"Cesarism"
The New York Herald is still harping upon a third term for President Grant, with such persistence that many editors who had given the subject no particular attention, have, after reading these articles day after day, come to the conclusion that it would be a beneficial move, and are advocating it in their columns. This is the natural result of such constant and persistent labor as witnessed in the Herald. Ostensibly opposing this "third term principle," it is kept so constantly before the people that though at first condemning, they now look on passively, and eventually may advocate it. The Herald is also publishing "interviews" with prominent Southern politicians and public men, and giving us columns of their opinions in relation to political affairs, all of which only tend to strengthen the North in favor of the third term. It seems to us as though the aim of the Herald's labors was to prepare the way for the third term it so loudly pretends to condemn. The question is so premature, and there are so many prominent Republicans who are willing to serve their country in that capacity, that we do not consider President Grant's chances as brilliant for an election as some others, even though the third term bug-bear was out of the way. But as we say above, the question is premature.

The Herald got very wisely answered by General "Joe" Johnson the other day, when one of its correspondents sought to interview him. It would have been better for all concerned if Mr. Jeff Davis had set a similar example. The following is Gen. Johnson's letter as published in the Herald:

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, August 26, 1873.

E. CUTHBERT, Esq.
Dear Sir—I have had the honor to receive the note of to-day, in which you ask me, on the part of the New York Herald, to reply to certain political questions.

It would give me pleasure to have the privilege of doing so, but not being a citizen of the United States I do not possess my political opinions. Most respectfully yours,
J. E. JOHNSTON.

As a news paper, the Herald stands at the head of the profession, and its columns are eagerly examined by hundreds of thousands of readers every day in the year; but as a political guide or beacon to the people, it is as unreliable as a "will-o'-the-wisp," and does not pretend to advocate any party, platform or political system. Its articles, therefore, do not carry that weight they otherwise would. To be sure, some of the Southern country papers, in quoting these "Cesarism" articles, have stated editorially that it is a "radical" paper, but this it emphatically denies, and it certainly ought to know. Its managers ought to know their own business, but for the life of us we cannot see the use of harping upon this dull string and striving day after day to force it into prominence.

The democratic press of this State in their intense hatred of Ben Butler have, while denouncing him, abused poor little helpless Massachusetts because he wanted to be Governor. Now that Ben has failed to get the nomination and has withdrawn from the contest we look to see Massachusetts praised. We hope our State press will do this for the old Bay State may suffer if ignored by them, and that would be bad. We would suggest that Southerners who abuse Massachusetts and all within her borders, should refrain from patronizing her books, manufactories and other products. Don't abuse a people and then buy their wares.

M. Edmond About takes the place of the late M. Philarette Charles as Paris correspondent of the London Athenaeum.

Miss Minnie E. Sherman, daughter of Gen. Sherman, arrived last Tuesday at Dresden from Vienna, where she has been staying a week, the guest of General and Mrs. Philip Sidney Post, at the Hotel Britannia.

A young lady in Washington is charged with keeping a light burning in the parlor until very late on Sunday nights in order to "harrow" the sensitive feelings of an envious neighbor into the belief that she has really got a beau.

Mrs. H. M. Barnard, of Washington, who went to Europe, under an appointment of the Secretary of the Treasury, to look into the subject of emigration, has arrived in Paris, and is stopping at the Hotel Britannia.

EDITORIAL BUDGET.

— Women at Glen Cove, Long Island, last Friday night tarred and feathered a woman they suspected of improper actions.

— Highway robbers stopped the stage near Pleasant Valley, Idaho, coming south, and took the treasure of Wells, Fargo & Co.

— The officials of the Brooklyn Trust Company issued a circular denying the statement that the company was unable to meet all its liabilities.

— The frigate Constellation, with the naval cadets on board, arrived at Fortress Monroe Tuesday. She will remain a few days before proceeding to Annapolis.

— Com. Meade and other officers visited the President with an invitation to join them in celebrating the anniversary of the capture of the city of Mexico.

— Professor Marsh, of the Yale College exploring expedition, will remain at Salt Lake some days, and then go to Oregon. His explorations in Wyoming Territory have been exceedingly successful.

— Some excitement has been caused in Charleston on Tuesday by a band of negro strikers, who have visited the principal mills in the city, and by threats of violence forced the hands to strike for $2.50 per day. The employers declining to pay this rate, the mills have been closed, and nearly 2,000 laborers are out of employment.

— Among the projected monuments in the New York Central Park are those of William H. Seward, Daniel O'Connell, Elias Howe, jr., Robert Burns and Kosciusko. The means for the erection of the statues of Messrs. Seward and Howe have been secured, subscriptions are being received for those of O'Connell and Burns, and a subscription is about to be started for that of Kosciusko.

— The annual meeting of the American Public Health Association will begin in New York on Thursday, November 11, rather than at Providence, R. I., during the present month, as was proposed at the last meeting at Cincinnati. The postponement is due to the continuance of cholera in the Southwest, which it is proposed to discuss at length after a further time for studying it has elapsed. The circulation has issued 23,000 copies of a tract on the sanitary methods to be taken to prevent the disease.

— Among the outside attractions of the circus exhibition upon the Belair lot, Baltimore, was advertised to be a balloon ascension. A large crowd was attracted to the spot to see the show. A covered trench had been prepared, and at the end a large fire was kindled, and at the other a huge iron affair was placed, connected by the trench with the fire, over which vessel the balloon was inflated. Between twelve and one o'clock the aeronaut took his place in the basket of the balloon, which looked rather the worse for its summer tour, and accompanied by the music by the brass band, the rope was cut and the balloon shot rapidly upward. After reaching a considerable height, it was observed that a large rent had been torn into the upper part of the canvas, and the balloon descended as rapidly as it had ascended. The aeronaut jumped out upon the roof of a three-story house, No. 80 North Exeter street, and was uninjured, reaching terra firma by climbing in at an attic window and descending by the stairs. The balloon fell to the ground in a state of inglorious collapse in the front yard of the same dwelling, and was carted back to the starting point in a rather dilapidated condition.

— At 4 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon the Jersey City ferry boat New York was on her way from Courtlandt street to Jersey City heavily laden with freight and passengers. In the rear of the boat stood one of Adams' express wagons, loaded with trunks, valises, quarters of beef and other miscellaneous commodities. Two horses were attached to the vehicle, and as the boat approached the slip the animals, frightened by the backward movement of a team ahead, began to back furiously towards the stern of the boat. The wheels were caught for a time by the chains, but the horses continued to move with increased energy, and all of a sudden pushed the wagon into the river. The horses followed, and the excitement on board became intense. It appears that there was a very large coffin on the wagon, encasing a corpse, and, this becoming known, added to the excitement that prevailed. The entire load—trunks, wagon, coffin and all—floated down the stream and sunk. One of the struggling horses was saved; the other was drowned. It was one of the most remarkable occurrences witnessed in a long time, such accidents being very rare. The ferry authorities will now do every thing to prevent similar casualties.
