

THE ROCKY MOUNT MAIL. W. L. THORP, Editor. FRIDAY, MAY 16 1873.

LOUISIANA.

The Kellogg government and the tax resistors of Louisiana are still at war. Grant advises more active measures to uphold and maintain the usurpation of the present government. Never, since the great civil struggle, has such a state of affairs existed to such an extent. And this is the "peace" promised us six years ago. If ever a people possessed an acquired right to thoroughly hate their rulers, that right it seems to us belongs to the people of the South. Defeated, conquered, robbed, plundered and insulted, we are still made the objects of yankee malice, misrule and violence. We fought for a cause we believed to be right. We were overcome by the General Government, and now have spent eight long years begging for pardon and for peace, eating dirt as it were, and asking to be let alone. We have been promised, and are now promised peace, but do we get it? We answer, only in this way. We are commanded by the President, or the favorites of the President, to do this or that, let it be against the Constitution or not—we obey—this is the peace. If we refuse, we are suddenly reminded by a federal bayonet, that "might is right," that our liberties are gone, that the Constitution has been supplanted by the "higher power law."

The necrology of last week contains the names of John Stuart Mills, Salmon P. Chase and Oaks Ames. The former will only be remembered as a philosopher and logician. The two latter have more closely occupied the attention of the American people. Perhaps never did the character of two men so widely differ. Salmon P. Chase occupying an exalted position in a party opposed by every principle to the prosperity and freedom of the white people of the South, has yet, in our adversity, proved himself a friend. Although, as Chief Justice, he was prevented from taking any active steps in our behalf, he has in his private conversation and correspondence done much to cause us of the South to honor his name. Oaks Ames was, perhaps, one of the most remarkable men of the age. As father of the Credit Mobilier Swindle, he has become notorious. He was reckless in all his dealings, and recognized no incentive save money. He was to the United States what Milton S. Littlefield has been to North Carolina.

THE EXPOSITOR.

She first number of this new candidate for public patronage, edited at this place by C. C. Stille, Esq., is laid on our table just as we go to press, which prevents us from giving it an extended notice. Its appearance and general get up is good; and we wish it all the success which the principles it may advocate deserves. We may hereafter have occasion to notice its political position.

John B. Mordecai and Page McCarty, two well known gentlemen of Richmond, fought a duel at that place last Friday evening. Weapons, Colt's Navy Revolvers, largest size. Distance ten paces. Each fired two shots and are now lying dangerously wounded. The seconds have each been admitted to bail in the sum of $2,000.

The second and third floors of Davis, Roper & Co.'s wholesale Grocery Store, Petersburg, gave way last Saturday, which resulted in the loss of about one hundred barrels of flour besides the damage to the building. Several people were hurt but none killed.

Stokes, the murderer of James Fisk has been denied a new trial.

THE MODOCS.

The last advices from the seat of war tell us that the Modocs have left the Lava Beds, and have taken a stand in the Goose Lake Country. For years these people have been a terror to the frontier settlers by reason of the continued ill faith shown them by the Federal Peace Commissioners. They have repeatedly butchered helpless women and children, and no measures were taken to prevent it except to send out Government officials, who drew heavy salaries and effected no good. Now, since the killing of Gen. Canby, the Government immediately orders extermination to the bitter end. It sends out several thousand armed men to kill a mere handful of Modoc Indians; but thus far the Indians have whipped them, and spread terror in the Yankee camp. They have now left the Lava Beds and will pursue a guerilla warfare. The result of which will most probably be the extermination of their tribe at a cost of hundreds of thousands of dollars to the United States Government.

Since writing the above a dispatch chronicles another fight. Thirty-three Modocs attacked the Federal camp, killed and wounded seven men. One Modoc was killed. On the field Captain Jack sat in his saddle in as lordly a manner as a Brigadier General, in the uniform of the dead Canby. The Federal scouts wear petticoats.

MODOCIANS.

Read what some of our Virginia contemporaries say about the Modocs.

The Warrenton, Va., Index says:—"If Gen. Canby while presiding in District No. 1, had treated the bona fide people of Virginia with the tender consideration that he displayed towards the Modocs, we could have tied a piece of crape on our left arm when Captain Jack put his hair in his belt, and had a profound respect for his memory."

The Norfolk Virginian gets off the following: "New Plan to Fight the Modocs. J. Fenimore Cooper is our authority for stating that the noble red man is not anxious to kill his enemy unless he can secure the scalp, as a sort of voucher for the act, as no killing is admitted to record without the production of that article. Other means to conquer Captain Jack having failed, we would suggest to the Government, the propriety of taking advantage of this chivalric trait of the savages, by sending out on the war-path a regiment of men who have no scalp-locks, and whose scalps could only be taken, after infinite trouble, with a pair of pincers. In other words, we want them to send out young men who are bareheaded on the head. Should the suggestion meet with approval, we reserve the right, as the originator of the scheme, to nominate the officers. The Colonelcy is intended for our friend H. B., and the other officers will be filled after a competitive examination. We can get up the nucleus of the regiment in this city without difficulty."

The Norfolk Journal suggests this plan: "We offer a suggestion to the Government in its war upon the Modocs. Let the Secretary of War engage Sergeant Bates to carry the American flag through the Modoc country. The sight of the heroic sergeant bearing his country's flag will inspire the sanguinary savages with wholesome terror, and they will at once desert from war, embrace the valiant sargent, plant the stars and stripes upon the summit of the tallest crag in the Lava Beds, and turning their spears into pruning hooks, remove to another reservation and become peaceful agriculturists. Try Sergeant Bates, Mr. Robeson, and your countrymen will rise up and call you blessed—especially if Captain Jack kills and scalps Bates."

"B. F. Camp has sued White-law Reid for calling him the 'typical old rascal' in the Tribune." Damages are laid at $50,000.

It is estimated that the Government spends $75,000 in killing each Modoc—expensive.

THE COTTON TRADE.

The Situation and the Prospect. [New York Bulletin.] The future of this staple is a matter of great moment, not only to the cotton trade, but also to the community at large; and whether the crop is sold at an average price of say 20 cents or 15 cents, is a matter of considerable importance to every interest of the country. That the crop now being marketed is a large one there is no doubt. The estimates at the South range between 3,750,000 bales and 3,850,000 bales, while at the North they vary between 3,800,000 and 4,000,000 bales. We always look to the South for the lowest estimate and to the North for the highest, and probably the truth may lie somewhere between these extremes. The statistical position of the crop stood at the close of week before last as follows: The actual receipts of cotton at all the ports since September 1st have been 3,201,779 bales, against 2,545,622 corresponding time last year, showing an increase of 656,157 bales. The receipts at the interior ports for the same time have been 826,549 bales, against 738,592 same time last year, showing an increase of 87,957 bales. The stocks at all the ports are 454,846 bales, against 296,695 same day last year, showing an increase of 158,151 bales; and stocks at the interior towns 84,141 bales, against 39,130 in 1872, showing an increase this year of 45,011 bales; taken together, the stocks at the ports and the interior show 538,990 bales against 335,825 same time last year, giving an increase this year over last of 203,165 bales. In comparing these stocks, we must not overlook the fact that planters and those interested in advance of the staple, are holding, as far as in their power, their cotton on the plantations, where it does not show in the counts taken of stock. The exports, although large, are not in proportion to the increase supply. They have been, since September 1st, 2,106,552 bales, against 1,747,189 last year, when the exports for the entire cotton year were 1,957,214 bales. The amount of American cotton afloat for Great Britain is 226,000 bales, against 202,000 last year at same time. The stock of American cotton in Liverpool is 318,000 bales, against 310,970 bales same time last year. The Liverpool movement shows an evident disposition to load up with American cotton. That disposition, however, may be quite as much the result of the general depression of the cotton trade as of a want of confidence in the future value of our staple. It is not unnatural, considering the present condition of manufacturing affairs in England, that Liverpool should keep a very cautious lookout upon the probable volume of the crop of 1873, and the prospects of the one just planted; and the trade of that port may reasonably be expected to assume an attitude in favor of lower prices.

It is, of course, too early yet to form any definite opinion about the probabilities of the new crop. We have taken measures for collecting all the facts at present ascertainable on this point, and shall soon lay them before our readers. In the meantime it may be safely affirmed, 1, That the acreage planted with cotton this year is materially larger than that of last year; 2, That, generally throughout the South, there has been an increased use of cotton fertilizers, the consumption, apparently, having been beyond all precedent; 3, That the weather has been, on the whole, favorable to getting in the crop in good condition; 4, That since the planting, the weather has been too cold, but the plant has not been sufficiently up to sustain any serious consequent injury; and 5, That the supply of labor is, on the whole, adequate to the needs of planters.

Up to this point, therefore, the probabilities point an increased crop, assuming average conditions as to weather, worms, labor, etc.; and an augmented crop has always proved to imply lower prices. The following table taken from our Annual for the year 1872 fully illustrates this point.

Table with 3 columns: Season of, Value of crop, Average Price. Rows for 1871 and 1872.

THE LATE HON. THOMAS GHOLSON, of Petersburg, Va., says: "For two years I had labored under severe Dyspepsia, and had tried various remedies without relief, when I was induced by a friend to try BECKWITH'S ANTI-DYSPEPTIC PILLS. The effect was most happy, and in the course of a few weeks I was entirely relieved, the tone of my stomach restored, and my general health much improved. For the last eighteen months I have taken no other medicine, and I may add, no other medicine has been taken in my family. The high reputation which these pills have acquired, is in my opinion, richly merited, and I confidently recommend them to the public as a valuable medicine." Prepared by E. R. IMPROVE YOUR LAND BY USING THE BEST GUANOS! STANDARD FERTILIZERS! Quick Returns and Permanent Improvement to the Soil. CASH PRICES: Phoenix Guano, (Imported from Phoenix Islands), @ ton, $47.50 Wilcox, Gibbs & Co.'s Manipulated Guano, (per ton), $60.00 Guano, Salt and Plaster Compound, (per ton), $55.00 With Expenses added from Charleston, S. C. A small advance on the above prices will be made to time purchasers, payable the 1st of November, 1873. Without Interest. These popular Standard Fertilizers have been used by the Planters of North Carolina for several years, with perfect satisfaction, each year adding to their reputation as the best sold in the market. PHENIX GUANO AND COTTON SEED COMPOST A complete and very valuable Ammoniacal Fertilizer can be made by mixing Phoenix Guano and Cotton Seed. This preparation was used last year by a large number of Planters, and the results show an increased net profit of 300 to 400 per cent. over the natural soil. Below is a few testimonials out of many hundred from North Carolina: WHITEVILLE, N. C., 1872. I used your Manipulated Guano, 185 pounds to the acre, also lot of bars-yard manure about 30 cart-loads to the acre. I made 969 pounds lint cotton to the acre, and there is enough cotton now in the field to make forty or fifty pounds more of lint to the acre. I received two premiums for the largest yield of Cotton on one acre of land at the Fair in Wilmington this fall. H. C. ROCKWELL, COLUMBUS COUNTY, N. C., 1872. I used your Manipulated Guano on Cotton this past season at the rate of 200 pounds per acre, which cost me 50 cents per row, or $1 per two rows. I left two rows through the field without Guano and this fall had the cotton picked out separately—the first picking the two rows not guanoed made 27 pounds, the next two rows guanoed made 74 pounds, a difference of 50 pounds; the next and last picking there was a difference of 11 pounds, making 61 pounds, worth here 5 1-2 cents or $35 for each dollar paid for guano. This was the cotton worth the 1st of November, the time the guano had to be settled for. C. W. BALDWIN, CHARLOTTE, N. C., October 21, 1872. As a competitor for the premium offered by you for the largest yield of cotton, from the use of Wilcox, Gibbs & Co.'s Manipulated Guano, I had run off by Messrs. Price & Moore (surveyors) two acres of clay soil that has been in cultivation some 8 or 10 years. I prepared the land as follows: Run off the rows four feet apart with a two-horse "Charlotte Plow," one-horse sub soil plow following in the same furrow—put in the said furrow the Manipulated at the rate of 250 pounds per acre, bedding on the same with a one-horse "Charlotte Plow" followed by the one-horse sub-soil, planted the patch the 27th of April and worked it about every 10 or 12 days with sweep and hoe. The land used, without guano, made about 300 to 1,000 pounds. I have gathered from it, up to date, 3,687 pounds. Result from using the Guano..... 3,687 pounds. Without Guano..... 2,000 Increased..... 1,687 I am receiving large consignments of the above Fertilizers, and am prepared to supply Planters on easy terms. For further information apply for circular.
