example, what a seceschal and detective is This appears to be the first step toward laughter ! It seems to require several genthe first law promulgated in this country erations of education to train a squeaking gainst the wasteful hewing down of time ber trees : a proceeding recognized as an important waste, be it noticed, at a period times, when in almost all expression the Choctaw and the slave have been worked when vast forests stood on the sites of our out of him, a course insture still betrays now most popular western cities, and when, o far as human knowledge of the continept went, the supply of wood might be nexhaustible. Since the date of this local ordinance, State legislatures and the genion who knows you do not ; to tilt with eral government have enacted laws carryng with them penalties, apparently of sufficient severity to deter the reckless use of the axe. The United States statute of March, 1875, imposes $500 fine or a year's imprisonment for wanton destruction or injury to, or the unlawful cutting of, "any timber trees or any shade or ornamental tree, or a y other kind of tree" on national grounds; and $200-fine, or six months imprisonment, for permitting cattle to injure trees and hodges on similar territory. Despite, however, the stringency of the various laws, their eff et has not been to stop the waste, and the denution of our timber lands continues at a rate which may be well deemed a matter of grave alarm. In the very a imirable statistical atlas. care so much for what they say as I do for peral Francis A. DOES IT PAY TO GOOK FOR ock ?-- We will state that our fa ntains 800 acres, and we d one hundred head of cuttle in summer, and we fatten or inter about forty head of eattle he stables. We raise from for ifty acres of wheat, twenty to thirty o oats, twenty of corn, and three or four cree of Swedish turnips. Our engine is a five-horse boiler, something more with engine attached to its side. A: this threshes our grain, cuts and steams the fodder, pumps the water, saws the wood, and does the churning, and thus is very handy to have on the farm, We have three steam-hoxes, holding one hundred bushels each, and one of the filled with cut straw, two hundred ponds of bran worth seventy-five-cents per hundred, evenly mixed, moiste with water, packed in solld and we steamed, will feed sixty head of call three times for one day, all they will cat. Fattening cattle are fed extra. In this way, we can feed all our straw and cornstalks and poor hay, if we have any, with a little grain and bran turn it all into quick, active manure to atimulate new crops, and can keep more stock, and at one third less expense that at the old way. Our stock comes out in better condition in the Spring, and we have no doubt, from our own experience, that there is a saving to us of fully one-third in the cost of wintering our animals. In feeding hogs, we find that two bushels of corn ground and cooked is a little better than four bushels of shelled corn. We have proved this by the best test we can give it.
