defective mechanical principles that they failed to accom-plish all that the people had the right to expect of them. Within the last few months the Gardner Fire Extinguisher, manufactured by the Philadelphia Fire Extinguisher Company, has appeared. The Gardner Extin-erisher has all the merits of its predecessors increased to a wonderful degree, and is entirely free from their de-

POETRY.

"UNDER THE MISTLETOE,"

BY MRS. D. M. JORDAN.

Will you take the hand that I offer In fullest friendship to-day? Letting "the dead past bury its dead, Hiding the ashes away.

Looking beyond the changes That compass our years below, Will you pledge your faith for eternity, "Under the mistletoe?"

The years of time are the fleeting. The rules of life too fait; the roses wither so swittly, The summers too soon are past and human words are but feeble

To clothe deep feelings of love

As fethomless as the odean deeps,

As true as the stats above. Now doubt not the motive or meaning, Life's sorrows have melted the dross; The triendship I give is purest gold if

Won from its baser loss. Peacls from perilous diving Skine with no purer glow

Than the faith I offer you here to-day, "Under the mistletoe Will you take the hand that I offer. Holding-it firm and fast, feiling the faults and follies That dimmed the days of the past? I. t me not wait for an answer For a hope deferred is woe;

But give me a loving greeting "Under the mistletoe."

BY O, AV. A.

We're told deception is a sin, Burstill I do believe That there are certain people who Should labor to "deceive."

Don't rail; let common sense prevail; Your writer will engage To prove that every word he pens Will purify the age.

If you're a tattler, bringing woe To any peaceful cot, Would it be wrong to hold your, tongue And "seem" what you are not ?.

If you should have a nasal twang, Does any one suppose You do a wrong to !'feign" a song That don't come through the nose?

Perhaps you waddle like a duck: Can any one believe Tis bad to "feign" a noble walk, Although you may "deceive?"

Or, if your face is vinegar, And frowning all the white, Had you not better use the glass, To "feign" a sugar smile?

Suppose your vision is at fault, Would it be wrong to hint-You'd better "feign" an angel look And drop a kind of squint?

The women pad and powder too; Men pad and use the dye; In beauty's fight, to "feign is right: You think so, so do I.

We have no right to bore the world If good will not accrue;

To please and have a happy life, There's much depends on you.

It there is little but offense In what you do or say, Paul in the rein, begin to "leign, "Deceive" us every day,

To be yourself is very well, If self is rather fine; But be some other person, if Your nature's not divine.

Make all improvement that you can, In manner, look or tone; And what you've "borrowed," after while May prove to be your own,

MILTON'S LAST POEM. The following poem is from the Oxford edition of Milton's works I am old and blind! Men point to me as smitten by God's frown, Afflicted, and deserted by my mind; Yet I am not least down. I am weak; yet dying

I murniur not that I no longer see: Poor, old, and helpless, I thee more belong, Father supreme, to Thee, Oh Merciful One! When men are farthest, then thou art near; When men pass coldly by -my weakness shun, Thy clustion I hear!

Thy glorious face Is fearning toward me, and its holy light Shines upon my lonely place. And there is no more light!

On my bended knee I recognize Thy purpose clearly shown; My vision Thou hast dimmed, that I may see Thyself Thyself alone.

I have naught to fear, This darkness is the stadow of Thy wing, Beneath it I am almost sacred; here

Can come no evil thing. Oh! I seem to stand

Trembling where feet of mortal never jet hav Wrapped in the radiance of Thy sinless band Which eye both never seen.

Visions come and go; Shapes of resplendent beauty round me throng From Angel's lips I seem to hear the flow Of soft and holy song.

It is nothing, now, When Heaven is opening on my sightless eyes-When airs from Paradise refresh my brow-

That earth in darkness lies.

In a pure clime My being fills with raptures, waves of though Roll in upon my spirit; strains sublime Break over me unsought.

Give me now my lyre!

I feel the stirring of a gift divine, Within my bosom glows unearthly fire. Lit by no skill of mine.

THE SUN, New-York City, Ayer's Hair Vigor,

For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable. healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. It soon restores faded or gray hair to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, fallen hair checked. and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning grey or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.
