Monday. September 15th, 1873.

We have heard so much of the nonsensical cry of "carpet baggers," that we have compiled a few facts for the benefit of these shrickers. We have always claimed that a citizen of one State, under the constitution, had the rights of citizenship in any of the States, but North Carolina soil is so sacred that men from other States-if they happen to be Republicans are made to feel that they are not welcome. Now let us see what the census of 1870 informs us. These figures are reliable, and cannot be ridiculed away. The following table gives the number of inhabitants born in North Carolina, but living in

So we see that there is the vast number of 307,362 persons, born in this State, residing within the United States, who could be as properly called carpet baggers as those dwelling within North Carolina's borders. Here is an array of unanswerable figures for these gentry to examine. " We could extend the statistics to professions and trades, but this will suffice. When it is remembered that the signers of the Declaration of Independence for this State were "carpet baggers," and not one of them a native North Carolinian, we are not by any means sure that the term can be construed to one of repreach. The "signers" representing North Carolina on that memorable occasion were William Hooper, born in Boston, Mass. and John Penn, born in Caroline connty, Virginia. Massachusetts, which is so reviled by some of the editors in this State, furnished ten of the signers, and Virginia eight. We regret to say that no native North Carolinian placed his name upon that sacred instrument. Those were the good old days when a mons. Planchon, the French agent man was welcome, without sectional differences. While the Democrats are repining for the "days of our fathers," and the "Constitution as it was," let them remember that in those good old days there was none of this foolish distinction, and every man, laboring for the country, was welcome.

Some statistics of lunacy, just pubished, show that by far the larger port tion of women who lose their reason are widows, while a very small fraction of those who go mad are single. In view of this fact, we entreat our young readers who contemplate becoming widows to pause and reflect before they take a step which threatens such terrible results.

No woman can regard these statistics with the serious consideration to which they are entitled, and then deliberately accept the proposition to become a wid-ow. It will be far wiser to strive earnestly and energetically to enter that state of single-plessedness which brings peace of mind and fewer chances of loss of Wake is quiet--no fights, murders or stirring events to report-but it may be of interest to some of your readers to get an occasional news letter from the capital of this quiet old State, the post litical headquarters.

We call this the City of Oaks, and a stranger is struck with the appropriateness of the name as soon as he arrives, for we may venture the assertion that n no city on this continent does that grand old giant of the ferest grow to such perfection as in Raleigh.

The spirit of improvement is rife in our midst, and in every quarter fine stores and residences are being built, while pavements upon the streets at becoming more general, upon which latter fact we found our hopes of f'keeping our feet out the miry clay" during the coming winter.

The old Post Office shanty, which has been an evesore to the fastidious for years, has been moved about forty yards to the Court House square, and preparations are being made to commence the structure of the United States Court Room and Post Office. Conjectures are now being made as to when it will be finished, and the guesses, for they are nothing else, vary from one to three years when the "capstone of the cor, ner" is placed in position, but as the house-mover-who by the way belongs to the Smith family-says large bodies move slowly, we cannot calculate the time. That the work is begun we know, and that it will be finished we believe but further this deponent sayeth not.

improved, and the grounds of the Publie Square were never better kept that under the present keeper, all of which might be recognized were he of another politicaj way of thinking. Under the paint and scrubbing brush, much of the accumulated filth is disappearing, and everything assuming a neat and tidy appearance. Raleigh will be a city, the eloquence of Cicero (Harris) in dubbing it Wake Court House to the contrary notwithstanding.

R. A. Shotwell, the kuklux prisoner, who has been in prison at Albany, N. and the hero of many grandiloquent, serio-comic, lunatic editorials in the News and Sentinel, arrived on the R. & G. R. R. this afternoon, and is stopping who has been in prison at Albany, N G. R. R. this afternoon, and is stopping at the Yarbrough House. The News of to-day, after a characteristic editorial of more than half a column, eloquently (?) asks, "Who had not rather be R. A. Shotwell, so condemned, so imprisoned, so manaeled, in a felon's reelly than to breath the air of freedom bought with e price of honor!" This we presume was because of the report that Mr. Shotwell refused to accept the pardon, and it is a pity he arrived just now a free man, with the pardon referred to, and his estate, will be held attacourt of bankspoiled to many good selitorials on his spoiled so many good editorials on his before William A. The Sentinel is still quarreling with the Daily News and publishing those old nauseating editorials of the mongrel autocrat (as he thinks) of the Democrats.
