ble again. Two on Princes's street can can be taken as a warning.

- The delightfully sun-shiney days bring the ladies out in swarms-like honey bers, and every one's a queen.

- The SEWARD came up this morning, but brings no startling news from the 5 & Side. Smithville is still there. - The Senior and his assistant are both ill and the Post is now running itself. This accounts for its lack of whip lash hanging about there.

- The Robesonian wants Judge Russell to withdraw his proclamation of outlawry against a party of young men charged with the murder of Ben, Bethes, in Robeson county. - The Fayetteville Eagle comes to us as a semi-weekly instead of a daily. The editor finds a daily "too much work" but promises to go back to a daily when they get telegraphic and other communication.
