POETRY.

Written for THE REPUBLIC & COURIER.
"It Might Have Been."

Oh, had I but known of the path I had trod,
I would have chosen a different road.
I would have chosen a path of peace,
A path of love and of true release.
I would have chosen a path of truth,
A path of duty and of high renown.
I would have chosen a path of life,
A path of joy and of true strife.
I would have chosen a path of hope,
A path of faith and of true love.
I would have chosen a path of light,
A path of truth and of true right.
I would have chosen a path of peace,
A path of love and of true release.
I would have chosen a path of truth,
A path of duty and of high renown.
I would have chosen a path of life,
A path of joy and of true strife.
I would have chosen a path of hope,
A path of faith and of true love.
I would have chosen a path of light,
A path of truth and of true right.

HOW TO GET RICH.

But on the air of an eight-keyed flute,
If you're only a penny-whistle;
Pass where you can for a garden rose,
If you're only a wisp of smoke.
Blow, whenever you blow your horn,
No people can understand
That you may be rich, but you won't be flat,
In society's great brass band.
Pass the plate or the hat in church,
With the usual mild, religious squeak,
That people may know you're there.
If you carry a nose six inches long,
(And a bag can scarce be longer),
Believe it a sign of perception strong,
And the longer it is the stronger.
But if, in the order of nasal tubes,
Your organ is brief in measure,
Then, brevity being the soul of wit,
Consider your pug a treasure.
Love your neighbor—but mark the force
Of the Gospel rule of grace—
The more you adore yourself, my friend,
The higher your neighbor's place.
Think your dime in the deacon's pan
As if you were throwing gold,
And give with an eye to the business hope
Of reaping a hundred fold.
Whether your reading is little or great,
Give right, or never quote;
Push your upper, though down in the heel,
And never indorse a note.
Always advance best hand, best foot,
(Best hand, best foot, your own),
And thus you may fast on the fat of the land,
While others enjoy the bone.
