was his pain-and what he could do to help him:-and without giving him time to answer any one of the inquries, went on and told him of the little plan which he had been concerting with the Corporal the night before for him.

-You shall go home directly, Le Fev re, said my Uncle Toby, to my house, and we'll send for a doctor to see what's the metter, and we'll have an apothecary, and the Corporal shall be your nurse; and I'll be your servant, Le Fevre.

There was a frankcess in my Uncle Toby-not the effect of familiarity, but the cause of it-which ht you at once into his soul, and showed you the goodness of his nature. To this, there was something in his looks, and voice, and manner, superadded, which eternally beckoned to the unfortunate to come and take shelter under him, so that before my Uncle Toby had half finished the kind offers he was making to the father, the son insensibly pressed up close to his knees, and had taken hold of the breast of his coat, and was pulling it six dozen cats, four dezen hogs, and two towards him. The blood and spirits of Le dozen with riders on them; and seven dozen Fevre, which were waxing cold and slow whin him, and were retreating to their last citadel, the heart-rallied back, the film forsook his eyes for a moment; looked up How to see the Teeth of a beautiful young wishfully in my Uncle Toby's face; then Lady.—Praise her rival before her face, and you cast a look upon his boy: and that ligament, fine as it was, was never broken.

IN LOCK OR POLITENESS TO A LADY .- A young lawyer of Maryland, with perhaps not as much of money in his pocket as gallantry in his heart, was travelling on the Railroad from Philadelphia to Baltimore. when the cars were so crowded that a lady was unable to obtain a seat. Mr. W. wh had been congratulating himself upon his luck, instantly gave up his, when chance threw him alongside of an eminent New York lawyer, who was then on his way to investigate an important law case. gentleman, upon conversation with Mr. W., found him to be a man of ability, and colicited his professional aid. The case has just been decided, and the polite young lawyer has pocketed the handsome fee of $10,000. Let our gentlemen readers remember, if not always "in lack," never to fail in "politeness to a lady."

EXPLORING THE PARSON -A minister was one Sabbath day examining the Sunday School in catechism before the congregation. The usual question was put to the first girl, a strapper, about 13 years of age. who was a publican, in waiting on custom-ers. "What is your name?" said the parson. No reply. "What is your name? he repeated, in a more peremptory manner, "None of your fun, Mr. Minister," said the girl. "You know my name well enough. Don't you say, when you come to our house on a mgt. "Bet oring me some more ale?" The congregation forgetting the sacredness of the place, were in a broad grin, and the parson looked daggers.

A Humorous Legal Instrument.-Not ong since the contents of a small confectionary and toy shop were seized for debt but afterward replayied. A deed of trust to secure the payment was accordingly executed, and recorded at the City Hall. A friend who had the pleasure of reading the document, informs us that some of the items were duly set forth in this wise: Five lbs. of candies, assorted; eight dozen soldiers assorted babies .- Washington Sentinel.

An Oregonean speaks rapturously of the Oregon winters. On the 19th December he plucked French pinks and marigolds which were full blown, and says that many varieties of gurden flowers were growing and promised to bloom all winter.
