

In another column appears a communication from Smithville, giving ar account of a Republican meeting held there last week, to which we invite attention. The meeting was of unusual importance as on that occasion two prominent gentlemen who have heretofore acted with the Democratic party, publicly withdrew from it and acknowledged themselves as members of our party. It is useless for us to speak of Col. Allen, who showed his valor on thirty-two battle fields fighting for the confederacy. He is altogether too well known in this vicincy, and like the brave soldier, as soon as he had made up his mind as to the right of his opinions, he has openly avowed them. We are aware of scores of men, who vote with our party, but are too fearful of that great bug-bear-public opinion-to avow their principles. Col. Allen's position to-day is worth more than all the votes of the others, for it carries its truth upon the face and will influence many of his old companions in arms.

Mr. Sutton is a prominent lawyer of Elizabeth, and his eloquence and popularity in Bladen county will be of great service to the party in the next campaign. We welcome these gentlemen to our ranks. May there be many more

"H" and the Wilmington Post; Under the above head, the Journal of Sunday contains a reply to our remarks in Friday's issue about the Willie Carter murderers, signed J. C. HIDEN .-Now that we know the writer, we will reply to his communication briefly, and endeavor to define our position more distinctly. The communication contains six heads, of which four require brief mention, and the first one is in reply to the following: "Now, we will ask Mr. 'H' if he read the evidence, and if so, if he can understand how a boy of 14 years of age can give four different versions of the same tragedy, every one plausible, and every one almost entirely different." Mr. Hiden replies to this by saying, "Yes, we understand it readily. David lied. * *

* * We think, however, that his lying shows art and not artlessness."-Now this does not answer the question. Every one, including the villain David himself, admits that he lied. We said we were unable to understand how a boy could give these different versions. It must be distinctly borne in mind that our article, which called forth the Biblical Recorder letter, was a pen picture of the prisoners appearance, and not editorial remarks upon the evidence, and we said he "acts and speaks with the artlessness of innocent childhood." We did not say that he was artless or innocent, or that his evidence showed artlessness, but we gave his appearance, and most of the spectators will bear us out in our description.

Again Mr. Hiden says:

Democratic rule," that if a prisoner is a negro he is guilty;" and all that is said about the "Democratic papers," the "Southern democracy," &c., is purely irrelevant; we wish we could think that it is "artless." The Biblical Recorder is not a Democratic paper, and "H" is not a partizan. The question before us was not a political one, and no effort which the Post can make will ever drag or decoy "H" into a discussion of the issues of party politics.

Here again Mr. Hiden fails to see the misrepresented by Democratic papers, especial lovers of the negro race, and that Northern men are here only to de-"Here is a writer for a religious paper, who intimates that we are carefully concealing the faults and crimes of this unfortunate race, because they are black. Neither position is correct." We distinctions. How can Mr. Hiden suppose we were confounding the Recorder with a political paper, when we distinctly state it to be religious. And bear in mind, we did not charge the Recorder or the "especial lovers of the negro race," corder and its correspondent are mention- who want quiet, and peace, and harmoed in the second position, and we think | ny. The young men of the country | above. The Post has no disposition to 'drag or decoy" Mr. Hiden or any other clergyman into a political discussion, for it has too great a respect for their calling, and it dislikes to see political demonstrations made by ministers of any religious denomination. Still the Post would not be happy to be considered artless. It would be a poor paper if it was.

After a review of our pen picture in the Recorder, "H" wonders "what sort of a negro will do for a murderer." We considered that remark and its accompanying sentences an intimation that the Post was concealing the faults and crimes of the negro race. This Mr. Hiden denies, and that settles that question.-The closing paragraph is as follows:

The Post is hardly accurate in calling "H's" article anonymous. Is the Post's article anonymous? Of course not, for the Post has published the fact that it is edited by Major Mann. Well, the Recorder has published the fact that its correspondent "H." is the Pastor of the First Baptist Church of Wilmington; and we have entirely satisfactory reasons for believing that the Post had been otherwise and reliably informed that "H." was J. C. HIDEN.

To this remarkable statement we have this to say: The Post employs several writers, and because J. C. MANN's name appears at the head of the paper as its editor, and by common custom is held responsible for editorial articles appearing therein, it is by no means evidence that he writes all the articles published. So it would not be safe to announce that J. C. Mann wrote any certain article, though he might be indicted or sued for publishing it. We do not exchange with the Biblical Recorder and did not know that it had ever announced its Wilmington correspondent "H." as the pastor of the First Baptist Church. Nor do we believe that fact to be generally known in this city. But had we personally known who the correspondent was, the signature "H." would have been anonymous to our readers and we would have had no right to mention Mr. Hiden's name in connection with the article. That position is generally understood we believe among the newspaper Fraternity. We will state, however, for Mr. Hiden' benefit, that we did not know that he was the author of the article, and we had not been reliably informed upon that point.

For the Post. REPUBLICAN MEETING IN BRUNSWICK.

Speeches by Thomas H. Sutton, Esq. of Bladen, and Col. Chas D. Allen of Brunswick-Red Hot Balls fall ing thick in the ranks of the shattered and demoralized Democracy -Their best men leaving them.

EDITOR POST: On Tuesday, the 26th instant, during the term of the Superior Court, a large crowd of the people of Brunswick being in Smithville, a Republican meeting was held in the Court House-the building being well filled with persous from all parts of the county. Capt. E. M. Rosafy being called on, addressed the meeting in a few well timed remarks, eliciting much applause. at the conclusion of which he moved that John L. Wescott, Esq., be called to the chair. This motion being carried unanimously, Mr. Wescott, on taking the chair, stated the object of the meeting to be to give an expression of the views of the Republican people upon matters of public interest, to exercise the constitutional right of assembling All that the Post says about the together to consult for their welfare, and to hear from prominent gentlemen who had been invited to address the meeting. Lewis A. Galloway was, on motion, appointed Secretary.

After the organization, a call was made for Mr. Thomas H. Sutton, of Bladen, who was at Smithville in attendance on the Superior Court. Mr. Sutton responded in a strong speech, which held the house for some time. He said that for several years he had said but point of our remarks. The article does little on politics; that in 1868 he acted not confound the Recorder with partizan with the Conservative party, and bepapers, nor even intimates that he is lieved it to be right, but that he had the writer of a Democratic article. Af- long since discovered that its leaders ter speaking of our being constantly were bound by no principle save the yearning for place and power; that they we gave two distinct positions as fol- had conceded and adopted every radilows, properly paragraphed. The first cal measure which in the beginning one says: "The cry of the Southern | they had taught him to oppose and hate, democracy now is, that they are the and that finally they had committed the grand act of political stultification and treachery by nominating and supporting ceive them." The next paragraph says: for the Presidency the great chief of Radicalism and President of the Union League. For these men to talk about consistency or principle is the most stupendous impudence and effrontery. He was a faithful and earnest member of have italicised this time to show the that party for a while, and, being a Democrat, he had been, like nearly all other young men of that party, a ku klux. Yes, Mr. President, they got me into the klan, but when I found out what they were, I quit them and denounits correspondent with claiming to be | ced them as a set of assassins, cutthroats, and thieves. No such party but the Southern Democracy. The Re- ought to be countenanced by a people it charges by intimation, as we state would submit to these leaders no longer. The time for propping up this party by persecution and proscription had passed. Men will be free; and these selfconstituted leaders of politics and society, claiming to have all the wealth and all the intelligence, will soon find that they have nothing but the scorn and contempt of a betrayed and indignant people. Mr. Sutton continued for some time, discussing various themes. He made a marked impression. His delivery is excellent, his manner attractive, and there is about his style an appearance of honest conviction, determination and pluck, which carries his utterances straight to the popular heart.

He was followed by Colonel D.

C. Allen, a gentleman too well known to the people of Brunswick to need any introduction. Col. Allen, after announcing his purpose henceforth to act with the Republican party, proceeded to give his reasons for this determination in a speech of much eloquence and power. He said he was tired of acting with a party which put him on one platform this year and the next year required him to take back all he had said, and advocate the very measures which he had been opposing and denouncing. He had eaten enough dirt in this conservative party, and he now wanted it understood that he was done with it. They had year by year adopted the measures of the Republican party, at the same time asking the people to rebuke and put down the party which had built their own platform. If they were honest in their professions, then there is but one party in the country, and that is the Republican party. He had not yet learned to profess one thing and be another. As they had led him on to adopt Republican principles and had carried him step by step to the Republican platform, he proposed now to stand on it and stay there. He yielded to no man in affection for the South and her people. He had rendered services in the war which he thought might possibly be compared with the records of some of the leaders of this conservative party. He stood by the cause and the flag until the last gun was fired. He fought his way to promotion, and whatever of honor or credit he may have won was achieved on thirty-two battle fields. He was not THE ashamed of this, neither was he ashamed now to stand by the side of the most gallant of his comrades in the ranks of the Republican party. As he was true to the South in the hour of danger and adversity, so now he would stand by his government and his country.

The speeches were frequently applauded and great enthusiasm prevailed. Cheers were given for Col. Allen and Mr. Sutton and the importance of the positions taken by these gentlemen fully appreciated.

Brunswick county will give a large Republican majority next year.

Raleigh seems to be in carnest about having cotton and woolen factories, and the city authorities are considering a proposition to exempt them for taxation for ten years. Newbern Republic-Courier pitches into a St. Louis Advertising Agency and seems to be quite mad too, and all because the Agency fellows wants Nason to do $15 worth of printing send them $1 50 worth of newspapers for $2 10 net cash in advance.

The Raleigh people are on the qui vive in anticipation of the coming of that most charming actress and great favorite, Katie Putman. Wilmington is full of happy anticipations too at seeing little Katie, and will give her a rousing reception when she comes.

The affairs of the old Girard estate, at Philadelphia, are so prosperous that it is proposed to increase the facilities of Girard College, in order to take a much larger number of pupils.

The Leavenworth man who wants to bet his wife can walk five hundred miles in three weeks has been exposed. It was but a shallow device through which | T OCKS HINGES, BOLTS, &c., of every to get three weeks peace and quictness.
