

REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

Of Illinois.

HENRY WILSON,
Of Massachusetts.

MARCUS ERWIN, of Buncombe.
SAMUEL F. PHILLIPS, of Wake.

1. Edward Ransom, of Tyrrell.
2. William F. Loftin, of Lenoir.
3.
4. Thomas M. Argo, of Orange.

7. James G. Ramsey, of Rowan.
8. James M. Justice, of Rutherford.

KEEP BEFORE THE PEOPLE!
It is urged by the Democratic organs that the law is to be enforced in State and municipal elections. This is done to make it more obnoxious, if that be possible, to their party. But, unfortunately, this is an error. The law applies only to Presidential and Congressional elections, though we heartily wish it could be made to apply to all others.—N. Y. Tribune.

When the rebellious Traitors are overwhelmed in the field, and scattered like leaves before an angry wind, it must not be to return to Peaceful and Contented Homes. THEY MUST FIND POVERTY AT THEIR FIRESIDES, AND SEE PRIVATION IN THE ANXIOUS EYES OF MOTHERS AND THE RAGS OF CHILDREN.—HORACE GREELEY, Tribune, May 1st, 1861.

From the Tribune, 1871.
"I hold our Government bound by its duty of protecting our citizens in their fundamental rights, to pass and enforce laws for the extinction of the execrable ku klux conspiracy; and if it has not the power to do it, then I say our Government is no Government, but a sham. I therefore on every proper occasion advocated and justified the ku klux act. and if it does not prove strong enough to effect its purpose, I hope it will be made stronger and stronger."

Work.
An infamous article, with the above title appeared in the Raleigh Standard, in 1868, which was immediately repudiated by the proprietors of the paper, and the writer discharged. Although this was done immediately and the article denounced by every Republican paper in the State, several Democratic papers have extracted of this article standing at the head of their editorial columns. We are reliable informed that the writer of this article is one of the editors of the New York Tribune, now the leading Greeley organ of the United States.

"I have examined with unminged horror to some of the testimony which has been brought before you. The outrages proceed from a shocking inhumanity; they admit of neither excuse or justification; they violate every obligation which law and nature imposes upon men; they show that the parties engaged were brutish, insensible to the obligations of humanity and religion. The day will come, however, if it has not already arrived, when they will deeply lament it. Even if justice shall not overtake them, there is one tribunal from which there is no hope. It is their own judgment—that tribunal which sits in the breast of every living man—that small, still voice that thrills through the heart—the soul of the mind, and as it speaks, gives happiness or torture—the voice of conscience, the voice of God. If it has not already spoken to them in tones which have startled them to the enormity of their conduct, I trust, in the mercy of Heaven, that that voice will speak before they shall be called above to account for the transactions of this world. That it will speak to make them repent, and that striking in the dispensations of Heaven, whose justice is dispensed with mercy, when they shall be brought before the bar of their great tribunal, so to speak, that incomprehensible tribunal, there will be found in the fact of their penitence, or in their previous lives, some grounds upon which God may say PARDON."—Speech of Hon. Reverdy Johnson, in Ku Klux trials, December 18th.

Mr. Greeley on Finance,
Mr. Greeley, in his swing around the circle, spoke an editorial at Cincinnati on Saturday. It was all about finance and specie payments, but he gave no remedy for the evils complained of. He don't say it is best to resume specie payments, nor does he say it is better to go on as we are. In short, he expresses no opinion on any of the great financial problems before the people. He referred to the stock gamblers in New York, and the general fear of a disaster, and said: "And then appears the Secretary of the Treasury with his horn of plenty, and he lets loose something or other; he either buys stock, or he sells gold, or he does both, and he puts us at ease for a little time again. I am not here to decide that that is not the best he can do; I don't know about that; I do not insist that the business of the country ought not to be in a condition to require this continual application of something artificial, something let down from above, that there should be a state of things wherein business men and business interests should take care of themselves, and not require the continual interruption of some public authority in such dictatorial form; some men are swamped when he appears; other men are relieved, perhaps. The greatest good to the greatest number is accomplished, for aught I know, but I want to see a state of things when the government is not continually called upon to keep us out. It reminds me of a state of things that existed in my earlier day, when every once in a while Nicholas Biddle was called to Wall street in about the same capacity that the Secretary of the Treasury is now, to put his shoulder to the wheel and lift us out of some catastrophe; lift us out of some mire, or ward off some catastrophe. I think we ought to be able, that you, gentlemen, ought to be able, to devise the ways and means, not only of getting us out of one particular corner, but preventing corners in future, rendering them impossible, or, at all events disastrous, to their contrivers."

So we see even by Mr. Greeley's own showing, that the action of the Secretary of the Treasury is in exact accord with the old fashioned way of saving the country from ruin. He wisely makes no charge against the Administration in this matter, for he knows that the carefully matured plans of the Secretary of the Treasury have saved us from great financial distress, if not utter ruin. Mr. Greeley speaks of our financial disorders as a disease, and appeals to the business men of the country to cure it. We hope they will succeed in doctoring our National symptoms, and prevent any more panics. Those who have guided their fortunes through 1837, '47, and '57, are no doubt glad of the balancing process of the government, with its millions of gold, and a currency which is a par all over the Union.

The Journal is becoming "convicted," We begin to have faith in its eventual conversion. It accepted Greeley and "biled crow," not for any love for him, but to beat GRANT. But now, having reflected upon the magnanimity and honesty of the philosopher, it begins to admire his noble person. Good for the Journal. As Greeley constantly says to the Northerners, that he is as much Republican as he ever was, even when he talked of "privation in the anxious eyes of mothers," etc., the Journal will in a short time stand a chance of being converted to Republicanism and we will all be a happy family! Won't it be nice? After Grant has served the people four years more, and we are selecting candidates for the campaign of 1876, we fear the Journal will claim to be a "dye in the wool" Republican and taunt the Post with being a "Conservative." This would not be as astounding as to read puffs of Greeley in that old staunch Democratic organ of a few months ago, when every article in its columns abused Republicanism and its vials of wrath, hurled upon the defenseless head of Mr. Charles Sumner and his civil rights bill were appalling to contemplate.

It is a long time since anything has been said of their modest and retiring candidate for the Vice Presidency. What has become of Bratz Grown? Don't be so crabbed about him. He should be spirit-ually present part of the time, and we are anxious to know if our old time Democratic neighbor admires him also.

How hard it is to please our Greeley-ocrat friends. Now here is the Greensboro Patriot complaining because a "negro boy" voted the Democratic ticket and was afterwards punished for stealing. We see nothing remarkable in the transaction. If a "negro boy" was base enough to vote the Democratic ticket, he would naturally be base enough to steal. So in the case in point, as the "boy" stole the article two years ago, it merely proves that as he would steal, he was knave enough to vote the Democratic ticket.

The Raleigh News of the 21st says the poet Longfellow has "declared for Greeley." This is a mistake of yours (to). News, Mr. Longfellow has repudiated that charge and declared for Grant.

The Partisan Ball of Scurrility Still Rolling on.
The Evening Mail administers a well-merited reproof to the partisan organs that go out of their path to fling offensive epithets upon their opponents. It calls for a week's truce, "so that hot blood can cool and muddled brains get clear and animosities subside a little." Another evening contemporary also reprehends the prevailing grossness of partisan invective, but being a partisan part itself it sees only one side of the question and would take the mote out of its brother's eye before taking heed of the beam in its own. Again, in one short paragraph in the columns of a morning paper, we find such ungrammatical and unorthodox expressions as "infirmit," "landmarks," "calumny," "sneak," in another, "beset thief," "thief," "scalwags," in another, "wanton insolence," in another, and apparently the leading editorial, a neighboring journalist is characterized as having "grown old and vicious" in the art of libelling and of "forging" charges against political opponents. Another prominent journal is classified among "unscrupulous men." This whole constellation of elegant English is sublimated under the modest heading of "Slander as a trade." In the words of a Newark contemporary, this is truly the "campaign of scandal" and, it might have added, of scurrility and vulgarity and needless personality.—N. Y. Herald.

EDITORIAL BUDGET.

— The U. S. Army consists of 2406 officers and 28,911 men.

— The international cricket match has come to its conclusion, the English beating the American club "all to pieces."

— The scull race between Ward of Beylin of New York for $1000 a side and the championship of America, came off on the Hudson Thursday. The distance round was five miles and won by Beylin by four lengths in 32 minutes and 22 seconds.

— The arrest of Edmond About has become the subject of diplomatic correspondence between Germany and France. The French authorities, it seems, to be tried by court-martial for having published articles inimical to Germany in German territory in 1871. About has addressed President Thiers a note entreating him to do nothing that would imperil France. To impartial persons everywhere the charge is an absurd and silly one. Germany can gain no credit from the transaction excepting by allowing About to go quit and free.

TANBARK.

Buckalew, the coalition candidate for Governor in Pennsylvania, is described as "one who despises in private and ignores in public the Clappaqua Sage."

An elderly lady out in Michigan says she likes to attend Greeley meetings, "because there is always so much room in the house, and no one disturbs her nerves by shouting."

Benj. Parke, formerly of Harrisburg, Pa., and at one time editor of the Keystone, the democratic central organ published there, has declared himself for Gen. Grant and the whole Republican State ticket.

Mr. William Downing, a leading Labor Reformer, has written a letter to the Elmira Arbeiter, advising the laboring men to vote for Grant and Wilson rather than Greeley and Brown.

A prominent Sacra Democrat got enough of the coalition Monday, and says he will do nothing for Mr. Greeley in November. The woods are full of this kind of democrats.—Portland (Me.) Press.

Senator Cobking's new name for Liberal Republicanism is "Assistant Democrats." But it is painful to add that in the way they "assisted" the democracy in Vermont and Maine was very much like the way the Old Man of the Sea assisted Sinbad the Sailor.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean predicts that "the time will most certainly come—indeed it is not far away—when the statesmanship of General Grant will be even more loudly extolled than his generalship."

Senator Trumbull is stamping Illinois. Of a recent effort one of his admirers writes: "There was scarcely a dry eye among his auditors," which moves the State Journal to remark: "Likely enough—they had heard of the news from Maine."

The Tribune seems to think that Senator Wilson and other prominent Republicans have nothing to do during the present campaign but write denials of "Liberal" slanders. The Tribune should remember in its own daily utterances it has answered in the negative its query—"is there a limit to lying?"

An Indiana editor lays down his shears for a few minutes to write a double headed editorial, in which he plaintively remarks: "We are the recipient of half a peck of nice onions, two watermelons and a bottle of ginger beer from one of our subscribers. The gifts were like the shadow of a rock in a weary land. We are glad some one remembered us in the midst of our labors and cares, and evinced that remembrance in so delicate a manner. We dote on onions and love melons dearly; and so long as the fragrance of the former and the gripes of the latter linger about us we shall hold the kind donor in effusive remembrance. Of ginger beer we have never been able to speak enthusiastically, but say that our children enjoyed it greatly, while the empty bottle added not a little to the effective force of our office army.—Those little acts inspire us to renewed exertions, but our subscription price will be the same."

Col. R. H. Taylor of Virginia City, Nevada, a life long democrat, has joined the Republican party.
