AWFUL

A TERRIBLE DISASTER AT SEA.

Two ships collide and both go down - with most of those on board - one of the ships a Cunarder - other news.

London, Nov. 13. - Considerable wreckage and a number of bodies have washed ashore between Looe and Polperro, in Cornwall, during the last day or two.

One of the bodies has been identified as that of Captain Meyer, of the German ship Theodore Ruger, from Hamburg for Sydney.

The articles that have come ashore have also been recognized as belonging to both that vessel and to the Cunard steamer Nantes, with which the Theodore Ruger was in collision thirty-six miles off the Lizard.

There is now no doubt of the total loss of both vessels, with most of the crew of the Nantes and part of the ship's crew.

The survivors, who landed at Trouville, include the captain of the Theodore Ruger and two of the Nantes' crew.

It is believed all the others went down with their vessel.

Another survivor from the Cunard line steamer Nantes, before reported sunk in the English channel by colliding with the German ship Theodore Ruger, has landed at Liverpool, and reports that twenty-three of the crew of the Nantes were drowned.

A Pullman Car Burned.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 13. - While crossing the mountains coming east this morning the Pullman sleeper "Aragon," of New York express train No. 9, on the Pennsylvania road, caught fire, and before the flames could be subdued one half of the car was consumed, together with the clothing of a number of passengers.

The fire was discovered about 4 o'clock, when the train was nearing Connelville. The passengers were quickly awakened and, half-clad, they rushed panic-stricken from the car to the adjoining cars.

The porter, however, with the assistance of a fire-extinguisher and several cool-headed passengers, soon had the flames under control.

There were twenty passengers on the car, but fortunately no one was injured. The passengers who had lost portions of their clothing presented a demoralized appearance when they arrived in this city this morning.

It is supposed that the fire caught from the stove. Loss not known.

SEIZED IN MEXICO.

A captain of U. S. Troops and some members of his command.

Cmc oo, Nov 13 - A dispatch from El Paso, Texas, says: Capt. T. H. Logan, commanding the United States troops at Fort Hancock, on the Rio Grande, some seventy miles below El Paso, has been forcibly reëntered that Mexico will not permit her territory to be invaded by troops of foreign countries.

He thought there was good hunting on the Mexican side of the river and took with him Sunday some members of his command, all good hunters, and one civilian, L. W. Evans. They were armed with rifles and shot guns.

After enjoying some fine sport they came across a force of Mexican frontier guards who took them into custody as soldiers of a foreign power found at Mexico territory under arms.

Civilian Evans was released. The Captain with his soldiers is still in custody.

Destitute Fire.

New York, Nov. 13. - There was a destructive fire this a. m. at Watson's stores, extending from 150 to 166, Furman street, which are about midway between the Fulton and Wall street ferries, Brooklyn.

The property is owned by Col. Watson and leased to the Fulton Grain Milling Company, who had 350,000 bushels of wheat and corn in the store.

Thousands of bushels of wheat, corn and oats flowed down from the different stories and covered up half of the streets.

The fire was prevented from spreading to Harbeck's and Roberts' stores adjoining. The cause of the fire is not known, but it originated somewhere about the engine room. The loss on grain is about $400,000, and on machinery $25,000.

The loss on the building is about $100,000, making a total of $550,000. There is an insurance of $150,000 on the building and machinery, and it is said the grain is mostly insured.

The Fascination of Crime.

New York Tribune.

One of the judges of the Court of Appeals was speaking to me the other day about Bedell, the forger. "There is a fascination of crime," he said, "and I know it not only upon the testimony of criminals, but I have felt myself, and have heard many other men say they had felt, a certain form of the criminal tendency. It is the fascination of being hunted to which I refer. When I have had these poor devils up before me for trial, I have often wondered what I should do had I committed the crime of which they were guilty - murder, for instance. It is easy to think of a situation in which the temptation to commit murder without what the law considers justification would be too strong for many excellent men to resist. The sufferer sees no adequate remedy in an appeal to the courts. The life of the offender is the only price that will satisfy his aroused sentiment, and before he realizes what he has done he is a murderer and a hunted man."

Mr. Cleveland May Enter Congress.

Washington Special to New York Sun.

A man who knows Mr. Cleveland rather well says: "It is my belief, from what I know of the man, that he will re-enter public life as a member of Congress. He is in the prime of life, and a tremendous worker by temperament. He is a fair lawyer, but has never had the standing at the bar to make a return to practice either profitable or very agreeable to him. He is at heart thoroughly democratic, and has no tendency to think himself removed from the people because he has been President. See if he isn't in the House of Representatives within five years."

UNCLE SAM'S MONEY.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED DOLLARS OF IT STOLEN.

While being transported from the mint at New Orleans to the Treasury at Washington.

By Telegraph to the News and Observer.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 13. - Some crooked business has been discovered in connection with the transfer of silver dollars from the mint at New Orleans to Washington for storage in the court yard of the Treasury building, which has resulted in the loss of $1,500.

The loss was discovered last week but did not become known outside of the department until today. Treasury officials refuse to speak of the matter and very little is known as to the facts already stated. The silver was being shipped in Adams Express Company and the loss will probably fall upon it unless it can be proved that the packages containing the money were tampered with before they came into its possession.

The money was shipped in wooden boxes containing two canvas bags with $1,000 in each bag. The boxes are carefully sealed before they leave the mint for delivery to the express company, and are carefully guarded while en route to their delivery at the Treasury Department.

They are therefore under surveillance from the time they leave the mint until they are delivered to the agents of the United States Treasury. From one box an entire sack of dollars had been abstracted and sacks of No. 4 and No. 6 shot substituted to give it weight.

From another box half of the contents of one sack had been taken and pieces of lead substituted. The broken seals on the boxes were patched up with the impression of a silver quarter.

The Yellow Fever.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 13. - The Board of Health today reports seven new cases of yellow fever, only one white. There were two deaths - R. Edmondson, a colored boy, and A. Venanzo, an Italian, at St. Luke's Hospital.

Total cases to date, 4,518; total deaths, 309.

The situation is regarded as very hopefully by the leading physicians here. The weather is mild and showery.

A steamer of the Clyde line from New York, due at Mayport today, has a full passenger list, and many returning Jacksonville refugees. There is a rumor that they will attempt to come up to the city. Every precaution has been taken to exclude them.

The morning session lasted until half past twelve and was lively, but the work was all completed when recess for dinner was taken.

The Virginia Election.

By Telegraph to the News and Observer.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 13. - Official returns from 45 cities and towns in the State out of 112 give Cleveland a majority of 3,363. Those to come will probably reduce these figures at least a thousand.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 13. - An order in council has been passed increasing the export duty on pine logs from two dollars to three dollars per thousand feet, broad measure.

A Duke as a Green Grocer.

From the London Truth.

The Duke of Norfolk appears to have become a greengrocer, for I hear that he is now selling his fruit, vegetables and flowers at current market rates, either wholesale or retail.

Visitors to Arundel Castle gardens may purchase anything they fancy, and huge hampers of produce and baskets of cut flowers are dispatched several times a week to Brighton and Portsmouth. Under the circumstances, it seems decidedly unfair, while the Duke is driving a roaring trade, that his glass houses should be rated merely as pleasure grounds, whereas professed nurserymen have to pay a much higher rate.

The Duke has the ordinary tradesman without being favored in the matter of rates.

The Great Lick Observatory on Mount Hamilton, in California, is beginning to yield substantial results in astronomical science.

Prof. Holden took every night during August a series of photographic views with a large photographic lens of the notably resplendent moon. These are more than five inches in diameter, and show all the elevations and depressions with startling minuteness.

This is the first time that a series of views of the moon have been taken in this manner, as it is not in every location that perfect views of the planet can be obtained for thirty consecutive nights.

Prof. Holden proposes to make a special study of the moon, taking up next various sections of the moon's surface, noticing carefully any indications of changes that may have occurred since the same sections were examined by other astronomers.

The results of all these close sectional studies will be noted on carefully prepared maps, which will be of great value to students. If Dr. Bond, president of the University of Southern California, is successful in his efforts to secure a Lick with a 42 inch lens - the Lick is 34 - the whole world will look to California for astronomical discoveries, as that State will then have the two largest telescopes ever constructed.

MOREHEAD CITY.

And Its Claims as a Winter Sanatorium.

By Telegraph to the News and Observer.

MOREHEAD CITY, N. C., Nov. 12, '88. "Yes, go and see Naples and die, but come to Morehead City to sleep and to live."

If there be a place on earth where daily existence is a delicious languor, that highly favored spot is this City by the Sea. These words were no doubt sincerely spoken and be or she who uttered them has unquestionably struck the keynote.

The writer of this is not accustomed to Southern waters during the summer season, but you may bet that when the cold, chilly winds of our Northern clime begin to blow you will always find me heading towards your sunny Southland.

I do not care to go further than the vicinity of Morehead, for here I find a delightful climate the entire winter, game abundance and of every kind, and here I will say that the packing in season is as fine as that in Connecticut. Core and Bogue Sounds are always full of them in season and this fact accounts for the American sportsman who every winter come down from the north and inhabit this region.

A New York club, composed of well-known gentlemen, has recently erected a large club-house of its own on Harbor Island, above Morehead and Beaufort, where they will go in for the gaming season. This club-house, I am told, has been provided with everything necessary to comfort. On the third floor there are elegant billiard tables, &c., for the members when the weather is too bad for gunning. That this section of country will attract many visitors from our northern section cannot be denied. It has many advantages over other places which I have visited. Its climate, if nothing more, will attract. I have spent several winters at Beaufort and I know whereof I speak. As a place for invalids I should think it unsurpassed.

The invalids of the North seek the pine forests of the South. Here they are not only surrounded by dense pine forests, but get the benefit of pure sea air as well. North and west of the village are a dense pine forest and Bogue Banks. To the southwest the country is covered with hemlock and cedar.

The town of Morehead is peculiarly situated, being on a narrow, sandy peninsula that dries immediately after a rainfall, for so quick is the absorption that in fifteen or twenty minutes one could scarcely tell that rain had fallen at all. Another thing that commends Morehead is its proximity to the Gulf Stream. Situated within thirty miles of the hundred fathom line, the air is delightfully tempered by the famous warm "river in the ocean," and there are no sudden changes from heat to extreme cold, or what are commonly known as "northerns." The mean annual temperature, I am told, is identical with that of the city of Rome in Italy, i. e. 61 degrees.

I find at Morehead one of the largest resort hotels I have seen anywhere, and I was surprised to learn upon inquiry that it would not be kept open during the winter.

The lessees as well as the owners of this large hotel are losing a golden opportunity, for I know my Northern friends will not go to Florida this season. Many of them could, no doubt, be stopped here.

I must congratulate you, Mr. Editor, upon your victory in the State, and can only join you in expressions of disappointment at the defeat of America's most courageous man, Grover Cleveland.

NORTHERNER.

A Duel by Moonlight.

Paris Letter.

News of a determined duel by moonlight comes from balmy Biarritz. It was fought by two young Spaniards of high family, who quarreled on a very trivial pretext at a soiree given by the Baron de Bee.

The combatants chose pistols, and as the moon did not sufficiently illuminate the scene, candles and torches were placed in a sequestered part of the Baron's horticultural premises. Positions were taken up at twenty paces, and hardly had the word of command been given when one of the combatants fell shrieking to the ground.

He had been shot through the right shoulder, the blade of which was fractured. The bullet was extracted by a surgeon after a little difficulty, and the wounded duelist was taken home, where he now lies and is in fair way to recovery. He is the son of a Spanish general. The seconds of the defeated combatant were Prince Oldenburg, a relative of the Czar, and Don Alfonso de Aldama, a young Carlist officer, while the victor was attended on the ground by Comte de Lesser and the Duke of Tamames, a grandee of Spain of the first class, husband of one of the daughters of the Duke of Alba, and a nephew by marriage of the Empress Eugenie.

The pretext of the quarrel is described as futile, but it is possible that a dark-eyed senora was at the bottom of it all.

The Fever at Gainesville.

By Telegraph to the News and Observer.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 13. - Surgeon Martin reports three new cases of yellow fever and one death. J. H. Davis, of Kentucky.

Thomas Axworthy, the defaulting city treasurer of Cleveland, Ohio, has written from Montreal, Canada, to the mayor of Cleveland, saying that his departure was due to sudden financial embarrassment caused by losses on call loans in the East, and giving a schedule of assets which estimates at $3,970, sufficient to make good his shortage to the city. Bankers say the assets are worthless or of trifling value. The mayor went to Montreal, but failed to see Axworthy. He will go again. Axworthy says he will be an exile for life.

BURNED TO DEATH

IN A HOTEL DESTROYED BY FIRE.

A young woman and two men - the former a chambermaid - the latter two guests - other news.

By Telegraph to the News and Observer.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 13. - Three bodies were recovered this morning from the ruins of Bryan's European Hotel, which was destroyed by fire last night. They have been identified as E. Jones, a chambermaid, Jack White, of Atlanta, Ga., and Thomas Moore, of Bloomington, Ill.

The latter two were guests. The young woman who was burned was caught by falling timber near the centre of the building. White had escaped once and went back to recover his valise, but was caught on the stairway and slowly roasted to death. His charred hands were filled with hair which he tore from his head in the agonies of his frightful death. Moore's body was charred to a crisp. Search is in progress for other bodies, but it is thought no more will be found.

THE SUN'S ECLIPSE.

AN EXPEDITION TO WITNESS IT.

Baltimore Sun.

An interesting astronomical expedition is being fitted out at Harvard College for a two-fold purpose. The first in order of time will be an expedition to California for observation of the total eclipse of the sun on January 1, 1889.

Immediately after the eclipse one of the corps of observers will proceed to Peru, taking with him a part of the apparatus. He will be joined later by others and the work will consist of observations upon which has been a year or more in contemplation, of making a complete survey of the Southern heavens.

The solar total eclipse invites a renewed attempt to solve various problems concerning the sun's corona by means of photography, and
