Business in this city is brisk, and money plenty.

North Carothia bonds would now be above per, if she had a fund to meet her present indebtodress. I mean that which will full due to 1859 and '60, for which abe will have to issue new bonds. She should, by all means, have a sinking fund, which would add much to her credit, which is now better than any other Southern State.

New York is rapidly improving, and will in ten years extend to the Harlem river. A ride to the High Beldge, along the Biosmingdale road, is the most interesting partof the city, as you have a full view of the Hudson and Jersey shore, with the most beautiful scenery in the world. The whole distance is ten miles. The bridge is 114 fact above the water, and 1,450 feet in length, costing $1,000,000. The entire cost of the Croton dam, aqueduct and bridge is over $15,000,000, and was nine years in building. New York city is better supplied with water than any city in the world. The most beautiful and costly dwelling in the city, is the residence of Mr. Townsond, of sarasparilla memory. It cost $300,000.

Hev. Dr. Durbin preached in the Academy of Music on Sanday. His subject was the healing of Naaman, in the waters of Jordan. His sermon was just one hour in length. His peroration was slow, but, by degrees, he became so animated and interested in his audject, that his eyes glowed like bells of fire. In all that wast assemblage there was scarcely a dry eye. The noise of a pin dropping on the floor, would have been distinctly heard throughout the building, which will hold over eight thousand persons. His flights of elloquence surpassed anything I ever heard. His description of the indignation of Naaman, when the Prophet would not come out to see him, and his hamility after being healed, were surpassingly grand. I would ride one hundred miles to hear him again.

COUNTY AND STATE NEWS.

CHRISTMAS.

On the great race-course of the world,

But, mounted, all, on mage well-train'd.

Your race of life be well maintained,

And should bring with it pleasant cheer;

Victorious at its close.

Christmas comes but once a year.

May every Christmas bring to you,

Increase of substance-virtue, too!

He, who, on high, now intercedes,

Sustain you by His grace,

Keep you and yours, from ev'ry ill secure

How are you off for gobblers, bens and geese

And possess-fat, and lard and other grouse

Guess you have a plenty. As we are sinners,

What think you of the following programme

We hope you will digest your Christmas dinneral

For you and all our race

And make you to the end endure.

And things to stuff them with!

With the addition of a slice of ham!

Turkeys stuffed with sourkraut,

Ducks with sweet potatoes,
Possums cramm'd up to the snout
With turnips and "tomatoes,"
And sauce, composed of celery,
And cabbages together
All stirred about right eleverly,

And made to suit the weath

And escounts and chinkspins,

And water minus whisky-

Of an avenging conscience!

Throughout the whole of C A thing to be repeated!

And hearty and contented, And that you'll neither do nor say,

Hang up your stockings, little ones,

For children under " twenty.

There's cakes and doughnuts plenty— And Santa Claus has lote of things

So say your prayers—blow out the light, "Good night" to all "good night."

A correspondent of the Memphis Bulletin, who has recently left this State on a trip to the West, says:

"I foticed along the line that the farmers seem to have finished picking out their cotton, but I did not see say statks as large as I expected. On the contrary I am very sure I could produce larger of North Carolina growth than any I have seen in Tennessee, Alabams or Georgia. I am well aware that I have not seen the best, but the impression prevails, to a certain extent, in our country that any old field in the West or South will beat 'the old country.' But it is not seen the best, but the impression provails, to a certain of springly that any old field in the West or South will beat 'the old country.' But it is not so. The old country is looking up, and on the subject of agriculture, particularly, old hip Van Winkle is wide awake."
