THE SITUATION OF DURHAM.

YESTERDAY evening we met Hon. T. C. Fuller of this city just after he had returned to Raleigh from Durham. He had been in Durham since Thursday evening had talked with all its leading business men and was as thoroughly familiar with the situation of affairs in our sister city as any man in North Carolina or elsewhere.

Capt. Parrish, for example, acting for the trustees, is going right on with his business as before and as if nothing had happened. He has 650,000 pounds of tobacco—and tobacco of good quality—on hand. He was carrying that tobacco, Col. Blackwell was carrying him and it was because the currency couldn't be had to meet the notes representing it that the crash came.

Col. Blackwell says he has just as much pluck and determination to win now as he had when he first set out to make his fortune. He says not many months will come and go before he will have a bigger bank in Durham than ever.

Mr. Carr was endorser on Blackwell's paper for $50,000. He was an endorser to an inconsiderable amount on other papers. He is amply secured on all of it. Mr. Sumner H. Austin, a full partner of the great house of McDowell & Co., Mr. Carr's connections in Philadelphia, telegraphed Mr. Carr as soon as he heard of the trouble to "keep the flag flying; he was on the way," and, sure enough, he arrived as soon as it was possible for him to do so.

Mr. Carr says all he has or can command shall go to maintain the credit of Durham. It is probable that no considerable portion of the property involved in the difficulty will be sold and none of it will be sacrificed. The spirit of the people is most admirable. Their self-reliance and confidence are remarkable. There is evidently no such thing among them as being "downed." All the banks other than the one which assigned are as sound as a dollar, are strongly sustained themselves and will sustain Durham to the utmost.

It is clear that while our sister town has been visited with a crash it has by no means been "downed" in any sense of the word. It is already well on the road to recovery and will before long be itself again and more.

An unusually attractive list of theatricals is on the bill for next month. On the 4th and 5th Hamilton's Church Choir Opera company, said to be one of the finest operatic troupes traveling, will appear in Metropolitan Hall.

Lavinia Shannon, the renowned society favorite, will appear on the 12th as Lady Audley, in the Mystery of Audley Court.

On the 19th, Florence Arnold will present a pleasing little comedy drama entitled "Her Husband." Estelle Clayton has written for dates and will probably some time during December present "Amelie Rives" "Quick or the Dead" which has been dramatized.

Durham. Durham will be able to pay "100 cents in every $1.00." The crash came and a temporary suspension of the business of certain parties was caused. But it will be only a few days before everything will be running like greased lightning.

NOT YELLOW FEVER.

A WOMAN DIES IN NEW YORK YESTERDAY

WITH SYMPTOMS OF YELLOW FEVER—IT TURNS OUT NOT TO BE THE DREAD DISEASE.

By Telegraph to the News and Observer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—A young woman who was taken to Bellevue Hospital last night with symptoms of yellow fever, died in that institution this morning.

The autopsy showed that the woman died from acute gastritis and not from yellow fever.

HIGH POINT.

By Telegraph to the News and Observer.

HIGH POINT, N. C., Nov. 17.—The last of the series of the Eastern Field Trials members' stake was run today. The day was clear and a little cold. Result. Brandon beat Dashing Noble. He took all the registered matter. He is thought to be the same man that robbed two stages near here last week.

A LONE HIGHWAYMAN

By Telegraph to the News and Observer.

SAN LUIS, Cal., Nov. 17.—A stage near here was stopped yesterday by a lone highwayman who went through four passengers and cleaned up about $50. He took all the registered matter. He is thought to be the same man that robbed two stages near here last week.

Many visitors are expected.

WINTER IN MICHIGAN.

By Telegraph to the News and Observer.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—A dispatch from Muskegon, Michigan, says: The worst storm of the season prevailed here last night. No vessels ventured out. Several have already gone into winter quarters here and the mills are preparing to shut down in a few days. Active preparations are being made for the season in the woods. The indications now are that the coming season's output of logs will fall somewhat short of that of last year.

A DISTINGUISHED VISITOR.—Hon. Adlai Stevenson, Assistant Postmaster General of the United States, reached the city yesterday morning from Washington, and was taken by Capt. John B. Hussey to the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley railway, where, after the officials of the road and other gentlemen were presented to him, he was escorted to the president's elegant private car and was conveyed to Fayetteville to deliver the annual oration before the Cumberland County Agricultural Society on the occasion of its fair.—Greensboro Patriot, 16th.

Two buxom country lasses, near Atlanta, Ga., are attracting a good deal of attention. They work in the fields and help their old father, dressed meanwhile in peculiar and striking costume. This consists of a blouse, the back end of which answers for coat-tails, and jean pantaloons, whose fit a dude might envy.

Two young Germans in Berlin fought a duel with tricycles. Starting at 300 yards apart they charged full tilt against each other, with slight injury to themselves and serious hurt to their machines. Their honor was satisfied.

SOUTHERN IMMIGRATION CONVENTION

OF THE SOUTHERN STATES AT MONTGOMERY, ALA., DECEMBER 12—THE DELICATE.

We publish below a list of the delegates from North Carolina to the Southern Inter-State Convention to be held at Montgomery, Ala., Wednesday, December 12th. The Governors, Commissioners of Immigration, various authorities and railway passenger departments of the several States and Territories are taking active and speedy steps in the appointment of delegates, matters of transportation and the formulation of plans and work for the convention. The united action and hearty indorsement of the movement by the various Governors and State officials insures the meeting of the largest and most influential convention ever held in the South. It is no local movement, but one through which, by combined effort and concentration, plans will be devised, funds provided, rates made and an Inter-State Bureau organized through which the resources of the South will be heralded to the world and its influence felt throughout civilization.

Delegates from each senatorial district—E F Lamb, Elizabeth City; Gen W P Roberts, Raleigh; J H Small, M Makeley, Washington; Frank Winston, Windsor; T L Emery, Weldon; Elias Carr, Old Sparta; Arthur Arrington, Louisburg; William Beale, Murphys; Dr D W C Benbow, Greensboro; Geo Allen, New Bern; Joseph Daniels, Eugene Harrell, Raleigh; J T LeGrand, Rockingham; Prof H T J Ludwick, Mt Pleasant; James H Pace, Smithfield; E W Kerr, Clinton; W H Hearne, Albemarle; Col Frank Cox, Asheville; Col W S Burgwyn, Henderson; H A London, Pittsboro; Dr D R Parker, Trinity College; C C Wade, Troy; D S Saylor, Wadesboro; W J Boyler, Wadesboro; Gen Rufus Barringer, Charlotte; H C Eccles, Charlotte; Theo F Klutts, Salisbury; T B Eldridge, Lexington; A H Chadwick, Beaufort; Dr B F Long, Statesville; Col Harry Skinner, Greenville; A S Hazard, Haliifax; Thomas Mass, Jackson; Dr Thomas, Thomasville; H E Fries, Salem; Fred C Ford, Mt Airy; Col Julian Allen, Statesville; W M Morris, Blowing Rock; C J Cowles, Wilkesboro; Col J W Todd, Jefferson; Col G F Harper, Lenoir; S T Pearson, Morganton; J G Hall, Hickory; President D. Miscellaneous Notes. Tomorrow, at their special dress goods sale, Messrs. Norris & Carter will exhibit some exceptionally attractive goods. They have just opened a grand line of Henriettas, broadcloths, faille silks, plushes, etc. They will also make this a special week for the sale of wraps, underwear, hosiery, gloves, flannels and carpets. They have just added to their carpet stock some beautiful designs in oak colors.

Messrs. W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co. call attention to their shoes and particularly to their lines of ladies', misses' and children's shoes. They are selling at "job" prices to close out. These are marked in plain figures and are placed on job tables in their shoe department. These will interest everybody.

Attention is called to the tax notice elsewhere of the sheriff of Wake county. See the advertisement elsewhere of the famous panorama pictures of Arthur L. Butt, which will be exhibited here Wednesday night, November 21st.

Mr. E. J. Hardin's advertisement and locals today read as if the holiday season was upon us. He is a man who never writes an advertisement unless he has something to say; and he knows how to say it. Maj. Petty wishes to exchange a large fire-proof iron safe for a smaller one. See his ad.

Messrs. James McKimmon & Co., our popular druggists, have opened a full stock of pocket-books, card cases, purses and other holiday supplies. See their new advertisement. We are favored with a copy of Branson's North Carolina Almanac for 1889, just out. It is up to date, with a correct list of all the State officers, institutions, &c., for the year 1889, and the new legislation, courts, &c. The calculations are guaranteed to be correct; and its weather predictions, we dare say, are just as accurate as science can make them. The title page is very neat and attractive, the leading feature being the coat-of-arms of the State as becomes the North Carolina Almanac. Price ten cents.

The Rev. W. G. Clements, who has served the Christian church in this city as pastor during the last twelve months, has been called to another field and has accepted the call. Rev. J. L. Foster of Alamance county, N. C., has been called to succeed Mr. Clements in this city and has accepted. He will enter upon his duties the first Sunday in December. He is a young man of ability and vim—a good preacher and a good worker. We regret to lose Mr. Clements but welcome Mr. Foster.

Assignment. LYNCHBURG, Va., Nov. 17.—The wholesale grocery firm of Bigbee & Thaxton assigned yesterday. Liabilities $12,000; assets about $5,000. Price ten cents.

Pharaoh's Dream.

Sir Samuel Baker, the distinguished African explorer, and other authorities on the Dark Continent, have recently started the British public by a theory which, if proved to be true, means literal starvation to several millions of people and political results of importance to all the Mediterranean Powers.

The Nile this year has been uncommonly low, and has now sunk so far beneath its ordinary winter level that much of the usual and necessary irrigation has become impossible. Estimates telegraphed from Egypt place the present loss to Egyptian revenues from this cause at over a million dollars, and hint at immense damage unless there is a timely rise in the river.

On top of this news comes Sir Samuel Baker with a warning, printed in as large type as the London Times ever permits, that the present low Nile is not due to a dry season in the interior of Africa, but, on the contrary, comes from a deflection of the Nile, caused by the Mahdi or some of his white captives, and the results of which will be an indefinite continuance of that decrease in the Nile stream, which has already begun to cause so much anxiety and misery among the Egyptian peasants. Sir Samuel Baker uses strong language for a man of his reputation. For instance, he writes:

"I have seen a spot where the river might be deflected without difficulty and forced to an eastern course toward the Red Sea. This would be an engineering work well within native capability. I can positively state the plan is feasible. I do not assert the actual cause of the present low Nile is a deflection of the river, but I think it highly probable and distinctly possible."

The fact seems to be that the Atbara river is an indispensable tributary of the Nile. Without the Atbara floods and the slime carried by these floods the Nile would lose almost all of those qualities which have enabled it to create and support Egypt. It is conceded that the Atbara river flows dangerously near and much above the vast depressed Red Sea desert, and that once engulfed in this desert no portion of its waters could reach Egypt. Baker alone has thoroughly explored this region, and he states that nothing except a narrow table land only a few feet above river flood level holds back the river. Others claim that a low range of hills keep back the river at this dangerous point and turn it toward Egypt.

Since the "deflection of the Nile" discussion began scholars have brought to light many old legends and traditions tending to show that the Nile did at one time run dry for several years, and that former rulers of Egypt paid a regular annual tribute to the barbarians controlling its head waters, in consideration of which they let the river flow its usual course. Sir Samuel Baker brings also Bible prophecies to bear on the Nile, and avers that the possibility of starving Egypt by turning the Atbara into the desert is well known to the Mahdi and his followers.

A curious Biblical speculation is the suggestion by Baker that Joseph, confined in prison, learned from other prisoners of a coming attempt to turn the Nile, and hence knew of what he spoke when he advised Pharaoh to establish the first grain trust. Stanley, too, has a theory which threatens Egypt with the loss of the actual Nile, so that if the Mahdi and the King of Uganda simultaneously do what Baker and Stanley declare can be easily done, the outlook for poor Egypt is bad indeed.

If any such action is contemplated by either the fanaticism of the Mahdi's followers or the drunken spite of a petty African king, the civilized world may any year witness such a famine in Egypt as may have occurred in historic times, and may be forced to aid in moving a whole race, and that the most ancient and except perhaps China, the most enduring people in history, away from the land which, aided by the Nile, they made the centre of civilization for ages, and even now in its decline a country considered worth fighting for whenever a new conqueror turns his face toward Asia and Africa.

If there is any truth in Baker's ideas, Gordon's desertion and death at Khartoum may be terribly avenged upon England and Egypt, for with his death all possibility of retaining control of the headwaters of the Nile seems to have passed away. Another struggle against the Soudan fanatics, encouraged as they are by the conquest of Khartoum, would probably overtax the wealth and power of even Great Britain.

The Rev. W. G. Clements, who has served the Christian church in this city as pastor during the last twelve months, has been called to another field and has accepted the call. Rev. J. L. Foster of Alamance county, N. C., has been called to succeed Mr. Clements in this city and has accepted. He will enter upon his duties the first Sunday in December. He is a young man of ability and vim—a good preacher and a good worker. We regret to lose Mr. Clements but welcome Mr. Foster.

The Magnificent Cantata "Joseph."

The rehearsals of this splendid cantata were frequent last week and the enthusiasm and eagerness of those participating to make an unparalleled success of it grew accordingly. It is to be, as has been before stated, the crowning effort and success of Raleigh's amateurs, and it may be well to state that until this shall be presented, the real ability of Raleigh musical talent will be unknown; and therefore everybody must arrange to see the presentation. Local artists are now at work on the material which will represent, true to life the pasture and flocks of patriarchal days and other scenes which have been so much read of but rarely illustrated except in painting and picture. These scenic effects will be something absolutely new here and are partially the conception of Raleigh genius.

The choruses will be led by Miss Nannette Stone, the lady vocalist of St. Mary's school, and the orchestral department will be directed by Dr. Kursteiner, musical director of the same institution. From this it will be easy for Raleigh people to understand that nothing but pleasing success is possible. In the cast there are some local debutants and debutantes who will agreeably surprise the natives. An attempt to describe the various attractive features of the cantata, as it will be produced, would prove futile. Patience must be exercised until it is presented. The best way to obtain anything like a fair conception of it is to read the story of Joseph. Read it today and see if there was ever anything to equal it in romance, beauty and grandeur; and then remember that seeing it acted is next to seeing the real events. Then decide whether or not it can be anything else than agreeable.
