I discharge my humble duty as a representative of the Maine delegation by presenting to you without profane or comment the following dispatch which I have received. Mr. Boutelle read two cablegrams. The first was dated at Edinburgh, June 24, to Boutelle and Manly at Chicago: "Earnestly request all my friends to respect my Paris letter."

The second was dated today and said: "I think I have the right to ask my friends to respect my wishes and refrain from voting for me. Please make this and the former dispatch public." JAMES G. BLAINE. After the applause and confusion which followed Boutelle's announcement had died away, the convention proceeded to the sixth ballot. Little excitement was occasioned by the roll call outside the usual murmurs of applause, when California again cast her solid vote for Blaine, until Ohio was called and Gov. Foraker announced forty-six votes for Sherman. Then a delegate arose and challenged the correctness of the announcement.

The chairman wanted the name of the delegate and there being delay occasioned by the efforts of Gov. Foraker and others of the delegation to persuade their colleagues to withdraw his challenge, the chair stated that unless the name was given the announcement would stand. J. B. Luckey arose and announced his name and insisted upon a poll. The result of the poll was 45 votes for Sherman and one vote for Harrison, which was cast by Mr. Luckey himself. The result of the ballot was as follows:

SIXTH BALLOT. Arkansas, Alger 14. California, Blaine 16. Colorado, Harrison 5, Blaine 1. Connecticut, Sherman 6, Alger 2, Allison 4. Delaware, Harrison 5, Gresham 5. Florida, Harrison 1, Alger 5, Sherman 1. Eyed Grant 1, Harrison 2. Illinois, Gresham 41, Harrison 3. Indiana, Harrison 29, Gresham 1. Iowa, Allison 26. Kansas, Harrison 6, Gresham 3, Sherman 1, Alger 2, Allison 3, Blaine 3. Kentucky, Blaine 1, Sherman 9, Alger 6, Gresham 2, Harrison 7, McKinley 7. Louisiana, Sherman 9, Allison 2. Maine, Allison 1, Harrison 1, Alger 2, Sherman 3, Gresham 2, Foraker 1. Maryland, Sherman 6, Harrison 6, Allison 1. Massachusetts, Gresham 1, McKinley 1, Allison 2, Harrison 5, Alger 8, Sherman 11. Michigan, Alger 26. Minnesota, Alger 3, Harrison 6, Gresham 5. Mississippi, Blaine 1, Gresham 3, Sherman 14. Missouri, Alger 15, Gresham 11, Harrison 2, Sherman 2, Allison 1, McKinley 1. Nebraska, Allison 5, Sherman 3, Alger 2. Nevada, Alger 5, Blaine 1. New Hampshire, Sherman 1, Allison 1, Harrison 6. New Jersey, Gresham 1, McKinley 3, Harrison 14. New York, Harrison 72. North Carolina, Harrison 2, Alger 9, Sherman 19. Ohio, Sherman 46. Ohio's vote being split. The delegation being polled. Man who demanded roll, call is Luckey. Foraker and McKinley vote for Sherman. [Applause.] Luckey votes for Harrison.

Alabama, Alger 9, Sherman 6, Blaine 2, Harrison 3. On roll call Alabama stood, Harrison 3, Alger 10, Sherman 5, Blaine 2. Arkansas, Alger 14. California, Blaine 1, Harrison 15. Colorado, Harrison 6. Connecticut, Harrison 12. Delaware, Harrison 6. Florida, Harrison 2, Alger 4, Sherman 3. Georgia, Sherman 9, Harrison 10, Gresham 1, Alger 8. Illinois, asked to be passed. Cries of "No."

Vermont, Harrison 8. Virginia, Allison 5, Harrison 6, Alger 3. Wise says ten delegates demanded. Allen, Va., wants to explain. Out of order. Virginia, Sherman 10, Allison 5, Harrison 6, Alger 3. West Virginia, Alger 1, Blaine 2, Gresham 1, Harrison 2, McKinley 1, Sherman 5. Wisconsin, Harrison 21, Gresham 1, Arizona, Alger 2. Dakota, Harrison 19. District of Columbia, Blaine 1, Alger 1. Idaho, Gresham 2. Montana, Gresham 1, Alger 1. New Mexico, Alger 1, Sherman 1. Utah, Allison 2. Washington, Gresham 4, Harrison 1. Alger 1. On roll call 73, Gresham 91, Harrison 29, Sherman 21, Foraker 1, Blaine 49, Eyed Grant 1, McKinley 12. The call of the roll was then proceeded with for another ballot. When California was reached, Hammond announced amid applause 16 votes for Harrison. Mr. Gage demanded a call of the roll and the result showed 15 votes for Harrison and 1 for Alger, that of Mr. Gage himself. The result of the seventh ballot was as follows:

SEVENTH BALLOT. 11.59 a. m.—Alabama, Sherman 12. Alger 6, Blaine 1, Harrison 1. Arkansas, Alger 14. California, Harrison 16. Roll call of California proceeding. One man votes for Alger. California, Sherman 15, Alger 1. Colorado, Allison 6. Connecticut, McKinley 1, Alger 2, Sherman 5, Harrison 4. Delaware, Harrison 5, Gresham 1. Florida, Harrison 4, Alger 3, Sherman 1. Georgia, Alger 1, Lincoln 1, Harrison 3, Sherman 17, Gresham 1. Illinois, Gresham 40, Harrison 3, Alger 1. Indiana, Harrison 29, Gresham 1. Iowa, Allison 26. Kansas, Harrison 12, Sherman 1, Alger 1, Allison 3, McKinley 10, Sherman 10, Gresham 2. Louisiana, Sherman 9, Alger 3, Allison 2, Gresham 2. Maine, Sherman 1, Alger 1, Harrison 2, Allison 2, Gresham 2, McKinley 2, Foraker 1. Maryland, Sherman 6, Harrison 10, Blaine 1. Massachusetts, Lincoln 1, Gresham 1, McKinley 1, Alger 2, Allison 3, Harrison 9, Sherman 11. Michigan, Alger 26. Minnesota, Alger 26; Harrison 8, Gresham 4. Mississippi, Gresham 3, Sherman 14, Blaine 1. Missouri, Sherman 2, Alger 14, Gresham 12, Harrison 3, McKinley 1. Nebraska, Alger 2, Allison 5, Sherman 1, Harrison 2. Nevada, Allison 6. New Hampshire, Harrison 8. New Jersey, Sherman 1, Gresham 1, Alger 1, McKinley 5, Harrison 10. New York, Harrison 72. North Carolina, Harrison 3, Alger 7, Sherman 12. Ohio, Sherman 45, Harrison 1. Oregon, Gresham 6. Pennsylvania, Sherman 3, Sherman 57. Roll call ordered. Pennsylvania, Sherman 62, Harrison 8. Rhode Island, Allison 6, Harrison 2. South Carolina, Harrison 1, Alger 11, Sherman 6. Tennessee, Allison 1, Harrison 3, Sherman 5, Blaine 6, Alger 9. Texas, Alger 2, Allison 8, Sherman 7, Gresham 1, Harrison 3, McKinley 2, Blaine 2, Creed Hammond 5. Vermont, Harrison 8. Virginia, Allison 5, Harrison 6, Alger 3. West Virginia, Blaine 2, Gresham 8, Harrison 3, McKinley 8, Sherman 1. Wisconsin, Alger 2. Dakota, Harrison 10. District of Columbia, Blaine 1, Alger 1. Idaho, Gresham 2. Montana, Gresham 1, Alger 1. New Mexico, Alger 1, Sherman 1. Utah, Allison 2. Washington, Harrison 2, Alger 1, Gresham 4. Wyoming, Sherman 2. Alger, 120; Blaine, 15; Gresham, 91; Lincoln, 2; Sherman, 237; Hammond, 4; Allison, 76; Foraker, 1; Harrison, 278; McKinley, 16. The convention then proceeded to the eighth ballot.

Illinois, Harrison 4, Gresham 40. Indiana, Harrison 29, Gresham 3, Alger 1. Kansas, McKinley 1, Sherman 1, Harrison 16. Wales asks that roll call be ordered. Kansas, Alger 1, Harrison 16, McKinley 1. Kentucky, Harrison 14, Sherman 8, Blaine 1, Alger 2, Gresham 1. Kentucky vote challenged and another call ordered. It is said Pennsylvania will vote to Harrison. If so his nomination is certain. Louisiana, Harrison 9, Sherman 3, Alger 4. Maine, Harrison 5, Gresham 3, McKinley 1, Sherman 3. Maryland, Harrison 11, Sherman 4, Blaine 1. Massachusetts, Harrison 25, Sherman 2, Alger 2. Michigan, Alger 26. Minnesota, Alger 1, Harrison 13. Mississippi, Harrison 4, Gresham 3, Sherman 11. Missouri, Alger 15, Gresham 8, Harrison 7, Sherman 2. Nebraska, Harrison 7, Sherman 2, Alger 1, Harrison 9. Nevada, Alger 2, Harrison 4. New Hampshire, Harrison 8. New Jersey, Harrison 18. New York, Harrison 72. Harrison now has 314. Ohio, Harrison 1, Sherman 40. New York, Harrison 71. North Carolina, Harrison 7, Alger 4, Sherman 11. Roll call demanded. Oregon, Harrison 6. Pennsylvania, Harrison 59, Sherman 1. Rhode Island, Harrison 8. South Carolina, Harrison 4, Sherman 4, Alger 10. Roll call demanded. Harrison now has 411 votes, and is practically nominated.

Mr. Davis, of Minnesota, in flowery remarks on behalf of Minnesota, also seconded the motion to make the nomination unanimous. The chairman then read a dispatch he had received from Russell A. Alger, requesting him to convey his sincere thanks to the delegates who had so loyally supported him, and declaring that no State or man would give the gallant gentleman who had won the fight a heartier support than Michigan and himself. "He's all right" ended the dispatch, and the Alger men in the convention cheered loudly at the old well-known refrain. After the convention had been addressed by Wise and Mahone of Virginia, Proctor of Vermont, Lynch of Mississippi, Thurston of Nebraska, Harris of North Carolina, Williams of Arkansas and Bradley of Kentucky, all in the same strain, the chairman put the motion of Mr. Foraker, which was adopted with a shout and the chairman declared ex Senator Harrison the unanimous nominee of the convention and of the party for President.

THE VICE-PRESIDENCY. Mr. Thompson, of Indiana, thought that it was desirable for the convention to take a recess, and he therefore moved one until 5 o'clock this afternoon. The chairman stated that the motion was not seconded and directed the clerk to call the roll of States for the presentation of names of nominees for the Vice-Presidency. The clerk proceeded to call the roll amid much confusion occasioned by the frantic efforts of the chairmen of various Southern delegations to persuade the chairman that they had seconded the motion. Mr. Houk, of Tennessee, finally succeeded in getting recognition from the chair and renewed the motion, that a recess be taken until 5 o'clock. The motion was seconded by several States, but the convention by an overwhelming vote declined to adjourn and went on with the regular order, the placing in nomination of the candidates for the Vice-Presidency nomination.

Mr. Griggs, of New Jersey, presented the name of William Walter Phelps. Mr. Fuller, of North Carolina, seconded the nomination in the name of the young and progressive Republicans of North Carolina. [Applause.] 11.15.—Cries of vote and general confusion. Roll call proceeded. 1.18.—Speers, of North Carolina, rose and claimed that North Carolina had not been called. Amid great laughter the clerk called North Carolina. 1.19.—Speers, of North Carolina, seconds Morton in a highly humorous speech. Convention in convulsions of laughter. 1.20.—Moore withdrew. 1.22.—Balloting begun.

FIRST BALLOT. 1.24.—Morton 591, Phelps 119, Bradley 103, Bruce 11, W. F. Thomas 1. 1.38.—Denny, of Kentucky, moved to make the nomination unanimous. There were several seconds. Carried. 1.27.—Boutelle, of Maine, moved to suspend the rules to add a clause to the platform. 1.28.—A point of order was made on Boutelle. Great confusion. 1.29 p. m.—Oliver, of Pennsylvania other Harrison was in the field: "Oh, have you heard the news from Maine. How the went, hell bent, for Governor Kent and Tippecanoe and Tyler too!" [Applause and laughter.] He promised his State to the Republican party and declared that in the fore front of the battle would be found gleaming as it had in every critical fight of the Republican party the white plums of our Henry of Navarre. This declaration was the signal for an uproar of applause and cheers, which continued for some time. When Boutelle had concluded his speech there were calls for Creed Hammond, of California, and when he mounted the platform he was generously applauded. He said that while his heart was glad that a nomination had been reached, before he said anything about the candidate he wanted to return thanks to the ladies of Chicago for their gifts of flowers to the California delegation. There had been some question as to whether it would be wiser to nominate a soldier or a statesman. The high carnival had given to the party a candidate of the highest qualities of both. He did not think there would be much need for speech-making in this fight. The Democratic party was at last making its fight under its true colors. It had adopted the badge of slavery, the red bandanna. It was a banner which no virtuous woman loved and no brave man ever fought under. The great party of the country, which saved the country under the stars and stripes, would again march to victory under the old banner which was now flung to the breeze to meet the old bandanna.

Mr. Davis, of Minnesota, in flowery remarks on behalf of Minnesota, also seconded the motion to make the nomination unanimous. The chairman then read a dispatch he had received from Russell A. Alger, requesting him to convey his sincere thanks to the delegates who had so loyally supported him, and declaring that no State or man would give the gallant gentleman who had won the fight a heartier support than Michigan and himself. "He's all right" ended the dispatch, and the Alger men in the convention cheered loudly at the old well-known refrain. After the convention had been addressed by Wise and Mahone of Virginia, Proctor of Vermont, Lynch of Mississippi, Thurston of Nebraska, Harris of North Carolina, Williams of Arkansas and Bradley of Kentucky, all in the same strain, the chairman put the motion of Mr. Foraker, which was adopted with a shout and the chairman declared ex Senator Harrison the unanimous nominee of the convention and of the party for President.

THE VICE-PRESIDENCY. Mr. Thompson, of Indiana, thought that it was desirable for the convention to take a recess, and he therefore moved one until 5 o'clock this afternoon. The chairman stated that the motion was not seconded and directed the clerk to call the roll of States for the presentation of names of nominees for the Vice-Presidency. The clerk proceeded to call the roll amid much confusion occasioned by the frantic efforts of the chairmen of various Southern delegations to persuade the chairman that they had seconded the motion. Mr. Houk, of Tennessee, finally succeeded in getting recognition from the chair and renewed the motion, that a recess be taken until 5 o'clock. The motion was seconded by several States, but the convention by an overwhelming vote declined to adjourn and went on with the regular order, the placing in nomination of the candidates for the Vice-Presidency nomination.

Mr. Griggs, of New Jersey, presented the name of William Walter Phelps. Mr. Fuller, of North Carolina, seconded the nomination in the name of the young and progressive Republicans of North Carolina. [Applause.] 11.15.—Cries of vote and general confusion. Roll call proceeded. 1.18.—Speers, of North Carolina, rose and claimed that North Carolina had not been called. Amid great laughter the clerk called North Carolina. 1.19.—Speers, of North Carolina, seconds Morton in a highly humorous speech. Convention in convulsions of laughter. 1.20.—Moore withdrew. 1.22.—Balloting begun. 1.24.—Morton 591, Phelps 119, Bradley 103, Bruce 11, W. F. Thomas 1. 1.38.—Denny, of Kentucky, moved to make the nomination unanimous. There were several seconds. Carried. 1.27.—Boutelle, of Maine, moved to suspend the rules to add a clause to the platform. 1.28.—A point of order was made on Boutelle. Great confusion. 1.29 p. m.—Oliver, of Pennsylvania

other Harrison was in the field: "Oh, have you heard the news from Maine. How the went, hell bent, for Governor Kent and Tippecanoe and Tyler too!" [Applause and laughter.] He promised his State to the Republican party and declared that in the fore front of the battle would be found gleaming as it had in every critical fight of the Republican party the white plums of our Henry of Navarre. This declaration was the signal for an uproar of applause and cheers, which continued for some time. When Boutelle had concluded his speech there were calls for Creed Hammond, of California, and when he mounted the platform he was generously applauded. He said that while his heart was glad that a nomination had been reached, before he said anything about the candidate he wanted to return thanks to the ladies of Chicago for their gifts of flowers to the California delegation. There had been some question as to whether it would be wiser to nominate a soldier or a statesman. The high carnival had given to the party a candidate of the highest qualities of both. He did not think there would be much need for speech-making in this fight. The Democratic party was at last making its fight under its true colors. It had adopted the badge of slavery, the red bandanna. It was a banner which no virtuous woman loved and no brave man ever fought under. The great party of the country, which saved the country under the stars and stripes, would again march to victory under the old banner which was now flung to the breeze to meet the old bandanna.

Mr. Davis, of Minnesota, in flowery remarks on behalf of Minnesota, also seconded the motion to make the nomination unanimous. The chairman then read a dispatch he had received from Russell A. Alger, requesting him to convey his sincere thanks to the delegates who had so loyally supported him, and declaring that no State or man would give the gallant gentleman who had won the fight a heartier support than Michigan and himself. "He's all right" ended the dispatch, and the Alger men in the convention cheered loudly at the old well-known refrain. After the convention had been addressed by Wise and Mahone of Virginia, Proctor of Vermont, Lynch of Mississippi, Thurston of Nebraska, Harris of North Carolina, Williams of Arkansas and Bradley of Kentucky, all in the same strain, the chairman put the motion of Mr. Foraker, which was adopted with a shout and the chairman declared ex Senator Harrison the unanimous nominee of the convention and of the party for President.

THE VICE-PRESIDENCY. Mr. Thompson, of Indiana, thought that it was desirable for the convention to take a recess, and he therefore moved one until 5 o'clock this afternoon. The chairman stated that the motion was not seconded and directed the clerk to call the roll of States for the presentation of names of nominees for the Vice-Presidency. The clerk proceeded to call the roll amid much confusion occasioned by the frantic efforts of the chairmen of various Southern delegations to persuade the chairman that they had seconded the motion. Mr. Houk, of Tennessee, finally succeeded in getting recognition from the chair and renewed the motion, that a recess be taken until 5 o'clock. The motion was seconded by several States, but the convention by an overwhelming vote declined to adjourn and went on with the regular order, the placing in nomination of the candidates for the Vice-Presidency nomination.

Mr. Griggs, of New Jersey, presented the name of William Walter Phelps. Mr. Fuller, of North Carolina, seconded the nomination in the name of the young and progressive Republicans of North Carolina. [Applause.] 11.15.—Cries of vote and general confusion. Roll call proceeded. 1.18.—Speers, of North Carolina, rose and claimed that North Carolina had not been called. Amid great laughter the clerk called North Carolina. 1.19.—Speers, of North Carolina, seconds Morton in a highly humorous speech. Convention in convulsions of laughter. 1.20.—Moore withdrew. 1.22.—Balloting begun. 1.24.—Morton 591, Phelps 119, Bradley 103, Bruce 11, W. F. Thomas 1. 1.38.—Denny, of Kentucky, moved to make the nomination unanimous. There were several seconds. Carried. 1.27.—Boutelle, of Maine, moved to suspend the rules to add a clause to the platform. 1.28.—A point of order was made on Boutelle. Great confusion. 1.29 p. m.—Oliver, of Pennsylvania

other Harrison was in the field: "Oh, have you heard the news from Maine. How the went, hell bent, for Governor Kent and Tippecanoe and Tyler too!" [Applause and laughter.] He promised his State to the Republican party and declared that in the fore front of the battle would be found gleaming as it had in every critical fight of the Republican party the white plums of our Henry of Navarre. This declaration was the signal for an uproar of applause and cheers, which continued for some time. When Boutelle had concluded his speech there were calls for Creed Hammond, of California, and when he mounted the platform he was generously applauded. He said that while his heart was glad that a nomination had been reached, before he said anything about the candidate he wanted to return thanks to the ladies of Chicago for their gifts of flowers to the California delegation. There had been some question as to whether it would be wiser to nominate a soldier or a statesman. The high carnival had given to the party a candidate of the highest qualities of both. He did not think there would be much need for speech-making in this fight. The Democratic party was at last making its fight under its true colors. It had adopted the badge of slavery, the red bandanna. It was a banner which no virtuous woman loved and no brave man ever fought under. The great party of the country, which saved the country under the stars and stripes, would again march to victory under the old banner which was now flung to the breeze to meet the old bandanna.

Mr. Davis, of Minnesota, in flowery remarks on behalf of Minnesota, also seconded the motion to make the nomination unanimous. The chairman then read a dispatch he had received from Russell A. Alger, requesting him to convey his sincere thanks to the delegates who had so loyally supported him, and declaring that no State or man would give the gallant gentleman who had won the fight a heartier support than Michigan and himself. "He's all right" ended the dispatch, and the Alger men in the convention cheered loudly at the old well-known refrain. After the convention had been addressed by Wise and Mahone of Virginia, Proctor of Vermont, Lynch of Mississippi, Thurston of Nebraska, Harris of North Carolina, Williams of Arkansas and Bradley of Kentucky, all in the same strain, the chairman put the motion of Mr. Foraker, which was adopted with a shout and the chairman declared ex Senator Harrison the unanimous nominee of the convention and of the party for President.

THE VICE-PRESIDENCY. Mr. Thompson, of Indiana, thought that it was desirable for the convention to take a recess, and he therefore moved one until 5 o'clock this afternoon. The chairman stated that the motion was not seconded and directed the clerk to call the roll of States for the presentation of names of nominees for the Vice-Presidency. The clerk proceeded to call the roll amid much confusion occasioned by the frantic efforts of the chairmen of various Southern delegations to persuade the chairman that they had seconded the motion. Mr. Houk, of Tennessee, finally succeeded in getting recognition from the chair and renewed the motion, that a recess be taken until 5 o'clock. The motion was seconded by several States, but the convention by an overwhelming vote declined to adjourn and went on with the regular order, the placing in nomination of the candidates for the Vice-Presidency nomination.

Mr. Griggs, of New Jersey, presented the name of William Walter Phelps. Mr. Fuller, of North Carolina, seconded the nomination in the name of the young and progressive Republicans of North Carolina. [Applause.] 11.15.—Cries of vote and general confusion. Roll call proceeded. 1.18.—Speers, of North Carolina, rose and claimed that North Carolina had not been called. Amid great laughter the clerk called North Carolina. 1.19.—Speers, of North Carolina, seconds Morton in a highly humorous speech. Convention in convulsions of laughter. 1.20.—Moore withdrew. 1.22.—Balloting begun. 1.24.—Morton 591, Phelps 119, Bradley 103, Bruce 11, W. F. Thomas 1. 1.38.—Denny, of Kentucky, moved to make the nomination unanimous. There were several seconds. Carried. 1.27.—Boutelle, of Maine, moved to suspend the rules to add a clause to the platform. 1.28.—A point of order was made on Boutelle. Great confusion. 1.29 p. m.—Oliver, of Pennsylvania

other Harrison was in the field: "Oh, have you heard the news from Maine. How the went, hell bent, for Governor Kent and Tippecanoe and Tyler too!" [Applause and laughter.] He promised his State to the Republican party and declared that in the fore front of the battle would be found gleaming as it had in every critical fight of the Republican party the white plums of our Henry of Navarre. This declaration was the signal for an uproar of applause and cheers, which continued for some time. When Boutelle had concluded his speech there were calls for Creed Hammond, of California, and when he mounted the platform he was generously applauded. He said that while his heart was glad that a nomination had been reached, before he said anything about the candidate he wanted to return thanks to the ladies of Chicago for their gifts of flowers to the California delegation. There had been some question as to whether it would be wiser to nominate a soldier or a statesman. The high carnival had given to the party a candidate of the highest qualities of both. He did not think there would be much need for speech-making in this fight. The Democratic party was at last making its fight under its true colors. It had adopted the badge of slavery, the red bandanna. It was a banner which no virtuous woman loved and no brave man ever fought under. The great party of the country, which saved the country under the stars and stripes, would again march to victory under the old banner which was now flung to the breeze to meet the old bandanna.

Mr. Davis, of Minnesota, in flowery remarks on behalf of Minnesota, also seconded the motion to make the nomination unanimous. The chairman then read a dispatch he had received from Russell A. Alger, requesting him to convey his sincere thanks to the delegates who had so loyally supported him, and declaring that no State or man would give the gallant gentleman who had won the fight a heartier support than Michigan and himself. "He's all right" ended the dispatch, and the Alger men in the convention cheered loudly at the old well-known refrain. After the convention had been addressed by Wise and Mahone of Virginia, Proctor of Vermont, Lynch of Mississippi, Thurston of Nebraska, Harris of North Carolina, Williams of Arkansas and Bradley of Kentucky, all in the same strain, the chairman put the motion of Mr. Foraker, which was adopted with a shout and the chairman declared ex Senator Harrison the unanimous nominee of the convention and of the party for President.

THE VICE-PRESIDENCY. Mr. Thompson, of Indiana, thought that it was desirable for the convention to take a recess, and he therefore moved one until 5 o'clock this afternoon. The chairman stated that the motion was not seconded and directed the clerk to call the roll of States for the presentation of names of nominees for the Vice-Presidency. The clerk proceeded to call the roll amid much confusion occasioned by the frantic efforts of the chairmen of various Southern delegations to persuade the chairman that they had seconded the motion. Mr. Houk, of Tennessee, finally succeeded in getting recognition from the chair and renewed the motion, that a recess be taken until 5 o'clock. The motion was seconded by several States, but the convention by an overwhelming vote declined to adjourn and went on with the regular order, the placing in nomination of the candidates for the Vice-Presidency nomination.

Mr. Griggs, of New Jersey, presented the name of William Walter Phelps. Mr. Fuller, of North Carolina, seconded the nomination in the name of the young and progressive Republicans of North Carolina. [Applause.] 11.15.—Cries of vote and general confusion. Roll call proceeded. 1.18.—Speers, of North Carolina, rose and claimed that North Carolina had not been called. Amid great laughter the clerk called North Carolina. 1.19.—Speers, of North Carolina, seconds Morton in a highly humorous speech. Convention in convulsions of laughter. 1.20.—Moore withdrew. 1.22.—Balloting begun. 1.24.—Morton 591, Phelps 119, Bradley 103, Bruce 11, W. F. Thomas 1. 1.38.—Denny, of Kentucky, moved to make the nomination unanimous. There were several seconds. Carried. 1.27.—Boutelle, of Maine, moved to suspend the rules to add a clause to the platform. 1.28.—A point of order was made on Boutelle. Great confusion. 1.29 p. m.—Oliver, of Pennsylvania

other Harrison was in the field: "Oh, have you heard the news from Maine. How the went, hell bent, for Governor Kent and Tippecanoe and Tyler too!" [Applause and laughter.] He promised his State to the Republican party and declared that in the fore front of the battle would be found gleaming as it had in every critical fight of the Republican party the white plums of our Henry of Navarre. This declaration was the signal for an uproar of applause and cheers, which continued for some time. When Boutelle had concluded his speech there were calls for Creed Hammond, of California, and when he mounted the platform he was generously applauded. He said that while his heart was glad that a nomination had been reached, before he said anything about the candidate he wanted to return thanks to the ladies of Chicago for their gifts of flowers to the California delegation. There had been some question as to whether it would be wiser to nominate a soldier or a statesman. The high carnival had given to the party a candidate of the highest qualities of both. He did not think there would be much need for speech-making in this fight. The Democratic party was at last making its fight under its true colors. It had adopted the badge of slavery, the red bandanna. It was a banner which no virtuous woman loved and no brave man ever fought under. The great party of the country, which saved the country under the stars and stripes, would again march to victory under the old banner which was now flung to the breeze to meet the old bandanna.

Mr. Davis, of Minnesota, in flowery remarks on behalf of Minnesota, also seconded the motion to make the nomination unanimous. The chairman then read a dispatch he had received from Russell A. Alger, requesting him to convey his sincere thanks to the delegates who had so loyally supported him, and declaring that no State or man would give the gallant gentleman who had won the fight a heartier support than Michigan and himself. "He's all right" ended the dispatch, and the Alger men in the convention cheered loudly at the old well-known refrain. After the convention had been addressed by Wise and Mahone of Virginia, Proctor of Vermont, Lynch of Mississippi, Thurston of Nebraska, Harris of North Carolina, Williams of Arkansas and Bradley of Kentucky, all in the same strain, the chairman put the motion of Mr. Foraker, which was adopted with a shout and the chairman declared ex Senator Harrison the unanimous nominee of the convention and of the party for President.

THE VICE-PRESIDENCY. Mr. Thompson, of Indiana, thought that it was desirable for the convention to take a recess, and he therefore moved one until 5 o'clock this afternoon. The chairman stated that the motion was not seconded and directed the clerk to call the roll of States for the presentation of names of nominees for the Vice-Presidency. The clerk proceeded to call the roll amid much confusion occasioned by the frantic efforts of the chairmen of various Southern delegations to persuade the chairman that they had seconded the motion. Mr. Houk, of Tennessee, finally succeeded in getting recognition from the chair and renewed the motion, that a recess be taken until 5 o'clock. The motion was seconded by several States, but the convention by an overwhelming vote declined to adjourn and went on with the regular order, the placing in nomination of the candidates for the Vice-Presidency nomination.

Mr. Griggs, of New Jersey, presented the name of William Walter Phelps. Mr. Fuller, of North Carolina, seconded the nomination in the name of the young and progressive Republicans of North Carolina. [Applause.] 11.15.—Cries of vote and general confusion. Roll call proceeded. 1.18.—Speers, of North Carolina, rose and claimed that North Carolina had not been called. Amid great laughter the clerk called North Carolina. 1.19.—Speers, of North Carolina, seconds Morton in a highly humorous speech. Convention in convulsions of laughter. 1.20.—Moore withdrew. 1.22.—Balloting begun. 1.24.—Morton 591, Phelps 119, Bradley 103, Bruce 11, W. F. Thomas 1. 1.38.—Denny, of Kentucky, moved to make the nomination unanimous. There were several seconds. Carried. 1.27.—Boutelle, of Maine, moved to suspend the rules to add a clause to the platform. 1.28.—A point of order was made on Boutelle. Great confusion. 1.29 p. m.—Oliver, of Pennsylvania other Harrison was in the field: "Oh, have you heard the news from Maine. How the went, hell bent, for Governor Kent and Tippecanoe and Tyler too!" [Applause and