DEMOCRACY IN THE WEST.

THE BATTLE AT WEBSTER—A WATERLOO FOR THE REPUBLICANS—A SORROWFUL AND BITTER DISAPPOINTMENT.

Cor. of the News and Observer. WEBSTER, N. C., Oct. 15, 1888. Today was a day of disappointment to the Republican forces. Fowle when here drew his thousands, and a grand ovation—mounted horsemen and great enthusiasm—was given him.

THE BATTLE. A crowd numbering about two hundred assembled in the court house. A division of time was again asked for; the answer came that Dookery would suffer his right arm out of before he would grant it.

Devereux, whose voice and memory have both played out, opened the first fire. He made his same slanderous, untruthful, unwarrantable, inexcusable and undignified harangue. No change whatever in his wretched manner, except that he undertook to deny the Bryan letter that he wrote exonerating Judge Fowle in the special tax bond transaction, his most labored effort, if it can be called effort, being to erudite and bring disgrace upon Judge Fowle in this matter.

Just as Devereux finished a Democrat arose and made the announcement that Capt. W. H. Kitchin would speak in the warehouse in ten minutes, and that all Democrats and Republicans who were not afraid to hear a Democratic orator, were invited. The crowd began to make for the warehouse, and when order was restored, Oliver, the farmer (I had only a handful. This made "Gov. Dookery," as J. Wiley Shook, a prominent black Republican of the West calls him when he introduces My Son Oliver to his friends, and he looks at me as if I were a foreigner. Dookery began by saying some proceedings as this (meaning taking the crowd away) would cause bloodshed in his country. He then proceeded in his self same way to make his same old meaningless speech on the tariff, of which he knows nothing and on Internal Revenue of which he knows less. His remarks fell flat and without applause.

Spoke in the warehouse to a large crowd of white men, again spouting these same grandiose and hollow principles of Democracy and its leaders. He denounced Dookery and Devereux in his peculiar and emphatic style, showing up the slanderous Republican leaders and their party in a manner that but few speakers in the State can equal. He completely demolished Devereux with the Bryan letter. His sound reasoning on the questions of tariff, internal revenue, county government, etc., convinces the most skeptical. He is the subject of much comment. He is the recipient of more congratulations at the close of his speech than any public speaker I ever saw. His work in the west is telling greatly and will result in great good for the cause of Democracy. Buck Kitchin's name will long be remembered by those who have listened to his terrible yet just denunciations of the Republican party and its leaders, and for his able arguments on the political issues of the day. The west is solid. The west is aroused as it has never been before, and when the election is over and the smoke of battle cleared away, you will find the "western hills" of good old North Carolina "Democratic by a large majority."

SENATOR BARBOUR'S VIEW. HE SAYS THE DEMOCRATS ARE GOING TO CARRY NEW YORK STATE. Senator-elect John S. Barbour returned from New York Friday night, where he went to attend a meeting of a portion of the Democratic National Committee. He said, when met by a representative of the press, that the meeting of the committee had no extraordinary importance, and that it was a mistake to imagine Chairman Barnum thought anything like an emergency was at hand. "We had a little routine business to attend to," continued the Senator, "but nothing of pressing importance. I can say, however, the meeting was entirely satisfactory. Our people are feeling very cheerful, and there was a unanimous expression of confidence in Mr. Cleveland's election. From what I saw and heard, not only from members of the committee, I should say the tide is turning rapidly in favor of the Democrats. I think there has been a decided change in the last ten days."

"Do the New York Democrats have any doubt about carrying New York?" "Not a bit!" "Do you look for any bad effects from the local fight in New York city?" "No. I talked with many prominent Democrats of New York city and they say the cry that anybody is going to knife Cleveland is absurd."

CONGRESS.

PROCEEDINGS YESTERDAY IN SENATE AND HOUSE.

ADJOURNMENT TO TAKE PLACE TOMORROW—CONCURRENT RESOLUTION ADOPTED BY BOTH HOUSES—OTHER NEWS.

By Telegraph to the News and Observer. WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—SENATE.—Mr. Gray, in the absence of the two Connecticut Senators, presented and had read a memorial of 600 citizens of Connecticut—workmen, wage-earners, manufacturers and farmers, in favor of the Mills bill and for the admission of raw materials (particularly wool, salt, lumber, tin plates, etc.) free of duty. Laid on the table.

A resolution for a recess from next Saturday to the 19th of November was taken up, and Mr. Paddock moved to amend it by making the recess begin on the 27th instant and end on the 12th of November. Mr. Allison said that he had consulted the Senators on both sides of the chamber, and thought that the prevailing opinion was in favor of adjourning till the first Monday in December. He understood that the Senator from Georgia, (Mr. Brown) would offer a resolution to that effect, and if so he (Mr. Allison) would support it.

Mr. Brown thereupon offered a resolution for a final adjournment of this session at one o'clock next Saturday. He said he did not believe that the passage of the tariff bill would be facilitated by a prolongation of the session. The Democrats were successful at the coming Presidential election something like the Mills bill would be passed, and if the Republicans were successful something like the Senate bill would be passed. Popular opinion on the subject would be known after the election. Mr. Everts spoke in favor of Mr. Brown's resolution, and Mr. Paddock in favor of the amendment offered by him.

Mr. Cockrell ridiculed a remark by Mr. Paddock to the effect that he and his party desire the passage of the Senate bill. That claim, he said, was perfectly farcical. If the Republican Senators wanted to pass the bill before the election, the Democratic Senators would stay with them, but it was a farce to undertake it, and the Senator from Nebraska knew it.

Mr. Paddock said that the primary trouble about the matter was that there had not been a quorum in the House for six weeks. Mr. Cockrell—That does not make a particle of difference. The House has nothing to do with the bill now. When the Senate passes this bill, there will be a quorum of the House to act on it. It is the Republican Senate that has to do with it.

The presiding officer intimated that Mr. Cockrell was not in order, and expressed the hope that Senators would cooperate with him in maintaining order. Mr. Cockrell—We will do it. We will help you. (Laughter.) Do not (to Mr. Paddock) trouble yourself about the House. The House will take care of itself. Take care of the Senate. Here is your responsibility. After some further discussion between Senators Cockrell, Paddock and Aldrich, Mr. Allison said he would accept the amendment offered by Mr. Brown. A majority of the Democrats voted in the affirmative, while a majority of the Republicans voted no. There was no demand for a division and the chair after a longer pause than usual declared the concurrent resolution adopted.

The announcement that the Senate had passed an adjournment resolution was made to the House at 1 o'clock and was greeted with applause by a handful of members present. Mr. Teller offered a resolution instructing the committee on Indian affairs to inquire as to the truth of the report that the Secretary of the Interior has purchased a large number of wagons for Indian service that were manufactured with prison labor in the State of Tennessee. He made some remarks on the subject, intimating that the complaint was really against the late Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

insurance, depreciation of machinery, etc. To show the fallacy of such statements he read from a transcript from the books of a 50,000 spindle cotton mill in his own town (well and carefully managed) and which showed for the year 1882 a net profit of 3 per cent. He asserted that the average net of that mill for ten years had not been 5 per cent nor 4 per cent, and he knew that the average net profits in well conducted cotton mills in his own State had not averaged 5 per cent for ten years, and woolen mills were worse than cotton mills. Nearly two of the woolen mills in the United States were today idle.

Mr. Cockrell repudiated Mr. Aldrich's criticism of the tables of the Bureau of Statistics and claimed that they were perfectly correct, and said that they had been made out (under headings prepared by himself) by Mr. Keppelerstein, a Prussian employee of that bureau, who had been in the department at least since 1879, and who had no interest, directly or indirectly, in any mercantile enterprise.

At the close of the discussion the House joint resolution to pay the seasonal employees of both houses their full month's salary for October and to pay the month's salary of the regular officers and employees on the 20th of October were severally passed. The Senate then, at 6 p. m., adjourned.

THE RICHMOND EXCURSION.

VIA THE NEW LINE FROM RALEIGH, OCTOBER 23. The Richmond & Danville Railroad will run a special train from Raleigh to Richmond on Tuesday next via Durham and Oxford, leaving Raleigh between 7 and 8 o'clock a. m. Plenty of room for everybody. Fare for the round trip $4.25, tickets good for three days besides the day of sale, and good to return on any regular train. The rate from Durham is $4.25, and from Henderson $3.25, which includes one admission to the Exposition. We venture to say there will be a large number of Carolinians in Richmond next week that have been since "Lee's surrender."

The R. & D. Railroad has arranged to run special trains to Richmond, Va., October 23d, from Charlotte, leaving there 5 15 a. m., Salisbury, 7 08 a. m., Greensboro, 9 a. m., connecting at Greensboro with regular train No. 52, leaving Raleigh, 1.45 at night to enable all parties to attend the Great Exposition at that point. Tickets for round trip will be sold at the following extraordinary low rates for the round trip, which include one admission to the Exposition. From Charlotte, 6 05; from Salisbury, 6 05; from Greensboro, 4 05; from Raleigh, 4 25; with correspondingly low rates from intermediate stations.

Tickets will admit of two days stay in Richmond, and good to return on regular train. The tremendous crowd intending to avail themselves of this Special Excursion will make the 24th, and 25th, the big days of this Exposition for our people.

Another overwhelming house greeted Madam Janauschek's visit to the Madam Mary Stuart. It is certain that no theatrical attraction which has ever appeared in Raleigh has ever drawn such a crowd, or has ever proved so popular with a Raleigh audience. The theatre-going public of Raleigh is probably the most discriminating and appreciative in the State and there can be no more significant comment upon the merit of the great actress than that Raleigh has for two nights turned out en masse to do her honor and will do it again tonight, for already seats have begun to be taken for tonight's performance and the indications are that there will be the largest crowd yet.

The presentation of Mary Stuart last night showed to fine advantage the real genius of the great actress. In several parts of the play her presentations were grand and certainly could not be surpassed by any living actress. "Meg Merrilies" tonight will be the greatest attraction of the whole list. Those who wish seats should apply early at John Y. MacRae's drugstore. In reply to a question we say that President Cleveland has appointed only two negroes to office, one, Trotter, to succeed Fred. Douglass as Recorder of Deeds of the District of Columbia, and the other the Minister to Liberia.

AT BURGAW.

JUDGE FOWLE MAKES A TELLING SPEECH.

A LARGE AND ENTHUSIASTIC CROWD—FENDER WILL REDEEM HERSELF AT THE ELECTION.

BURGAW, N. C., Oct. 18.—There was a large and enthusiastic crowd here today. Judge Fowle made a telling speech. In fact exalted himself. Fender will redeem herself at the election. Women Crusaders in Dakota. By telegraph to the News and Observer. GRAND FORKS, Dak., Oct. 18.—A number of ladies were brought here from Thompson, a neighboring village, yesterday morning, charged with riot for having raided saloons there as crusaders. Their trial occupied the entire day and was highly contested, the local W. C. T. U. espousing their cause. The justice finally ruled that the offense had been committed and held them in $200 bonds which were readily furnished.

BEAUTY.

Various Types and Codes of Female Loveliness. Various, indeed, are the opinions held by a wide diversity of races regarding their beauties, though it is often difficult for people bred under another sky to share their enthusiasm. The Circassian women, says the London Standard, who have a sort of conventional reputation for loveliness, are affirmed by those who know them best to be far from worthy of their celebrity. Short legs, glaring red hair, faces so long and narrow that their heads seem to have been squeezed between two boards, and flattened, in order of proportion to the rest of the features, and complexions of a dull, lead-like hue, scarcely constitute beauty according to our standard. The Moors and the Tanisian Jews regard corpulence as absolutely essential to beauty, and the inmates of rich men's harems are stuffed with nutritious food, like Sirasaboo, geseel, the market. The Chinese poets sing of deformed feet as "golden lilies," and the rocking of their women in attempting to walk as the "waving of the willow."

Other races have equally odd ideas as to what constitutes loveliness, for they "improve" their persons by fattening their foreheads, tattooing their skins, cutting off their fingers, filing their teeth or dyeing them black, blue, or corallan, painting their bodies, slitting their ears, compressing their waists, putting stones, bone, or metal through their lips, cheeks or ears, and in a dozen other ways trying to enhance the poor primitive work of nature. A Falashah dyes her hands and feet with henna, stains her teeth alternately blue, yellow, and purple, one here and there being left of its natural color, pencils her eyelids with sulphur of antimony, and dyes her plucks with indigo. The Hydah woman inserts a plug of wood or ivory through her lower lip until it represents the hideous appearance of a baby's thumb over her chin. A Chinese or a Siamese lady carries long nails. A Hotontott belle cannot get her nose fat enough, or a Persian beauty here high enough. On the northwest coast of America no reproach is more bitter than for one Indian girl to tell another that "your mother was too lazy to fatten your head." Tattooing is almost universal among half-civilized or savage races; in New Zealand Maori women, before they began to imitate European prejudices, ran tattooed their lips, lest they should have the reproach of being red. Some races slit their ears until they hang in loops on their shoulders. Others insert huge rings and other ornaments through the cartilage of their noses. The Louisiana Islanders regard the lid of a sardine box as a peculiarly neat piece of jewelry; and even European women have not yet ceased to suspend bits of stone or metal through the lobes of their ears. There is, in truth, no possibility of arriving at any standard of beauty, the "points" of which would not do injustice to some of the competitors. Even among the whites there are various ideas of what constitutes good looks. Like manners and morals, beauty is very much a matter of sky. Just as an Indian told a traveller what a comfort his son was to him, because he could steal more horses than any boy of his age, so a western frontiersman assured a visitor that his daughter was the "finest girl" in the settlement, for she could "heft a barrel of pork, and lick her weight in wild-cats."

STRAWBERRY ILLUSTRATIONS.

Sanford Express. "There goes an old woman to milk the cows of a frosty morning in October. She draws her old red woolen shawl around her shivering and decrepit shoulders. That threadbare shawl of that poor old woman is taxed by the Republican party 88 per cent."

Another scene. Mr. Alfred Carnegie gives a champagne supper to his chums at the Hoffman House, New York. This sparkling, effervescent luxury is brought in elegant out-glass. While these nabobs revel in champagne taxed 60 per cent., on the opposite side of the street a half-starved miner of one of Mr. Carnegie's iron mines enters a beer saloon. On his glass of beer he pays 68 per cent tax.

A poor young man takes unto himself a wife and erects in yonder old field a cabin, with an only window through which the sunlight may enter. On the 8x10 glass in the one window of the dark cabin he pays a tax of 98 per cent. Yonder stands a palatial residence on Walnut street, Philadelphia. The entire front is studded with the finest plate glass. On that glass the millionaire owner pays a tax of only 21 per cent.

VANORAT-STRONACH'S WAREHOUSE TONIGHT.

How to Prove That the Earth Turns. How Journal. It has puzzled the heads of a good many youngsters to know how the earth turns round. A German educational journal published in Frankfurt gives the following directions for proving that the earth "does move": "Take a good sized bowl, fill it nearly full of water, and place it upon the floor of a room which is not exposed to shaking or jarring from the street. Sprinkle over the surface of the water a coating ofycopodium powder—a white substance which is sometimes used for the purposes of the toilet, and which can be obtained at almost any apothecary's. Then upon the surface of this coating of powder make, with powdered charcoal, a straight black line, say an inch or two in length. Having made this little black mark with the charcoal powder on the surface of the contents of the bowl, lay down upon the floor, close to the bowl, a stick or some other straight object, so that it will be exactly parallel with the mark. If the line happens to be parallel with a crack in the floor, or with any stationary object in the room, this will serve as well.

"Leave the bowl undisturbed for a few hours, and then observe the position of the black mark with reference to the object that it was parallel with. It will be found to have moved about, and to have moved from east to west—that is to say, in the direction opposite to that of the movement of the earth on its axis. The earth is simply revolving has carried the water and everything else in the bowl around with it, but the powder on the surface has been left behind a little. The line will always be found to have moved from east to west, which is perfectly good proof that everything else has moved the other way."

HORRIBLE DEEDS.

A Scotch President For the White Chapel Fall Mail Gazette. In the reign of James I of Scotland there was born in East Lothia, a village a few miles from Edinburgh, Sawney Beane, the son of poor, but hard-working people. Evincing from boyhood a hatred of all labor, and displaying every kind of vicious quality, he at an early age abandoned his home and fled to Galloway. He was accompanied by a fit companion for his crimes in the person of a young woman, a native of the same village. The home of this pair was in a cave of about a mile in length and of considerable breadth, the mouth of which was washed by the sea, the tide sometimes penetrating the cave a distance of two hundred yards. The victims were waylaid under cover of night on their way home from country work, or in the case of isolated travelers across the country, were openly attacked in daylight. The same soul-enslaving mutilation was inflicted in each case. To prevent detection they murdered every traveler they robbed, and for years they continued their horrible career. In this manner, the chronicler tells us, they lived until they had eight sons and six daughters, eighteen grandsons and fourteen granddaughters—all the offspring of incest. After a long career of murder the gang was captured by King James, who, roused to action by the long immunity of the criminals from detection, headed by a body of troops and succeeded with blood-hounds in unearthing from the cave the whole vile tribe, to whom was meted out a death agreeable with the life they had led. The men, says the historian, had their hands and legs severed from their bodies and they were permitted to bleed to death. The women of the gang, the daughters and granddaughters, being spectators of the death of the men, were cast into three separate fires and consumed to ashes.

We assert without fear of contradiction that no man of merit ever came to Raleigh and engaged in any enterprise without meeting with even more than anticipated success. We are led to the above assertion by a conversation which we had a few days ago with Messrs. Drewry & Drewry, the State agents of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company. These gentlemen are also agents for this company in the State of Tennessee, where they have built up a large and prosperous business, and although but recently appointed agents for this State they commenced work with an energy that guaranteed success, and as a result their business is rapidly increasing. Their company writes a very liberal policy which never fails to attract the attention of the insuring public. They guarantee a cash surrender at any time after the second year and should the assured fail to pay his premium, his insurance is extended, or the company will lend him money on his policy at 6 per cent interest. Call on Messrs. Drewry & Drewry before you insure and examine their company.
