FOR ADDRESSES: G. W. SANDERLIN, of Wayne.

FOR CONGRESS: FOURTH DISTRICT: B. H. BUNN, of Nash.

Both parties agree on the amendment increasing the number of Supreme Court Judges, but all the same it is important for Democrats not only to vote for the amendment, but to vote for the Democratic nominees for Judges as well, lest it happen that the amendment be carried and Davis, Avery and Shepherd be beaten. The Radicals will be sure to vote for the amendment and their nominees for Judges.

The Democrats must take no risks in this or any other matter on election day. Take warning from the Radicals, and as they will be certain to vote for the amendment and their men, be sure that you vote for the amendment and your men—Davis, Avery and Shepherd. Don't fail to vote for your nominees.

We must prepare a rousing reception in Raleigh for Col. Waddell on Friday. The gentleman in question is one of the most valiant of the champions of Democracy.

Nichols declares himself once servidly in his address a high protectionist, and this is exactly the political specimen the people do not want to represent them in Congress. He will find it out next month.

Blaine spoke in New York Saturday on his way to Indiana, where he is to make a number of speeches in the interest of high taxes. He said nothing about the trusts. We say something for him on our first page.

Independence is party disorganization. Party organization is necessary to the maintenance of political principle. Let independence, therefore, be put down once and for all time in North Carolina.

When a Democrat proclaims himself an independent he takes the first step into the Radical camp, and he rarely if ever stops short of his new destination. This is North Carolina experience and there can be no doubt about it.

British antiquarians and zoologists are now in ecstasies over a live toad found in the course of railway excavations at Greenock. The toad, they say, is from 20,000 to 30,000 years old, as the stratum of clay in which it was found certainly dates from the glacial period. Its mouth is sealed up. It breathes slightly through the nostrils "and though the eyes are quite expressive it does not seem to see." So goes the story, and we venture to say it is hard to beat.

It appears that Senator Vance of the upper house will have to do the bulk of the work of preparing the minority report on the tariff matter. He will do it well, without doubt, and to the full satisfaction of the Democracy of the country. There are few if any of our public men now more familiar with the tariff question in any of its bearings. He has made the matter a special study and has mastered it. His views upon it are as clear as a bell and he states the Democratic position with respect to it exactly. He will prepare a minority report unanswerable and thoroughly Democratic paper.

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

We are more than glad to note that there is less of what is known as independence in the politics of the State than there has been for some years past. The fact is a good sign. It shows that the people are placing the right estimate upon those who declare themselves independent of settled political principles for the mere sake of personal advancement, that they are understanding more clearly that usual the motives of those who claim independence simply in order to present something new and so to catch the support of that fickle class which is ever seeking novelty and is thus never content with the existing status of affairs.

Principles, we all know, are enduring and changeable. The men who hold them may change, but they change never because they are founded on truth. Political principles are not unlike principles in general. In this country they are embodied in the two great parties which fight the battle for supremacy every four years and are soon again to join in a conflict that will probably settle the political complexion of the government for an indefinite period.

These parties represent the two main forces of thought and opinion as to the best form of government for the welfare of all the people. They may be compared in a general way to the centrifugal and centripetal forces of nature, since the one seeks to concentrate power at the seat of government, while the other seeks to preserve to the people of the various parts of the country, however distant they may be from the centre, their due influence in the administration of public affairs. It may be said that to view the centrifugal force as important as the centripetal, but at the same time remains that any preponderance of the former is dangerous, and it is a well known fact that the tendency has been very decidedly in the direction of such preponderance under the regime of the Republicans. It is thus in the highest degree necessary to the public welfare to continue to combat and finally to conquer the centralizing tendencies of Radicalism.

While it is true there can be but two great divisions of thought and influence, and they ally themselves with one or the other to the end that their individual views of what is best may have their due effect in the general consensus of opinion which leads to the choice of one set of principles or another as those which shall prevail in the government. Any other course is but a frittering away of the influence one is entitled to exert, and the thoughtful citizen sees it and acts accordingly.

In North Carolina independence has been simply disorganization. These Democrats who have adopted the banner have simply done what they could to disorganize the Democratic party. Party organization is important throughout the country. In this State it is vital to every real interest. The Democrat here who has wavered off after independent gods has betrayed the trust reposed in him as a citizen responsible to the extent of his own individuality for the well-being of the whole people. He has done what he could to break down the bulwark our people have reared against the common despot, and has almost invariably wound up by appearing in the ranks of the Radicals, the undoubted enemies of the State's real interests.

Two years ago independence came near handing the State over absolutely to those who would wreck it, but this year, we are glad to see, as we have said, that there is less of it than of quite awhile. We hail the fact with great satisfaction and think we see in it a determination on the part of the people who have really the State's interests at heart to stand by those interests and to vote thus to swell the majority Judge Fowle is to receive.

Great and delicate questions are to be settled this year. There is no place for independence now. When the great battles on these issues are to be fought, it is the part of wisdom for every citizen with an interest at stake other than one in possible spoils to stand squarely by the Democratic party this year, and to have a large majority see this and are prepared to vote accordingly. We believe our Democratic friends throughout the State can, by wise and prudent and organized action, put an end to the last vestige of independence, for this year, at any rate. We call upon them, in the interest of party integrity, in the interest of the State's true welfare, to exert themselves promptly to this end.

For some weeks past the London Telegraph has been publishing several columns of letters daily on the question "Is marriage a failure?" It has received 27,600 letters on the subject and many of these have been republished by American newspapers with additions of like sort from this side the Atlantic. Saturday it ended the discussion and editorially summed up as follows, according to the New York Times' London cablegrams: "The consensus of letters is overwhelmingly against our marriage. Our laws ought, we think, to forbid marriages of young men under 21 and young women under 19. Among the working classes especially this would produce an excellent effect. Then, also, it is clear to our mind that the law of divorce must be enlarged to permit dissolutions of marriage for desertion, lunacy, confirmed probrity, conviction for disgraceful crimes, as likewise for established incompatibility of temper and temperament, such as a just and prudent judge would admit to be inadequate."

Two most important points, however, in the opinion of the paper have not been touched upon. "The first is that there are 800,000 more women than men in England and the second that the devastating flood of children's deaths from people here for marrying than any other consideration." The doctrine of Malthus seems thus to prevail to a considerable extent still in "Merrie England" and to be coupled with a marked failure to agree or realize that "Blessed is the man that hath his quiver full of them."

The Asheville Citizen, it appears, has undergone a change of proprietorship, Col. Cameron becoming sole owner.

The change is rather a surprise. Mr. Furman retires from journalism and the best wishes of the press of the State will go with him. He has been a power for good to the Democracy and to Western North Carolina and a favorite always with his journalistic brethren from one end of the State to the other. Col. Cameron is one of the most accomplished journalists in the South, wielding a pen rarely if ever excelled for reason and eloquence. He is moreover, devoted to every interest of North Carolina and is as jealous of her honor as of his own. He is a true and able son of the State and will therefore continue to make his paper the faithful and forcible exponent of North Carolina sentiment and the efficient upholder of North Carolina's material interests that it has always been heretofore.

WINSTON NEWS. Cor. of the News and Observer.

WINSTON, N. C., Sept. 30.

We are having our share of political speeches here, and the kind-hearted orators seem determined that our dear people shall be enlightened on the great political topics of the day. On last Saturday afternoon, Col. James Boyd, Republican candidate for elector at large, spoke in the court house just after the adjournment of the Republican convention. The Colonel had it all to himself, and of course his points were easily made. At the conclusion of his speech he was invited to meet Col. A. M. Waddell at night in joint discussion, but he declined, of course. Col. Waddell spoke to several hundred people at night. He made the tariff the main subject of his address, and our people were most delighted with the talk. It was a plain statement, made in a dignified and polished manner. Col. Waddell brought out many new facts in connection with the tariff, and made several points that were new to his audience. He shows himself to be a gentleman of almost unbounded information, and well might Col. Boyd or any other Republican, so far as that goes, hesitate to meet him.

On last Monday, Mr. Walker, the Third party man, made his appearance, according to previous arrangement, to a handful of Third party men, a number of Democrats and Republicans and several dummies. Mr. Walker is a good talker and makes a very good temperance speech, not as good, however, as the average temperance lecturer. He tells the people nothing new or startling. He makes no points. He does not explain to his audience that he is helping the Republican party in this State as he is, whether he does it knowingly or not. Mr. Walker is seemingly an earnest man, but his speech fell flat here, and his party is no better off. This afternoon Prof. George, one of the candidates for elector on the Third party ticket, is talking to a small, cold and mixed audience, many going in and coming out through curiosity. Prof. George is in the same line as his candidate for Governor. He seems to be very much disgruntled because some one won't divide time with him. Why in the name of poor humanity, don't somebody divide time with Prof. George? He only needs one dose, or at least one dose will do a decidedly good effect. So please, somebody give him an opportunity. He's not loaded, he won't do any damage.

Mr. Pearson is having a great revival of religion here. I have never seen so much interest manifested in a religious revival. The large church where he holds his services is crowded night and morning with people eager to hear what the great evangelist has to say, and he always says something good, and something to do everyone good, too. His sermon yesterday morning to mothers was grand indeed, and the large audience were visibly affected. Yesterday Mr. Pearson preached to the children. Prof. Blair marched about 400 children from the Graded School. Mr. Pearson seemed at home on all occasions and under all circumstances, and he was at home yesterday while talking to the children. He amused them and instructed them, and the hundreds of grown people present, seemed as much delighted as the children themselves. Mr. Pearson is one of the wonderful men of this age. He is a man of great intellect. He is a man of great courage and does so a wonderful amount of good. I know of my own knowledge, that has been the means of people becoming reconciled who have been enemies for years—men who could not have been brought together seemingly by any worldly means. He has been the cause of whiskey men closing up their places of business. He has been the cause of people doing better in various directions. Such a man as Mr. Pearson can do more in a community in the one direction of stopping whiskey selling and drinking than a whole army of Third party politicians. What America wants today is more Pearsons, and if one half of the preachers of this day were Pearsons, rascality would have a poor showing. I don't mean that it would be necessary for them to have his brains, for there are plenty who are just as brainy, but they want his knowledge of the Bible, his earnestness, his simplicity and his plain matter-of-fact, common-sense way of dealing with every-day affairs. Commercial Optimums.

New York Commercial and Financial Chronicle. FRIDAY NIGHT, Sept. 28, 1888. The weather has become delightful for the season and in all respects favorable to crops and business, but the spread of yellow fever at the South proved a great obstruction to trade in some of the large States, with little prospect of its early removal, though some modifications of conditions have already occurred. A "corner" at Chicago on September contracts for wheat is one of the incidents of speculation this week.

Lard on the spot has continued dull and nominal, but closes firm at 10 5/8 for prime city, 10 3/8 for prime to choice Western, and 11c for refined to the Continent. The speculation in lard for future delivery was dull all the week, with prices unsettled and developing some irregularity. But today showed renewed buoyancy, with a fair degree of activity, stimulated by a Western speculation. Pork is higher but unsettled. There was today an excited speculation at Chicago, with a marked advance in October options, but the movement met with little response in this market, though prices are slightly dearer than last week; new mess $15 75/16 00, extra prime $15 5/16 25 and clear $17 1/16. Cut meats are unsettled; pickled bellies 92 1/16 10 1/2; shoulders 82 1/2, and hams 12 1/2 13 1/2. Beef quiet at $7 50 for extra mess and $8 50/60 for packed mess. Lard, as quoted at $16 50/18 00 for prime city, beef hams lower at $13 75/14 00 per bbl. Tallow is scarce at 5 1/2. Stearine is quoted at 12 1/2 12 3/4, and oleomargarine at 10 1/4 10 1/2. Butter is in far demand at 16 2/4 for creamery and 11 1/4 11 1/2 for Western factory. Cheese is more active and firmer at 7 1/4 7 1/2 for State factory.

Coffee on the spot has been moderately active for the regular trade, with fair Rio selling at 15 1/2; also to day 2,700 mats Java at 17 1/2, and other large transactions in many grades. Raw sugar has been about steady, but closes dull at 5 1/2 for fair refined Cuba and 6 1/2 for centrifugal, 96 deg. test. Refined sugars are dull and weak. The tea sale on Wednesday was without new feature. Rice is unsettled, as between old and new crops.

Spirits turpentine is dull, and closes easier at 41 1/4 1/2. It is a little firmer at $1 1/16 for common to good strained. The speculation in cotton for future delivery at the market has been only moderately active for the week under review, with a favorable, unsettled tone and frequent though rather narrow fluctuations in values. There was a sharp advance in the Liverpool market, notwithstanding the adoption of a "short-time" policy by a majority of the Lancashire spinners. The weather at the South has become favorable to the maturing and gathering of the crop, but the spread of the yellow fever into towns of Alabama and Mississippi threw the people of those districts into a panic, and led to such rigid local quarantine that railroad transportation was nearly suspended. The alarm applied on Wednesday to have measures turned cool and bracing, and railroad officials were encouraged to make efforts to start trains. On Thursday the market weakened a few points, the depression being caused by a slight decline in Liverpool and a further improvement in Southern advice. Today a report of frost on indications of frost at the South caused an early advance, with considerable activity in the dealings, but the advance was checked by the increasing movement of the crop at the interior to the South. Cotton on the spot has met with a good spinning demand, and shipments on consignments have continued liberal, but large receipts by coastwise steamers prevented any material reduction of stocks. On Wednesday quotations were reduced 1-16. A good deal was said of the poor quality of much of the offerings from the new crop, and being gin out, damp and sandy. Today the market was fairly active at 10 7/16 for middling uplands. The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 381,800 bales. For immediate delivery the total sales foot up this week 22,924 bales, including 11,937 for export, 10,984 for consumption, and for speculation and in transit. Of the above — bales were to arrive.

The figures indicate a decrease in the cotton in sight tonight of 674,070 bales as compared with the same date of 1887, and a decrease of 371,485 bales as compared with the corresponding date of 1886 and a decrease of 375,013 bales as compared with 1885. The totals show that the old interior stocks have increased during the week 21,999 bales and are tonight 51,778 bales less than at the same period last year. The receipts at the same towns have been 52,021 bales less than the same week last year, and since September 1 the receipts at all the towns are 200,455 bales less than for the same time in 1887.
