

THE WAY THEY TALK.

The Warrington News, succeeded by the Raleigh Standard gives its readers the following savory morsel:

We believe a distribution of the fund among the several States would be a "squandering" of the very worst description, and have a most disastrous effect upon the national credit in the money market of the world.

That's the belief, is it? "We (the democratic party, the editor of the News and Standard) believe a distribution of the funds," or, in other words, the proceeds arising from the sale of the public lands, "among the several States," would be a "squandering" of the very worst description." Now the only plain, common sense interpretation we can give to the above, is, that it would be a base "squandering" of the public lands to give all the States a share—but that it is all right and proper that those lands, of right the property of all, should be given away to the particular favorites of the Buchanan party, the Abolition States. Perhaps they look upon it as an act of charity to the States of Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, et omne id genus—but these States actually need no charity. North Carolina and the old States, long laboring to keep up a respectable appearance, to further public works and advance the good of the country, have incurred heavy liabilities, which a little grant, not to say "squander," of their just dues, would successfully throw off their shoulders. But the Democrats will not hear to such a "squandering" proposition—it would deprive the party of abolition favor, and they would have to sink, politically.

"Low in the ground."

The truth is plain. The rotten, spoil-loving, money-grabbing, land-squandering corporation, is about to totter to ruins—and the light is breaking in among its rafters, and the dark and unwise machinations are beginning to be seen in all their deformity—facts throughout the wronged States are being told—and the people—the sovereign people—are beginning to listen and prepare for action. "The truth is mighty and WILL prevail." It may be buried deep—darkness almost impenetrable may gather around it, and demagogues may attempt by every art, by all their cunning and ingenuity, to keep a cloud of fabrication forever about it, but despite all their efforts its unquenchable rays of light will break forth and the clouds of error scatter before it as the bat and owl would fly before the approach of day. The public records will show how the lands, a part of which belonged to the old States, were granted. (?) or squandered away by the Democratic party.

A BRIEF RACE OF GLORY.

We learn from the Ashville Spectator, that the reported filibuster expedition against Sonora was true. A certain Henry A. Crabb commanded the expedition. He was doubtless a man of some cunning, as he got followers, (slaves rather) but he had hardly reached the field—as say the accounts—when he was opposed by a force of four thousand Mexicans, and himself and fifty followers taken prisoners and are to be executed. That is to be the end of Crabb's brief and not very brilliant career. We pity the slaves of this sprawling Crabb.

DEATH OF SENATOR BUTLER.

Hon. Andrew Pickens Butler, Senator in Congress from South Carolina, died at Edgefield, on Monday evening last.

We have on our table the April No. of the Edinburgh Review. Also, the May number of Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine. Of their merits it is unnecessary for us to speak.

Address L. Scott & Co., 79 Fulton Street, New York.

CHARLOTTE CELEBRATION.

We see glowing accounts in many of our exchanges descriptive of the 20th of May celebration in Charlotte. They undoubtedly went a little ahead of our goodly town, in point of numbers and oratory, but as regards real free and easy enjoyment, we do not think they were much in advance of us. Edward J. Hale, Esq., of the Observer was there and responded in a very happy manner to a toast given in honor of the press. Dr. Hawk's address, all agree, was delivered in a most happy and felicitous style—enchanting by its beauty, profundity and eloquence the almost breathless attention of the immense concourse present for a very considerable length of time. We do not think we could do our readers a greater service than by copying the observation of Mr. Burr of the Wilmington Herald, who was present on the occasion.

After describing in a very humorous strain his trip from Wilmington through South Carolina to Charlotte. He says:

At last we are in Charlotte—big guns roaring—crowds of people—flag staff 130 feet high, in the centre of Tryon Square—flags waving from different buildings, and excitement generally. Hotels packed, private houses thrown open, streets full of people from all parts of the State, and from South Carolina. Gov. Bragg; President Swain; Dr. Hawks; Chief Justice Nash; Hon. Asa Biggs, U. S. Senator; Hon. Burton Craigie; Hon. D. M. Harringer; Judge Ellis, and others more or less known to fame, all here. A special reporter for the N. Y. Herald taking notes. The N. C. Press was handsomely represented. There was, also, of the Fayetteville Observer; Yates, of the Charlotte Democrat; Bruner, of the Salisbury Watchman; James, of the Salisbury Herald; Cannon, of the Salisbury Banner; and ourselves, a pretty crowd to be sure, and as good as pretty. Bruner got "the jack-knife" on account of his looks, and has it now. That night there was a little bit of a row at one of the hotels, in which knives were used, some blood was spills, but no lives lost.

The morning was as bright and beautiful as could have been desired, and the roar of artillery ushered in a day marking one of the brightest periods in the history of this "good old North State."

Providence kindly smiled on the patriotic efforts, that gave to that day immortality and as kindly on the cheerful throng who had assembled to celebrate its welcome return. A glorious day was that for Mecklenburg, and many a noble heart gave a ready response to the call that collected that patriotic throng. At half past ten the collected crowd under the supervision of the marshals took up its line of march from "Liberty Square" to the grove of the Presbyterian Church, where suitable accommodations were provided for all. The marshal then introduced Chief Justice Nash as President of the meeting. The Judge's marshals making the chair were exceedingly appropriate, and met with marked attention from all. At the conclusion of his oration, Rev. Drury Lacy, D. D., President of Davidson College, opened the exercises with prayer.

Mr. J. W. Osborne, of Charlotte was then introduced, who after a few well-sustained remarks, read the Mecklenburg Declaration after which the band (quite appropriately) gave us the "Old North State" forever.

The President then rose and remarked that it afforded him a great pleasure to introduce to that vast assembly a Reverend gentleman, who though an unwilling exile from his native State, yet at the call of his countrymen had returned to do justice to the dead and render honor to whom honor was due—The Rev. Francis L. Hawks, D. D. L. L. D., North Carolina's Historian.

And all eyes were now turned on the distinguished man of whom we are all so justly proud. And as he spoke of the land of his birth, the kind parents who had watched o'er his youthful days, and taught him the fear and love of God—the dear old homestead round which he had sported in bright joyous, sunshiny youth—of the dear companions of his boyhood, but above and far beyond all these; his undivided affection for this, our dear old State, every heart throbbed with a quicker pulsation, which sent the welcome sensation through many a kindling eye, dancing in liquid light, baffling all efforts at description, and then when he turned from these pleasant and welcome musings, to the contemplation of my CLOTHING.
